Of Article V of the Constitution:

Section 4. The returns of every election for Governor shall be sealed up and transmitted to the seat of government directed to the Speaker of the Assembly, who shall, during the first week of the session, open and publish them in the presence of both houses of the Legislature. The person having the highest number of votes shall be Governor; but in case any two or more have an equal and highest number of votes, the Legislature shall, by joint vote of both houses, choose one of such persons so having an equal and the highest number of votes for Governor.

Section 15. A Lieutenant-Governor shall be elected at the same time and places, and in the same manner, as the Governor, and his term of office and his qualifications of eligibility shall also be the same. He shall be President of the Senate, but shall have only a casting vote therein. If, during a vacancy of the office of Governor, the Lieutenant-Governor shall be impeached, displaced, resign, die, or become incapable of performing the duties of his office, or be absent from the State, the President pro tempore of the Senate shall act as Governor until the vacancy be filled or the disability shall cease. The Lieutenant-Governor shall be disqualified from holding any other office except as specially provided in this Constitution, during the term for which he shall have been elected.

Of the Political Code:

When an election has been held to fill the office of Governor or Lieutenant Governor, the Clerk of each county, in addition to the abstract made for transmission to the Secretary of State, must, as soon as the statement of the vote of his county is made out and entered upon the records of the Boards of Supervisors, make two certified abstracts of so much thereof as relates to the vote given for such officers.

Section 1293. The Clerk must seal up each abstract separately, and endorse thereon "Election Returns for Governor and Lieutenant-Governor."

Section 1294. He must at once direct one copy to the Speaker of the Assembly next to meet, address it to Sacramento, California, and deposit it, postpaid, in the postoffice.

Section 1295. The other copy he must direct and address, in the same manner, and at once deliver it to a member elect of the Legislature, or to a Senator who holds over; and the person to whom it is so directed must deliver it to the Speaker on or before the second day next after his election.

Section 1296. The returns for election for Governor and Lieutenant-Governor must, during the first week of the session, be opened, canvassed, and the result declared by the Speaker of the Assembly, in presence of both houses.

Section 1297. No declaration of the result, commission or certificate, must be withheld on account of any defect or informality in the return of any election if it can with reasonable certainty be ascertained from such return what office is intended, and who is elected thereto.

On the day succeeding that on which a final vote on any bill or resolution has been taken said vote may be reconsidered on the motion of any member, provided, notice of intention to move such a reconsideration shall have been given on the day on which such final vote was taken, by a member voting with the majority; and it shall not be in order for any member to move a reconsideration on the day on which such final vote was taken. Said motion of reconsideration shall have precedence over every other motion, except a motion to adjourn. In taking the ayes and noes, and upon call of the House, the names of the members shall be taken alphabetically, and the Clerk shall enter on the Journal the names of those demanding the ayes and noes.

62. Members at Clerk's Desk.

No member or other person shall remain by the Clerk's table while the ayes and noes are being called or while the votes are being counted.

63. Voting on Question When Interested.

No person shall vote on any question in the result of which he is personally interested or involved.

64. Division and Count of House.

Upon a division and count of the House on any question, no person without the bar shall be counted.

65. Explaining or Changing Vote.

No member shall be allowed to explain his vote or discuss the question while the ayes and noes are being called, and no member shall be allowed to change his vote after the vote is announced from the chair.

66. Call of the House.

Upon a call of the House, the names of the members shall be called over by the Clerk, and the absentees noted, after which the names of the absentees shall again be called over. The door shall then be shut, and those for whom no excuse or insufficient excuses are made, may, by order of those present, be taken into custody, as they appear, or may be sent for and taken into custody by the Sergeant-at-Arms, wherever to be found, or by special messenger, to be appointed for that purpose. In the absence of a quorum, a majority of the members present may order a call of the House, and compel the attendance of absentees in the manner above provided. No recess can be taken during a call of the House.

67. Suspending and Changing Rules.

No standing rule or order of the House shall be rescinded or changed without a vote of two thirds, and one day's notice being given of the motion therefor; provided, that the Committee on Rules and Regulations may at any time, except during a roll call, report a temporary rule providing for the consideration of any bill on the files of the House belonging to either of the following classes:

1. Bills affecting the State government, its revenue, its various departments or commissions, or appropriations therefor.

2. Bills affecting county and township governments, or roads and highways

3. Bills affecting town, city, city and county governments, or the municipal affairs of the same.

4. Bills amending election or primary election laws.

5. Constitutional Amendments.

6. Bills amending or repealing the Codes or sections thereof.

Such temporary rule shall provide when a bill so selected shall be taken up for consideration, and the time when final vote shall be taken thereon and pending amendments thereto, if there be any.

It shall always be in order to call up for consideration such report. The same shall be subject to amendment by the House.

On the adoption of such temporary rule by the House by a two-thirds vote thereof, if the bill be on third reading, and by a majority vote of the members elected to the House, if otherwise, such bill shall thereupon be made the special order for the time fixed therein.

A rule of order may be suspended temporarily by a vote of two thirds of the members present, except that portion of Rule 6 relating to third reading of bills. A motion or resolution proposing to increase or diminish a standing committee shall not be adopted until the same has been referred to the Committee on Rules and Regulations.

The Committee on Rules and Regulations may also, at any time, report a temporary rule or regulation for the consideration of the business on the file, having regard to the condition of the business of the House. When such temporary rule or regulation shall have been adopted by the House, it shall have the effect, for the time being, of a standing rule, and shall be enforced by the Speaker.

68. Members Absenting Themselves.

No member shall absent himself from the service of the House without the leave of the House, except in case of sickness; and if any member or officer of the House absent himself without leave, his per diem shall not be allowed him; but no member shall obtain leave of absence, or be excused, without a vote of two thirds of the House.

69. Persons Admitted to Floor

No persons, except Senators, State officers, Governors, and ex-Governors of States, Members of Congress, Judges of the Supreme or Superior Courts, members of the press when accredited by their respective journals, ladies or gentlemen when specially invited by a member of the House, shall be admitted within the Assembly Chamber, except in the galleries, during the session of the House; but a majority may have the floor of the House within the bar cleared of any or all such persons. The Speaker is charged with the enforcement of this rule.

70. Smoking in Hall.

No smoking shall be allowed within the Assembly Chamber during the session of the House.

71. Parliamentary Rules.

The rules of parliamentary practice contained in Roberts' Rules of Order shall govern the House in all cases to which they are applicable, and in which they are not inconsistent with the Standing Rules and Orders of the House and the Joint Rules of the Senate and House of Assembly.

72. Use of Hall

The Assembly Room shall not be used for any public or private business other than legislative, except by consent of a majority of the House.

73. Fees for Witnesses

Witnesses summoned to appear before the House, or any of its committees, shall be paid as follows: For each day a witness shall attend, the sum of two dollars; for each mile he shall travel in coming to and going from the place of examination, the sum of ten cents. No mileage shall be paid except where the witness has actually traveled for the purpose of giving testimony.

74. Protest of Members.

It shall be in order for any member or members to protest against the action of the House, and have such protest entered upon the minutes.

75. Fees Allowed in Cases of Contest.

Whenever, in the Assembly, a contest is made for the seat of any Assemblyman, no more than two hundred dollars shall be allowed as counsel fees to either side.

76. Assignment of Attachés.

The Committee on Attachés and Employés shall assign the committee clerks and the official stenographers of the House to the various committees; provided, that the Committee on Judiciary and the Committee on Ways and Means shall each be entitled to one clerk and one stenographer, to be selected by the chairman of those committees, respectively.

All assignments of committee clerks and stenographers made by the Committee on Attachés and Employés under this rule shall be reported to the House and entered in the Journal.

77. Introduction of Bills after Fiftieth Day.

On or prior to the fiftieth day of the session the Speaker shall appoint a standing Committee on Introduction of Bills, to consist of three members.

All motions for leave to introduce bills after the fiftieth day shall be sent to the desk in writing, under the order of "Introduction of Bills," and at no other time. The motion shall give the title of the bill, and shall be accompanied by the bill. The bill shall thereupon be referred to the Committee on Introduction of Bills.

That committee shall examine bills referred to it with particular reference to the question as to whether there is already any bill in either house of the same character which might be amended to effect the result sought, and generally as to the advisability of introducing the measure.

The committee shall report upon each bill so referred to it on the same legislative day. The report shall be made at the conclusion of the consideration of the Senate Special File.

The committee may, in its discretion, incorporate more than one bill in the resolution to grant leave to introduce, incorporating in the resolution the title of each bill in full, and the roll shall be called upon the adoption of the resolution without debate.

If a division of the question is demanded upon the introduction of any particular bill, the division shall be allowed, and the roll called separately upon the bill.

78. Form for Introduction of Bills.

When a bill is introduced and when printed amending an existing law, the new matter shall be underscored, and portions of the law proposed to be omitted shall be included in brackets; provided, however, that where the subject consists of an entirely new section, the words thereof need not be underscored and that when any bill introduced repeals an existing law in whole, the matter repealed need not be put in the bill.

All bills reported favorably or for consideration, if reported with amendments, shall be immediately reprinted; the new matter underscored and the parts of the law proposed to be omitted included in brackets.

79. Leave of Absence of Committee Visiting Public Institutions.

When leave of absence shall be granted any committee, special or standing, to visit public buildings or institutions, or for any other purpose, such leave shall be granted only by a two-thirds vote taken viva voce, and no expenses or mileage of attachés shall be allowed. No member of the Assembly shall accompany a committee as a substitute for a member thereof who declines to accompany the committee, without permission for such substitution being obtained from the Speaker. Application for a leave of absence for a committee shall be made to the Assembly by the chairman thereof, by resolution, which shall give the name of the institution or institutions to be visited and briefly recite the occasion and necessity for visiting the same, together with the number of committeemen desiring leave. Such resolution shall immediately, and without debate, be referred to the Committee on Rules and Regulations, with instructions to report upon the next legislative day on the same, and whether the leave of absence can be granted without interfering with the business of the Assembly.

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR.

On motion of Mr. Stanton, the following message from the retiring Governor, the Hon. George C. Pardee, was received and read and ordered printed in the Journal:

SECOND BIENNIAL MESSAGE OF GOVERNOR GEORGE C. PARDEE.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
SACRAMENTO, January 7, 1907.

To the Senate and Assembly:

GENTLEMEN: It becomes my constitutional duty, before retiring from the office of Governor, to communicate to you such knowledge as I have respecting the condition of the State, and to present such recommendations for your consideration as appear to be necessary for the public good.

The material condition of the State, as a whole, was never better than at present nor perhaps ever before so good. California is enjoying its full share of the remarkable prosperity of the whole country, and all business enterprises are being amply rewarded. This favorable situation of our State appears truly remarkable when it is remembered that the disaster of April 18, 1906, resulted in a destruction of property values of at least half a billion dollars and in a temporary suspension of all business in the commercial metropolis of the Pacific Coast. For six weeks the banks were closed, and yet they have now so well recovered the lost ground that the clearings for the past year have been greater than for the year which preceded it. The settlement of insurance losses soon will have replaced nearly one half of the direct losses from the great fire, and San Francisco is already well started upon a new career of prosperity which will eclipse all that went before. San José, Santa Rosa, and other cities which suffered seriously are displaying like recuperative powers. Meantime, the general progress of the State has been unaffected, except that it appears to have been accelerated, rather than retarded. Our farms and our mines have yielded their golden returns to industry; the lumberman, the manufacturer, and every other producer who has been called upon to aid in replacing the waste of the late disaster finds the demand for his products larger than he can meet, and 1906 will pass into financial history as a banner year for California, in spite of the unparalleled calamity which came so unexpectedly.

The outlook for the future is now far different from what it seemed last June, when I called the Legislature together in extraordinary session. At that time the problem was to provide such legislation as would tide the State safely over a period of impending distress, and the measures demanded and adopted were those of pressing temporary expediency. Now the dangers which threatened, and which were so ably met by the Legislature at that special session, have passed away, and the Legislature can again take the long look ahead and frame its policies on the lines of permanence.

I congratulate you, gentlemen of the Senate and Assembly, upon this happy deliverance of the State from serious peril, and I bid you god-speed in the important tasks you are called upon to undertake.

REFORM OF THE REVENUE SYSTEM.

It affords me pleasure, as I am about to retire from the office of Governor, to be able to announce that a good beginning has been made in the direction of a reform of our system of State taxation—an important subject which I called to the attention of the Legislature in my inaugural address in 1903 and again in my biennial message in 1905. On both of those occasions I referred to the glaring deficiencies of the existing system, which, though supposed to be founded on equality, operates most unequally and unjustly. The Legislature of 1905 gave the matter serious consideration, with the result that there was created a State Commission on Revenue and Taxation, composed of two members of the Senate, two of the Assembly, the Governor, and an expert appointed by him. The members representing the Senate were Hon. M. L. Ward and Hon. J. B. Curtin, and the members from the Assembly were Hon. W. H. Waste (who soon resigned and was succeeded by Hon. E. F. Treadwell) and Hon. H. S. G. McCartney. Prof. C. C. Plehn, of the University of California, was appointed expert.

The Commission so composed organized soon after the Legislature adjourned and has prosecuted its important task with due diligence during the past two years. It has collected a mass of valuable information respecting the operation of the present revenue laws, which only serves to reveal more plainly their imperfections, and it has agreed upon the basis of a new system which it is believed will avoid the most serious objections to the old and will come much nearer doing justice to all interests and classes. With whatever difference of views the six members of the Commission may have entered upon the study of the subject, they were in entire agreement in the conclusions ultimately reached, and which were embodied in a preliminary report published last August. The final report, now completed, which will be laid before the Legislature, differs from the preliminary report only in minor details so far as affects the measures proposed and in presenting, in greater detail, the information collected.

A New System Outlined—In my former message to the Legislature I advocated the separation, so far as it could be accomplished, of State and local taxation as being the necessary first step toward the reform desired. This is the conclusion reached by the Commission, and it has devised a form of separation which it believes will be both practicable and equitable. Briefly stated, it consists in taking for the exclusive use of the State all the taxes to be derived from certain classes of corporations; also the poll tax, inheritance taxes, insurance taxes, franchise taxes, and fees collected by State officers. If the product of all these taxes, at the rates suggested by the Commission, shall be retained by the State, it is estimated that there will result a revenue for State purposes of from $9,000,000 to $10,500,000, which would be sufficient to meet all demands upon the State treasury at the present rate of expenditure, including the support of the public schools. For the support of county, city, town, and other local governments there would be left the entire product of the taxes upon real estate and personal property, which they are now compelled to share with the State government. One of the greatest advantages to accrue from such a division of the different sources of revenue between the State and local governments would be that it would at once end all of the causes of dissatisfaction arising out of the equalization by a State board of the assessments of the different counties. Each county and each city or town could then have a high or a low assessment of property values as might best suit local conditions, without the possibility of doing injustice to other communities.

The inauguration of such a system as this can only be accomplished by amendment of the Constitution, and the proposal made by the Commission on Revenue and Taxation is that the present Legislature shall submit to the people, to be voted on at the next general election, a constitutional amendment legalizing the suggested change. The method proposed for the taxation of public-service corporations and also of insurance companies is that of exacting a percentage of their gross earnings. Thus, it is proposed that all railroad companies, including street railroad companies, shall pay on their gross receipts earned within the State of California not less than four nor more than five per cent (the precise rate to be fixed by the Legislature); all sleeping-car, dining-car, drawing-room car, and palace-car companies, and refrigerator, oil, stock, fruit, and other car-loading and other car companies, not less than four nor more than five per cent; express companies, three per cent; telegraph and telephone companies, three and one-half per cent; gas and electric companies, not less than four nor more than five per cent. Insurance companies are to pay two per cent upon their gross premiums received on business done in the State, and banks and trust companies to pay one per cent upon the book value of their shares of capital stock. It is also proposed that all corporations shall pay to the State a tax of one-twentieth of one per cent upon their authorized capital stock.

An Estimate of Probable Revenues.—Assuming the adoption of this plan of taxation, the revenues, old and new, for the support of the State government will be about as follows:

Old Revenues Retained or Only Slightly Changed:

1. The poll tax	$500,000
2. The inheritance tax.....	300,000
3. Insurance taxes and fees.....	300,000
4. Official fees, sundry offices.....	250,000
5. Collections by State boards and institutions..	225,000
6. Earnings of State property and investments..	1,000,000
	$2,575,000

New Sources of State Revenue:

1. Railroads, including street railroads.....	$3,800,000
2. Express companies.....	120,000
3. Car companies.....	75,000
4. Telegraph and telephone companies.....	210,000
5. Light, heat, and power companies.....	600,000
6. Franchises	500,000
7. Banks	1,500,000
	<hr/>
	6,805,000
	$9,380,000

These amounts are computed on the lower of the two rates suggested for railroad and other corporations, and if the higher rates are adopted the total estimated income for State purposes is increased to $10,500,000. It is proposed to insert the rates of tax in the Constitution, subject to the power of the Legislature to change them once in six years.

The rates suggested by the Commission have been computed with a great deal of care after very full investigation. The effect of their adoption would be to compel the corporations named to pay, in nearly all instances, more taxes than at present, and in some cases much more. Yet it is not believed these rates would do an injustice to the corporations, which could well afford to pay something additional in consideration of the advantage of always knowing just what their taxes would be in proportion to their income and being relieved of all fears of unexpected and possibly unjust assessments.

That the plan proposed would solve the revenue problem for the State government can not be doubted by any one who will carefully investigate. Our public-service corporations are growing rapidly, and the revenue derived from taxing them upon their gross receipts will increase to meet the increasing needs of the State. This has been the experience of other states which have adopted this plan of taxation in whole or in part. Only recently it was announced that the State of Wisconsin had found it unnecessary to levy any State tax because the revenues from indirect taxation were ample to meet all needs. Several other states have adopted a plan similar to that proposed by the Commission.

I urge upon the Legislature that it give its serious attention to this subject; that it review the work of the Commission, and determine the exact percentages of gross income tax to be levied, and that the constitutional amendment, when perfected, be submitted to the voters at the election two years hence. The people can be trusted to settle the question wisely. It has now been under discussion for four years, and when the discussion shall have extended over six years surely every intelligent citizen of California can be trusted to form his own opinion.

Our present law of taxation is antiquated and thoroughly discredited. Every State in the Union having one like it is dissatisfied and trying to effect an improvement. The plan suggested by the California Commission on Revenue and Taxation is along the lines which have been followed in the most advanced states and those whose revenue systems are now in the most satisfactory condition. There will be no more auspicious time than the present to refer the issue to the people, and by doing this the present Legislature can earn the gratitude of all citizens who are groaning under the unjust burdens of the present system, and praying for a better one.

PRIMARY ELECTION AND CONVENTION REFORM.

By a general consensus of opinion, the time has arrived when the citizens of California should proceed to effect certain needed changes in the methods by which candidates for office are nominated: and since the primary election lies at the root thereof, it is quite natural that there should be a demand that the reform shall commence at that point. Thus we find both of the old parties pledged by their latest State platforms to the inauguration of what is known as the direct primary.

This term does not appear to mean the same thing in all of the several states which claim to have direct primary laws, but in its most radical form the direct primary implies the nomination of all party candidates, State, county, and municipal, by direct popular vote. It would also follow from this that party committees, if still continuing to exist, would be of greatly diminished importance. In other words, this very thorough-going remedy for the admitted evils of conventions and of State and county committees consists in the practical annihilation of the system of which they are the principal parts.

But in certain states where the direct primary idea has found lodgment it has been applied in a modified way, conventions being retained but the voters being given the privilege of indicating on their ballots their choice of candidates, and the delegates being bound by the popular choice up to a certain point. The states of Oregon and Wisconsin have adopted the direct primary in its pure and unmodified form; Minnesota has done the same as to all local and district officers, but not as to State officers, who are still nominated in conventions; Illinois and North Dakota retain the conventions along with direct popular vote for candidates. In Iowa the Legislature has given serious consideration to a law of the latter type, but has not yet adopted it.

The Operation of the California Law.—There is little if any doubt that in its unmodified form the direct primary would be, at present, unconstitutional in California. At the general election in the year 1900 the Constitution was amended in the supposed interest of primary election reform, but the language of the amendment appears to exclude any primaries except those for the election of delegates to conventions. The statute of 1901, following the amendment, throws around primaries for the election of delegates the same safeguards as are provided for general elections; but the law makes these legalized primaries compulsory only in the twelve most populous cities of the State, and leaves it optional with the voters of other communities to adopt the system if they care to do it. They have not cared to do it, and, in consequence, in the greater portion of the State, delegates to conventions may be chosen in any manner desired by the party committees.

In most instances delegates to conventions which are to nominate county or municipal candidates are chosen at informal primaries, but very often in the cases of State and district conventions, including those which nominate Congressmen, Railroad Commissioners, Members of the Board of Equalization, and Judges of the District Courts of Appeal, the delegates are appointed by the county committees. The present law permits this thoroughly unrepresentative practice, and that is one of its greatest weaknesses. By such methods the people are prevented from taking any effective part in the making of nominations which concern them most vitally, and the way is opened for boss and corporation control.

To comprehend the full meaning of the system it is necessary to bear in mind that if a handful of politicians denominated a committee can appoint the delegates to a convention, they can usually perpetuate their power, because the convention thus composed appoints the new committee, which can in turn appoint the next convention. In other instances conventions composed of delegates elected at informal primaries name the delegates to State and district conventions, and this is better, because more nearly representative, than the appointment of delegates by committees; but this plan of indirect election is itself often very unsatisfactory and can not be entirely commended.

If the convention system is to be retained, as seemingly it must be until the Constitution is amended, the primary law should require the direct election by popular vote of all delegates to State and district, as well as county, conventions. Only by being kept in close touch with the people can a party organization be representative, and when it ceases to be representative it immediately becomes dangerous. That party control should be based upon the will of the party voters is universally admitted in principle, but in practice the principle is easily lost sight of, and though at first no evil result may be apparent from the acceptance of unrepresentative practices, a party organization which gets out of close relation with the mass of voters will cease to work in their interest; instead of being an instrumentality to give effect to the will of the people, which is the only rational function of an organization, it tends to become a means of thwarting and defeating it.

More Truly Representative Committees.—Direct popular election of delegates would do much to improve our nominating conventions by making them more representative, but at the same time equal care should be taken to secure representative committees to manage party affairs. I am of the opinion that State and county committees should never be named by or during conventions, but that the members should be chosen directly by the voters at the same time that delegates are elected. A member of a governing committee usually exercises more influence in the direction of party control than a delegate to a convention, and if there is ground for holding that the latter should be chosen only by popular vote, much more should that be the case with the committeeman. And when a State or county committee has been chosen by the party voters, the law should not permit such committee to be set aside, on the specious pretense of creating a State Executive Committee, or a Campaign Committee, or any other kind of committee devised and fathered by politicians. In former times, before political bosses had become so fertile in expedients, a State Central Committee was the governing body of the party in the State at all times when a convention was not in session, but to-day a State Central Committee is, at least in that party which is usually in a majority in California, no more than a meaningless name. Most voters do not realize this, but it is a fact. Real control is exercised by a body called a State Executive Committee, which is not a sub-committee of the State Central Committee, nor appointed by it, but is entirely independent of it and is a creation of the one-man power: it is appointed after the convention by the chairman of the latter, or, as has sometimes happened, by the candidate for Governor. When an election campaign is on the State Central Committee holds no meetings; it does not even elect its own president and secretary, for the officers designated for the State Executive Committee become those of the State Central Committee, which is thus captured, or dominated, by the body appointed to supplant it. The only function which appears to be left to the once-powerful State Central Committee is to meet once in two years and decide when and where the next convention shall be held.

A New Political Encroachment.—As if this perversion of party organization were not bad enough, the past year has witnessed another departure more surprising than any which preceded it. In the State convention of the majority party there was adopted, without debate, and seemingly without a thought, the strange proposition that henceforth the retiring State Executive Committee shall appoint the temporary chairman of the coming convention. Whatever may have been the motive with which this innovation was proposed, it is easy to see to what it will lead. A clique which may happen to be in control of the old committee will have it within its power to program the State convention through the temporary chairman, who is the only important chairman, because he appoints the committees on credentials, on organization, and on platform. When the State Central Committee was unhorsed by the State Executive Committee the party's governing body ceased to be representative of the people; the proposal to deprive the State convention of the power to organize itself is an extension of the same kind of politics and is an attempt to prevent the party voters from having any effective representation in State conventions. If one could really persuade himself that a State convention made up of intelligent citizens of California would actually permit itself to be denied the exercise of the right to organize and govern itself, there would be the strongest of justifications for joining with those radical reformers who demand the abolishment of conventions at once and forever.

Abuses in the Convention System.—But whether or not the next Republican State Convention shall surrender its right of self-government, it is only fair to admit that the convention system as now conducted develops some evils for which misrepresentation of the people is not wholly responsible, although the evils are greatly aggravated thereby. By far the worst of these evils is the making of combinations whereby nominations cease to represent the honest preferences of a majority of the delegates and become a mere matter of "trading" or worse. The adoption of this practice in State conventions is the prolific parent of innumerable abuses, but in particular it facilitates domination by bosses and corporate interests. If these interests can succeed at the beginning in controlling absolutely only a small minority of the delegates, they may hope, by making a series of trading combinations, to capture the more important nominations and even to dictate for their own benefit the selection of judges for our highest courts. Further than this political demoralization could hardly go while keeping up even a pretense of self-government by the people.

Nevertheless, the genesis of this evil, as of most evils of politics, is in the people themselves, who are frequently so anxious to promote the success of local candidates that they do not stop to think of the ultimate consequences of setting in operation the dangerous system of trading combinations. They begin trading to secure what they believe to be a worthy object, and in the end they are traded out of control of the party and out of decency and self-respect. The special misfortune of the convention system is that it furnishes such a fertile field for the cultivation of this alarming abuse, and it is difficult to see how it can be remedied without either some essential modification of the convention or its abolishment, as many advocates of the direct primary propose.

Opinions Concerning the Direct Primary—The direct primary, in one form or another, now exists in Oregon, Montana, North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Mississippi, and Texas, and, in the hope of ascertaining how far it is a practical working success, I addressed inquiries to the Governors of those states. In response I received letters generally affirming the success of the experiment, but admitting a few objections or suggesting certain changes. Thus, Governor Chamberlain of Oregon wrote that the effects in his State had been salutary, that the direct primary tends to eliminate bosses and machine politics, and that it will in future be still more beneficial, because the voters will understand better the responsibilities devolved upon them. The principal objection found in Oregon was the large expense imposed upon candidates, who were compelled to make, practically, two campaigns. To remedy this Governor Chamberlain proposes a legal limitation of the amount of such expenditures.

Governor Johnson, in his reply, conceded that there are defects in the Minnesota law, which applies to city, county, and district nominations; efforts have been made to extend its operations to State nominations, but they have failed because, as Governor Johnson believes, no feasible plan has been presented. In the main the new method of making nominations has proved itself to be an improvement upon the convention plan, and it is a great promoter of independent voting.

Governor Davidson of Wisconsin wrote that the law in that State proved itself upon the first trial to be "very satisfactory" and that "nothing but words of commendation of it" were heard. Nevertheless, the Wisconsin law is admittedly imperfect as it stands, Governor Davidson saying: "What appears to me to be one of the chief faults in the statute is the opportunity it gave Democrats in Wisconsin to make the Republican nominations. The Republican party * * * is almost supreme in Wisconsin. Very few votes were cast for Democratic candidates here on September 4th, that party generally preferring to make the Republican nominations." This would indicate that a direct primary, to be conducted fairly, must go hand-in-hand with a strict party registration law which will render it impossible for a voter to participate in any primary contest except that of the party to which he professes to belong.

A Compromise Law in Illinois—The Illinois law represents a compromise, which was adopted principally because it was feared that the direct primary pure and simple would lead to the making of many nominations by such small numbers of voters that such nominations would be as unrepresentative as the work of the worst convention. Therefore, while conventions were abolished in the making of municipal nominations, they are retained in all other cases. But when the voters cast their ballots for delegates they also vote for candidates for the various offices, including United States Senator. Moreover, it is left optional with counties to abolish conventions in making county nominations, if they choose to do so. Delegates are required to cast at least one ballot for the candidates who received a plurality vote in their respective districts; the law releases them after the first ballot in order to prevent a deadlock, but the theory seems to be that when there has been an explicit expression of the popular choice, or anything resembling it, delegates will not be likely to go far wrong. Governor Deneen asserts that the Illinois plan has worked well and believes that, with a few modifications, it will be superior to either the Minnesota or the Wisconsin method. He concedes, however, that there is still a strong feeling in his State in favor of a more uncompromising direct primary law.

It is not necessary to quote the replies received from other states, which present no points of special significance differing from the foregoing.

It will be observed that the direct primary, particularly as a method of nominating State candidates, has not yet advanced beyond the experimental stage, the existing laws being conceded by their makers to call for amendment. The objections oftenest urged against a direct primary law which dispenses with conventions are that it tends to a multiplication of candidates and hence to the making of many nominations by small fractions of the electorate, that the largest centers of population in a State and the largest towns in a county will dictate most of the nominations, because their votes will be more concentrated than those of the rural districts; that the expense to candidates, already too great under the old plan, will be largely increased; that without conventions there will be no good way of making party platforms, the Wisconsin plan of having the candidates meet after their nomination and frame the platform being open to objection. On the other hand, it is argued that the new system will naturally be improved and that all of the objections before mentioned can be overcome; also, that the voters could well afford to put up with a good many disadvantages to get rid of the evils of convention nominations effected by trading and of unrepresentative party committees. As to whether the direct primary will abolish bossism opinions differ considerably, but in fairness it must be conceded that if the boss is not destroyed by direct nominations, the most profitable field for the exercise of his arts will be removed with the passing of the convention.

Conclusions From the Foregoing.—To sum up, I have pointed out that the present method of making nominations in California is susceptible of marked improvement; that the direct election by the people of all delegates would be a long step in the right direction; that the Illinois primary law, which permits voters to vote for candidates as well as for delegates, might be added to our convention system with beneficial results, as might probably be done without constitutional amendment; that the reform of the party committee organization is also a necessity; that if it be decided not to attempt to reform the existing methods but to cast them aside and establish the direct primary in its full vigor, there is at least a fair probability that the new plan would be successful, although a constitutional amendment would be needed to accomplish it, and therefore we should be compelled to wait two years before results could be obtained.

I recommend the careful and conscientious attention of the Legislature to this matter, as demanded by the party platforms and the people of the State.

STATE FINANCES.

On assuming the duties of Governor, four years ago, I found the condition of the General Fund such that, in order to meet the expenses of the State government, it became necessary to borrow from other funds $1,368,000. In order to restore to the funds thus borrowed from, it was necessary to increase each of the tax levies for the years 1903-4 and 1904-5 nearly six cents above what would have been necessary had it not been for the deficiency in the General Fund.

The State Treasurer has been able to meet all demands upon the General Fund up to the close of the calendar year without touching a dollar of new taxes, and has a surplus of $1,000,000 for meeting appropriations to be made by the incoming Legislature. This condition has resulted from making a sufficient tax levy each year during my administration, and from a more abundant yield from certain special forms of raising State revenue than conservatism had reckoned on.

Therefore, while economy should characterize all appropriations, it will not be necessary for the incoming administration to be parsimonious in approving appropriations for meeting the real needs of public institutions and the legitimate requirements of public expenditure, a necessity that was imposed upon me when I took office by reason of the depleted condition of the State treasury.

The disaster of April 18, 1906, and succeeding days, wrought great destruction to taxable property, but the splendid prosperity enjoyed by our State has well nigh made good to the State tax roll the taxable value destroyed. The total assessed valuation of all property in the State for 1905 was $1,624,991,742. For 1906 it was $1,595,897,411; a difference of $29,094,331. There is no doubt that this deficiency has been much more than made good by increase of wealth since the last assessment was made.

Had it not been for the necessity for adding six cents to the tax levy for the first two years of my administration, in order to make up the deficiency I found in the State's funds, the average State tax rate during my four years' term would have been lower than that of the preceding administrations, except Governor Markham's. As shown above, there is, instead of a deficiency, a surplus of $1,000,000 now in the State treasury.

Betterments.—A growing population and the consequent increasing demands on our public institutions tend steadily to increase taxation. It is only when taxation begins to trench upon productive enterprise that real injury is inflicted, provided, always, that public moneys are so expended as to give a dollar's worth of value for each dollar taken from the pockets of taxpayers.

In obedience to the views above expressed I have, during my administration, been as liberal in approving appropriations designed to meet real needs of public institutions as it seemed the tax-paying power of the people could meet without hardship, and I think that the following comparisons of appropriations made for permanent improvements during my own administration and the three preceding ones will bear out this conclusion:

Markham administration.....	$1,443,764 57
Budd administration.....	1,140,375 27
Gage administration.....	826,743 83
	<hr/>
	$3,410,883 67
Pardee administration.....	3,191,372 79

Of the above amount credited to my administration only $306,500 was appropriated by the extraordinary session of 1906.

This very substantial gain in betterments was accomplished without making an excessive tax levy. The average tax levies on each $100 of assessed valuation under the three preceding administrations were as follows:

Markham administration.....	48 7 cents
Budd administration.....	52.8 cents
Gage administration.....	49 0 cents
Pardee administration.....	51.5½ cents

Legislative Expenditure.—Although excessive legislative expenditure is not under Executive control, yet the administration is, in the public mind, somewhat chargeable with it and the dominant party can not escape responsibility for it. I therefore beg leave to call the attention of the Legislature to an instructive comparison of legislative expenditure during eight legislative sessions, exclusive of legislative printing:

No Session.	Contingent Senate.	Contingent Assembly	Cost of Session
Thirty-first	$55,500 00	$63,359 19	$196,409 59
Thirty-second	46,714 69	70 000 00	203,300 16
Thirty-third	35,431 09	24,707 53	170,629 57
Thirty-third, extra.....	1,351 87	3,000 00	31,881 87
Thirty-fourth	35,996 00	47,247 39	198,233 48
Thirty-fifth	51,950 00	59,922 30	225,493 42
Thirty-sixth	62,497 82	83,687 86	258,354 69
Thirty-sixth, extra.....	2,737 40	4,000 00	25,477 54

While excessive legislative expenditure does not, of itself, entail so heavy a burden upon taxpayers, the spirit that prompts it tends to excessive appropriations in other directions and it tends to destroy public confidence in the legislative branch of government and has been a strong factor in the refusal of the voting public to grant the Legislature time enough in which to perform the work which a growing State imperatively requires. No matter how sincerely disposed a Legislature may be to do so it can not, in a sixty days' session, give to public business the attention which it demands. Economy in legislative expenditure is a necessary first step toward the granting of a longer time in which to legislate. Unwelcome as the thought may be, it is lack of public confidence in legislative bodies that prompts the voter to confine legislative effort within such narrow metes and bounds, and gives such insistence to the growing demand for direct legislation.

Custody of Public Funds.—In my message to the Legislature two years ago I pointed out the necessity for placing public funds in banks at interest on average daily balances, the banks to furnish unquestioned security for the loan and to hold the money subject to call. The Legislature, acting upon this suggestion, enacted a law, approved March 20, 1905, providing for making such deposits. But, being in doubt as to the constitutionality of the measure, the Legislature also submitted a constitutional amendment to the people providing for the deposit, not only of State funds, but also of county and municipal funds in like manner.

This amendment was adopted by the people, and I respectfully recommend to the Legislature such supplementary legislation as shall enable the purposes of the constitutional amendment to be fully carried out. I do this, not only in the belief that the policy commended will result in idle moneys producing large earning capacity, but also in the belief that the carrying out of this measure will prevent an unnecessary contraction of the volume of circulating medium to the injury of business. With the purpose of this amendment put into full operation, tax-paying time will thereafter produce almost no stringency in the money market.

Insurance of State Property.—I desire again to call the attention of the Legislature to the fact that no provision has as yet been made either for insuring State property or for creating a State insurance fund out of which losses may be paid without waiting for a session of the Legislature to make appropriations therefor. The State has so far been more fortunate than prudent with regard to fire losses. It has no buildings that are strictly fire-proof, and no way is furnished institutions for making extensive repairs caused by fire without great delay and inconvenience.

A State tax levy of five mills on each $100 of assessed valuation, imposed for the purpose of creating a fire indemnification fund, would yield something like $75,000 a year, and would, in a few years, create a fund quite sufficient for the purpose, replenished from time to time by direct appropriation where losses are made good out of it. This fund might well be placed in the custody of the State Board of Examiners for investment in negotiable securities, to be sold as moneys are needed for making losses good. The State can insure its own property more cheaply than it can hire it insured, and prudence dictates that it create an insurance fund of its own.

The Five Per Cent Land Fund.—The old adage that there is never a great loss that is not attended by some small gain was seldom better exemplified than in the recent procurement from the United States Government of five per cent on the gross amount realized on the sales of public lands within the State. Many other states were allowed and paid this fund years ago, and there was never more than a purely technical reason why the claim of California had not long since been paid. The great disaster of April 18, 1906, and the increased activity of the California delegation in Congress moved the heart of Congress to respond to the appeal, and legislation was at once had making the five per cent fund available. The State Treasurer has already received upon this account the sum of $425,712 59, and a warrant for $2,559.02 in addition has been drawn in favor of the State, but has not reached the State Treasurer. It is believed that this fund will reach $1,000,000 when all allowances have been computed. As required by our State Constitution, this fund will be covered into the permanent State School Fund, which fund, no matter how large it may become, will still be inadequate for meeting the growing requirements of public education.

THE PRISON SYSTEM OF CALIFORNIA.

No fact in connection with the penal institutions of the State stands out with greater distinctness than the rapid growth of the prison population. Between June 30, 1900, and June 30, 1906, the number of inmates of our two prisons increased from 2,130 to 2,633, or 24 per cent. This increase in a period of six years was much greater than the increase during the ten years which preceded. In 1890 there were 2,057 prisoners in the two prisons; so that between that year and 1900 there was a total increase of but 73, as compared with an increase of 503 in the last six years. It is as difficult to explain the smallness of the increase during the preceding ten years as it is the magnitude of it in the last six years.

The Legislature of 1905 appropriated $168,000 for the construction of a prison wall and new cell-house at Folsom Prison, and $310,000 for the extension of the prison wall at San Quentin Prison and the erection of new cell-houses. None of this money was made available before July 1, 1905, and then in sums ranging between $20,000 and $40,000 each half year, extending, in the case of Folsom, to January 1, 1906, and in the case of San Quentin, to July 1, 1906.

At San Quentin it was necessary to execute a large amount of grading before construction work proper could begin, and there have been delays due to the necessity for securing the consent of the United States Government to the filling of an arm of the bay, to the San Francisco fire, and to other causes. In the case of Folsom the State Board of Prison Directors did not feel like commencing construction until after there should be a reasonable assurance that the State would not lose the benefit of the water power which was the principal reason for establishing a prison at that place. Work is now progressing at both prisons as rapidly as it can be performed with convict labor. Nevertheless, it will be several years before San Quentin and Folsom can be put in good condition for the discipline and proper care of even the present number of prisoners, and, owing to the increase in the prison population, the construction work provided for will no sooner have been completed than the State will again be face to face with the problem of more cells. The lack of a sufficient number of cells to permit the segregation and classification of prisoners has all along been the worst feature in the situation and largely explains the failure to develop a proper prison system in California.

Parole and the Indeterminate Sentence.—There are two good ways of lessening the congestion consequent upon having too many prisoners and too few cells to put them in, aside from constructing additional prison quarters for them. One of these is the extension of the parole system, and the other is to enact a prudent indeterminate sentence law. Both of these will require additional legislation to put them into operation.

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1905, 48 prisoners were paroled out of the two prisons. During the year ending June 30, 1906, there were 53 paroled. In all since the parole law went into effect, in 1893, only 304 prisoners have been paroled. Of these 27 violated their parole, and of those who violated it 18 were returned to serve out their unfinished sentences, leaving only 9 to win their liberty by their peridy, and these have the danger of apprehension perpetually hanging over them.

To make the parole system effective there must be a parole officer connected in some intimate way with each prison. He must know the prisoners, not only as prisoners but as men, and must make himself familiar with their pre-prison history. Then he must follow, helpfully, those who need help while out on parole. There are doubtless many men in our prisons who are well deserving of being paroled, if only the Board of Prison Directors had time to reach their cases, which, being busy men of affairs, they have not yet had.

That some punishment is due those who violate the law, merely as a vindication of the law, most penologists admit. It will not subserve the interests of justice to turn such men loose upon society merely because they are sorry they have done wrong as soon as they are sorry, no matter how sorry they may be. There must be a degree of punishment that will prove a deterrent factor in the conduct of the criminally disposed. This attained by a minimum sentence, the best thought of prison discipline should be to return the prisoner to society as soon as may be with due regard to social safety. Thus the indeterminate sentence permits to be done by allowing the prisoner to work out his own liberation by good conduct and remedial effort.

There are those who have felt that the indeterminate sentence could not well be put in operation until the new cell-houses are constructed, but it does not appear that the operation of that law need wait for cell-houses. The sooner it is put in operation the less congested those cell-houses will be when completed.

It costs California $138.70, besides interest on the investment, to keep a man in prison, and if one can be set at liberty, either on parole or by indeterminate sentence, so that he can, by his service, earn $500 a year, it is immensely profitable to open the gates to such men as soon as they can be opened with due regard to the dignity of the law and the safety of society. This does not so much depend upon reformatory work as it does upon setting men at liberty who are not really criminals, but good men who have done bad things, as many good men do; but some of the bad things done by good men are, fortunately, not so very bad. There are prisoners enough who are criminals at heart to keep our new cell-houses full, and many such should never come out because thoroughly case-hardened. I think it time to inaugurate the indeterminate sentence system in California, almost as much for the relief of the State as for the relief of the prisoners who would be the sooner liberated by it.

More Work Needed in the Prisons.—Of 2,633 persons undergoing punishment in our prisons, 676, or a few more than one fourth, had undergone imprisonment before. It is noticeable that most of the atrocious crimes against life, as incident to on-slaughts upon property, are committed by recidivists. This is partly because the confirmed criminal is a natural recidivist if ever allowed his liberty, and partly because the effect of prison life, as our prisons are conditioned, is to demoralize rather than to reform. When California shall come to the establishing of a true reformatory more redemptive work may be accomplished than can now be hoped for, and yet if more educational work were done in our prisons, and if the waking hours of prisoners were more fully occupied, we might look for less demoralization if not for more positive reformation.

Tasks unrelieved by any hope of personal gain are seldom educative into habits of sustained industry. California needs to have more profitable work for its prison population to do, and as soon as it can be brought about industries should be established at both prisons for the manufacture of such commodities as the State institutions require. If, then, in addition to a certain specified task to be completed on State account, the prisoners were given an opportunity to earn something for themselves, be it ever so little, they would learn to perform sustained labor before they knew it, and there are few men in prison who have been habituated to sustained labor.

I am more than ever persuaded, however, that not all the prison reforms we need are likely to be fully realized until our entire prison system of control shall have undergone a considerable reorganization. It is my judgment that the executive head of the prison system should be a General Superintendent of Prisons and Reform Schools, who shall be a specially trained man, and who shall be allowed to select such subordinates in his own office as he may need, and select the wardens of the State prisons by and with the consent of the Board of Prison Directors. Such an officer must necessarily give his whole time to the work, and the whole time of one competent official is worth several times more to the State than the spare hours of many busy men engrossed in private affairs, no matter how able and interested they may be.

STATE HOSPITALS FOR THE INSANE.

The provision made by the Legislature of 1905 for the maintenance of the five State hospitals for the insane aggregated $2,013,055, without counting appropriations made for permanent improvements or acquisitions of new properties, and this sum will all be used before the termination of the fifty-eighth fiscal year June 30, 1907.

At the beginning of the fifty-sixth fiscal year, July 1, 1904, there were in the five State hospitals, 5,774 patients. On November 30, 1906, the population of these institutions was 6,091, a gain of 317; but as a result of the great earthquake of April 18 last, 101 patients at Agnews Hospital were killed; otherwise the total patient population of the five hospitals would have been 6,192, making the increase of patients 418, or about 14 per month. Projecting this ratio of increase forward for the ensuing two years it will be necessary for the Legislature to appropriate $2,156,235 to sustain our hospitals for the insane during the fifty-ninth and sixtieth fiscal years, an increase of $143,000 for the two years. This does not exceed the most reasonable anticipations, inasmuch as the increase in patient population during the next two years is likely to be as great as 500 persons.

There is a growing conviction among hospital authorities the country over that better work ought to be done toward effecting permanent cures of patients suffering from mental ailments. Our hospitals have been taking good physical care of patients entrusted to their charge, but they have all been overcrowded and have not been supplied with up-to-date appliances for the proper treatment of the patients. There is not a State hospital in California to-day that is fully equipped. All of them should be, and I respectfully commend to the Legislature the wisdom, economy, and humanity of making appropriations for each of the five institutions sufficient in amount to build and equip suitable cottages for the care and effective treatment of acute cases. The hospitals at Napa and Mendocino have funds in hand for one such cottage each, but each should have another, and the other institutions should each have two. It costs the State in the neighborhood of $3,000 to maintain each insane patient during the expectancy of hospital life. If by expending $500 or $1,000 in the most improved efforts to effect a permanent cure during the early stages of the disease such cures can be effected in any considerable number of cases, it will warrant the State, on purely economical lines, in making a very considerable expenditure for that purpose. It goes without saying that the humane considerations are at least as important as the economic.

For the care of chronic incurable patients the State should have recourse to cheaply constructed buildings upon agricultural lands where the labor of such patients as can labor should be profitably employed, and where all may be made happier by a freer and more wholesome out-of-door living. This will make room in the existing institution buildings for the accommodation of such patients, other than those already described, as may be committed from time to time. No new hospitals should be built until those we now have shall each contain 2,000 patients.

Agnews State Hospital.—This institution merits special consideration. It was totally wrecked by the earthquake of April 18, as the cost of salvage practically equaled the value of the material saved. The loss is estimated at about $800,000, and 11 officers and attendants and 101 patients were killed and many injured. The earthquake was very severe at this point, but had the workmanship and superintendence of construction been what they should have been it is not likely that many, if any, lives would have been lost. It is impossible that so severe a lesson as that taught by the Agnews disaster shall fail of impressing its importance upon future public construction in this State. Temporary accommodations have been made for 800 patients still retained there with which they can be made reasonably comfortable until reconstruction work can be done. The situation is not all that could be wished for, but is at all events eligible. It is near to one considerable city and not far from the bay district of California with its rapidly increasing population. Its location is one that makes it especially adaptable for the care and treatment of special phases of insanity. The reconstruction of a modern institution at Agnews, upon lines that will insure safety of the officers and patients and make the security of the buildings probable, will involve the expenditure of possibly nearly $1,000,000. If the construction work be extended over a period of four years, and it is not probable that it can be well done in less time than that, this appropriation can be made without seriously embarrassing the finances of the State.

Home for the Feeble-Minded.—Included in the estimates for the maintenance of the State hospitals is the maintenance of the California Home for the Cure and Training of Feeble-Minded Children, at Eldridge, in Sonoma County. This institution has taken good physical care of the unfortunates in its charge, but has fallen far short of accommodating all who are proper subjects for admission to it. I therefore respectfully commend to the Legislature the need for enlarging this institution to meet the legitimate demands made upon it. It is doing good work, and its ability to take care of the feeble-minded ought to be adequately extended.

A Colony for Epileptics.—There are probably as many as two hundred epileptic insane persons scattered through the five hospitals of this State, and there are probably half as many in the Home for Feeble-Minded, but there are scores of epileptics throughout our State who are neither insane nor feeble-minded. Our State should make reasonable provision for the care and treatment of this class of unfortunates.

This will not require the creation of a new institution. At the Home for Feeble-Minded there is abundant land, and a single board of managers will suffice for every purpose of both institutions. In my judgment, the Legislature should make provision for establishing an epileptic colony at the Home for Feeble-Minded. In this way many patients now improperly in our insane asylums would be given care and attention which they can not receive in the asylums. It is time for California to be moving in this direction, especially as it may be done with such comparative inexpensiveness.

DEPENDENT AND DELINQUENT CHILDREN.

During the eight years ending with June 30, 1906, California has paid out toward the support of dependent children the sum of $3,664,408.03. Of this sum $2,856,751.51 has been devoted to the sustaining, in part, of an average of 5,567 children in orphanages, and $807,656.52 to sustaining 2,341 children aided through boards of supervisors outside of orphanages, mainly by allowance to the surviving parent, or other relatives, in their own homes. During the last four years the number maintained in orphanages has dropped from 5,907 in the fifty-fourth fiscal year to 5,277 during the fifty-seventh, and the amount paid to the forty-odd orphanages has dropped from $375,857 in the fifty-fourth year to $337,955.22 in the fifty-seventh. In outside aid, dispensed through the boards of supervisors of the several counties, the number has decreased from 2,539 during the fifty-fourth fiscal year to 2,062 during the fifty-seventh, and the sum paid for this form of aid has decreased from $114,442 in the fifty-fourth year to $103,338.68 during the fifty-seventh.

This latter form of expenditure, commonly called out-of-door relief, has a rather constant tendency to increase, owing to a prevailing predisposition of county boards of supervisors to proceed in such matters along lines of least resistance, because they can pass their expenditures up to the State for reimbursement. There are some counties, however, which have their charities so well organized that their benefactions under this law are bestowed with great discrimination.

The comparative economy secured recently in the distribution of the moneys supplied by the State is the result of a more careful inspection of claims and more thorough visitation of applicants for relief. It is along the line of establishing the fact of dependency that the greatest reform in the administration of this fund is to be looked for, and this fact should be established by the juvenile court, and not otherwise, before any child shall become a State charge. It is now established by the managers of orphan asylums and by the supervisors of the several counties; and it is almost certain that a considerable percentage of children drawing State aid are not, or need not be, dependent on the State. No matter how conscientious the orphanage people may be, they can not have the same opportunity that a court would have for ascertaining all the facts in an inquiry conducted under oath. In order to prevent an unnecessary humiliation of deserving applicants, such examinations might well be held in chambers, at the discretion of the judge.

The money that the State gives our forty-four orphanages constitutes only one half to three fifths of the total cost of their maintenance. They are maintaining over 1,300 children for whom they receive no State aid at all.

Delinquent Children—The number and atrocious character of crimes committed in this State by youths, and the steady growth of California's prison population, bring home to us all the tremendous importance of the problem of child delinquency. The advantageous point of attack for this evil is at its incipency, and this is when truancy first manifests itself. It is with truancy that delinquency almost invariably begins. Truancy and parental schools should be established where needed, and the compulsory education law should be more strictly enforced. Every considerable city in the State should have one or more special schools for backward children, and nearly every county should maintain a truancy or parental school and at least one school attendance officer to make the law and the school effective. A more general provision should also be made for the addition of manual training to our common school course. We should not only strive to compel children to attend school, but also do all in our power to interest them in their studies when they are there. Nothing contributes more certainly to this end than manual training.

The State is maintaining juvenile reformatories at both Ione and Whittier. The school at Ione, known as Preston School of Industry, is maintaining an average of about 210 students at a per capita annual cost of $247, or a total of $51,870 per year. The permanent investment in this institution now amounts to about $325,000, including equipment. The school is doing good work, especially since a system of manual training has been introduced and since real work has been undertaken in building enterprises. However, there is room for improvement along the lines of educational work in mechanics and agriculture, and in commercial work for advanced pupils.

The State School at Whittier has been maintaining an average attendance of about 280 boys and 35 girls at a per capita annual cost of $311.79, or about $110,000 a year for salaries and maintenance. The school work per se has been good, but there has been wanting a keener spirit along the industrial side of the training given, and manual training has not as yet been established. The farm of 160 acres is in good condition, but the sanitation is and has been bad and something like an epidemic of typhoid has resulted, very likely from that source of infection. The State's investment in this school is about $350,000, not counting repairs and betterments made from time to time with current and contingent funds.

Neither of the schools above mentioned is maintaining parole officers. I regard this as an error, and strongly recommend that the Legislature not only require the maintenance of such officers, but provide therefor in a financial way.

I commend these institutions to the favorable consideration of the Legislature.

Placing Out of Children—The State should be the guardian of every child within its borders, especially the dependent children, but the guardianship has not heretofore been properly asserted. There is no question that the best place in which to rear a dependent child is in the home of some good, childless family, but there is no department of charitable work that needs to be carried on with more tactfulness, and with more unselfish motives than that of the placing of dependent children in homes other than their own. California has, as a State, exercised no such function of guardianship. Associations and individuals, with no official authority, have undertaken this work, but it is time that proper legislative action were taken in this regard. It should be made the business of some department of State government to investigate and license such placing-out agencies as are entitled to public confidence, and prohibit the activities of such as are not.

States which undertake to discharge the guardianship of dependent children maintain systems of visitation and inspection to all homes in which dependent children have been placed, and the welfare of such children is thus assured, their education enforced and their personal and property rights protected. The work here outlined is usually performed by State Boards of Charities and Corrections, and it would be well to confer this function upon this board and equip it properly for that purpose. It is not improbable that as many as one thousand such children are now drawing State aid who should be placed in homes to be reared, thus saving the State anywhere from $75,000 to $100,000 a year in appropriations for dependent children.

STATE BOARD OF CHARITIES AND CORRECTIONS.

The duties by law imposed upon this Board are "to investigate, examine, and make reports upon the charitable, correctional, and penal institutions of the State, including the State hospitals for the insane, of the counties, cities and counties, cities and towns of the State, and such public officers as are in any way responsible for the administration of public funds used for the relief or maintenance of the poor in public institutions or of any of the inmates of said institutions." While this field of utility is a broad one, and abundantly justifies the continued existence of the Board, I think that it may well be further broadened to include a Children's Home Bureau, whereby every dependent child placed in a home other than its own may be visited, watched over and protected, and whereby homes may be found for such children as are free and fit to be placed in homes. Such a service should prove of incalculable advantage to dependent childhood, and an important source of economy to the State.

The management of county and municipal institutions is of scarcely less importance to the State than the management of State institutions. It has, in other states where prison management has far surpassed that of our own, been held to be true that the jails of counties and cities manufactured criminals faster than the State reformatories and prisons could redeem them to reputable living. The burden of pauperism in California, comparably rich and sparsely settled though the State is, is becoming grievous to be borne. It is as essential to the welfare of the commonwealth that local institutions and handling of public functions be looked after as that State institutions and public functions shall be, and I know of no agency better adapted to this service than the State Board of Charities and Corrections, being, as it is, non-partisan in character and entirely outside the main currents of political life.

CALIFORNIA AND THE EXPOSITIONS.

During the last four years this State has participated in two great expositions held in St. Louis and Portland, respectively. In each instance the display made was creditable and profitable to the State. At St. Louis the expenditures by the California commission were $129,148.13, being $851.87 less than the sum allowed by law to be expended. However, there were certain salvages, interest, and miscellaneous sources of income which enabled the commissioners to return to the State treasury the sum of $5,762.97 in cash. Besides this credit to the exposition fund, there were left in the hands of the commissioners, available for use at the Portland exposition, materials and fixtures of an estimated value of $12,480.85. In this exposition, as at Portland, California received a great number of grand prizes and gold and silver medals.

The fortunate results from the display made at St. Louis in 1904 prompted the Legislature to make an appropriation for the Lewis and Clark exposition in 1905. The amount appropriated for the former exposition had been $130,000, and for the latter $90,000 was provided. The law made the Governor sole commissioner, and as my assistants I selected Messrs. J. A. Filcher and Frank Wiggins, who had been the commissioners for the St. Louis exposition. The display of products made was admirable and challenged favorable comparison with displays made by any and all other states. Although the accounts in connection with the State's participation in this exposition are not quite all settled as yet, there will be a balance of about $4,000 to be turned back into the State treasury, and, besides, there are materials and fixtures left for use in some future exposition of the approximate value of $10,000. No scandal and no serious controversy marred the success of the State's participation in these two great expositions.

The Jamestown and Seattle Expositions.—At Jamestown, Virginia, during the present year there will be held a national and international exposition as an observance of the ter-centennial of the first settlement of this country. The United States Government and the governments of many states have arranged for participation in this exposition, which will possess many features of historic and industrial interest, and California has been urgently invited to provide for proper representation of her material products and of her contributions to the progress of civilization. The exposition management has set apart space for California, and it remains for the Legislature to say whether the State shall avail itself of the opportunity presented. Believing that in the past the exhibitions made of our resources and products have been profitable to the State, as well as gratifying to the pride of all its citizens, I recommend participation in the Jamestown exposition and suggest the making of a suitable appropriation.

Another exposition will be held upon the Pacific coast in the year 1909, when, in the City of Seattle, the Alaska-Yukon exposition will throw open its gates. Although not fully informed concerning the plans for this exposition, I believe it will be important, and both for reasons of material profit to be anticipated and as a matter of courtesy to the State of Washington, I would urge participation by California. To that end I suggest some form of declaration of intention by the present Legislature, and also such an appropriation as will cover the cost of preliminary preparation. A further appropriation can be made by the Legislature of 1909.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC HEALTH.

There is no department of State government that better deserves legislative support than the State Board of Health. The work it is now doing is of inestimable importance to the welfare of the people of the State, and yet it is doing but a small part of what could be done by it for the public good. Until recently there had been no adequate record kept of births, deaths, and marriages in this State. If for any reason it has been desirable to look up the antecedents of any person, or to trace any person to his grave to know of a certainty that death has taken place, it has been next to impossible to find a reliable record for the purpose. If the present Bureau of Vital Statistics shall be maintained, as it should be, both a full and an exact record can be found regarding births, deaths, and marriages. In the settlement of estates these records are invaluable.

The Board maintains a hygienic laboratory at Berkeley, by means of which pathological specimens are examined by experts for the benefit of physicians and health officers, making it possible to diagnose contagious diseases and so prevent epidemics and consequent sickness and death. Through its Secretary, other officers, and members, the Board has carried on an important public educational work throughout the State, has organized one State and two district health officers' associations, and has vitalized public interest in affairs which concern the physical well-being of the people. Much time and effort and a little money have been expended in keeping the streams of the State as free as possible from contamination, and so securing sources of pure water supply.

A pure food department is one of the imperative needs of the State Board of Health if it is to safeguard the public from fraud and from consuming deleterious substances. To make such a department effective California should enact a State pure food law supplementary to the National pure food law. With Nation and State working together for a common purpose, there is reason to hope for the doing away with an evil of gigantic proportions and lamentable consequences.

California needs, associated with its State Board of Health, a sanitary engineering office, with a competent sanitary engineer at its head, to whom may be referred all subjects connected with the sanitation of cities and towns and State institutions. As time passes systems of sewage disposal and sources of healthful water supply become increasingly important, and, unless competent advice can be furnished in such cases, mistakes will be made that will prove costly. Opportunities for educative work of incalculable value are here presented, and it is the proper province of the State to lead in educative work of this character.

Educational work is also needed along the line of remedying the physical deficiencies of children during the school age, and especially in relation to the deficiencies of dependent children cared for in orphanages. Many of these are handicapped for life for want of simple treatment given at the right time, and, for the lack of such treatment, paupers, criminals, and human failures abound where self-respecting and self-sustaining citizens would otherwise have resulted.

The profitableness of the expenditures here recommended to legislative attention may not be immediately visible in a decreased tax levy, but we may be sure that those profits will be realized along lines of lessened inefficiency, pauperism, and crime. I commend the needs of the State Board of Health to the attention of the Legislature.

PUBLIC EDUCATION.

There has been a large increase in school census children in our State since 1904. The total for that year was 407,393 between the ages of five and seventeen years. For 1906 the total reached 440,917. The gain of attendance at school, either public or private, does not keep pace with the increase in the number of children. During the year 1904 the number of those who had attended some school during the year was 355,746. The report for 1906 increased this number to only 364,950, a difference of only 9,104. This would seem to show that California is receiving additions to its population from people who do not appreciate the advantages which education affords.

The number of school census children who had attended no school at all during the year 1905 was 75,965, while two years before it was 71,652. If we say of the larger number that four twelfths are either between five and six years old, and therefore under school age, or between fourteen and seventeen, and therefore above the age of compulsory school attendance, we still have in California more than fifty thousand children who ought to be in school, but are not there.

This is sufficiently startling to challenge attention, and yet it has only to deal with those who have not at any time during the year enrolled themselves in any school, public or private. When the crucial test of average daily attendance comes to be considered, the case becomes astounding. The average daily attendance at the public schools reported June 30, 1905, was 217,873. That year the number of school census children was 418,315. If we deduct from this the number accredited to private schools, 42,002, and assume that they all went to school every school day, we still have 376,223 to account for. Out of this number only 217,873 averaged as being in school, while 158,350 averaged out of school every day in the school year. In brief, only 58 per cent of the children accredited to the public schools in California are in school continuously.

It is not by the amount expended in school houses, or the sum annually expended in teachers' salaries, or in apparatus and supplies, that the value of a school system is to be determined. The supreme test is that of efficiency, and with the parents of 50,000 children utterly disobeying the compulsory education law, and the parents of 108,350 more children disobeying it partially, the standard of efficiency for 1905 was certainly not one to satisfy this State. I recommend legislation requiring incorporated cities and towns to maintain one or more attendance officers, for it is probably in cities and towns that the most serious dereliction of school duty lies.

The new law for the apportionment of State school money works well. In six counties out of fifty-seven it has wrought a decrease in the amount of State school moneys apportioned, but inasmuch as the loss sustained in such counties was effected by cutting off allowances for children who were never inside a school house, the injustice inflicted was more apparent than real. Of the $4,092,691.59 of State funds apportioned during 1906, the sum of $2,141,691.59 was apportioned on a basis of average daily attendance and $1,951,000 on a basis of the number of teachers allowed by the school census. The weaker counties and communities have been helped, and the stronger ones can not complain of being injured, for the reason that no injustice has been done them.

It will be of interest to note the effect of State aid upon the high school system of the State. The total number of high schools entitled to receive State aid June 30, 1903, was 143. June 30, 1906, the number was 159. The enrollment for 1903 was 17,473. For 1906 it was 28,075. The average daily attendance for the year ending June 30, 1903, was 13,689. For 1906 it was 21,397. The number of teachers employed in 1903 was 741. For 1906 it was 1,137. The number of graduates in 1903 was 2,074. For 1906 it was 2,813. The total expenditures for 1903 were $1,229,500.39. For 1906 they were $2,118,849.15. The total investment in high school property in 1903 was $3,353,646. In 1906 it was $5,093,014. State aid has increased the strength and efficiency of high schools rather than created a multiplicity of them, and it has helped a good work all along the line. It should be continued.

The University of California—Our State University is a noble monument erected by the people of this State to the cause of education. It is the realization of the ambitions of the Pioneers of '49, who planned, even before California was admitted to the Union, in our first State Constitution a system of free public schools crowned by a great university. It is an institution of advanced learning, where the poor and the rich, the high and the low, can, and do, meet on terms of equality. With its free instruction, many poor young men and women, whose efforts will more than repay the State, in good citizenship and in dollars and cents, all the University has cost or ever will cost us, have been able to secure an education.

California, with only two millions of people, supports—one entirely and the other partially—two of the greatest of the educational institutions in the United States: the University of California and the Leland Stanford Junior University. No other State can boast of an equal self-sacrifice on the part of its people.

Some twenty-five hundred of the sons and daughters of California attend our State University, and the great cost of their instruction is cheerfully borne by the taxpayers. Yet, the buildings at Berkeley can well and conveniently accommodate only one half the number of our sons and daughters actually in attendance at the University. And many of the buildings in use are mere, cheap makeshifts, which the Board of Regents, bending to stern necessity, have been compelled to put up to house, even inconveniently and crowdedly, the army of young people whom the people of the State have put into its charge. Many of these buildings are rickety firetraps, housing collections, instruments, and apparatus which cost much labor, knowledge, and money to acquire. Yet, until now, the finances of the State have never been in such condition as to warrant sufficient enlargement of University quarters. Now, however, with the great increase in taxable property in this State, with a million dollars surplus at its command, I am of the opinion that, in addition to the many other calls that will be made upon its resources, the State treasury can find the means, without increasing the burdens of taxation beyond the normal, to make an immediate addition to the beginning made by the erection of California Hall toward properly housing our University. Private benefaction has done more than the State toward the realization of dignified, convenient, and proper educational domiciles for our University young people. The magnificent Mining Building, the gift of Regent Hearst, the Doe Library, the Harmon Library and Gymnasium, and other smaller but no less appreciated gifts to the University, testify to the high esteem in which, by generous individuals, our institution is held. Only California Hall, among the many buildings erected by legislative appropriation, is now worthy of this great State and that great University.

One of the first buildings erected at Berkeley ought to be a building in which to house the College of Agriculture. California's wealth, prosperity, and fame rest largely upon her agricultural and allied interests. And these are important enough to warrant us in adding to the Davisville University farm and the Kearney farm, near Fresno, a great and necessary building at Berkeley devoted to agriculture and all that goes with it.

I therefore recommend to the Legislature that the sum of $500,000 be appropriated for the erection of a proper Agricultural Building at Berkeley.

University Farms.—The University farm at Davisville and the Kearney gift at Fresno should both receive the support of the State. Neither is unnecessary for uses to which they both may be put in the practical teaching of agriculture and all the industries connected with it, such as pomology, viticulture, dairying, and live-stock raising, all so necessary to the State's prosperity. To properly equip these two farms will require the erection of suitable buildings on each, the acquiring of machinery, tools, stock, and equipments of various kinds, as well as the employment of instructors, mechanics, and laborers. All this should be done intelligently, liberally, and well. I therefore recommend to the Legislature the appropriation of at least $400,000 for these purposes. No better use of public money can be made.

University Salaries.—I desire, while speaking of the University, to call attention to the fact that the salaries paid to the teaching force at Berkeley are, in many cases, only to be designated as niggardly, and in but very few even approaching a satisfactory standard. The limited funds at the disposal of the University and the great number of students who present themselves for instruction compel the Board of Regents to pay instructors and assistants, most of whom have spent years of time and thousands of dollars in qualifying themselves to teach California's sons and daughters, salaries that are, compared with the wages of mechanics and other skilled workmen, to say nothing of those occupying private positions of even less responsibility and importance than those who teach our young people, shamefully small. Many such men at Berkeley, men of standing and reputation in the world of letters, known throughout this country and Europe for their attainments, are paid eighty, ninety, one hundred, one hundred and fifty dollars a month. Such salaries as these are totally inadequate to recompense those to whom they are paid, nor can those who receive them live upon them in these times and enjoy those comforts of home and family which such people are, in simple justice, entitled to.

Even the professors and heads of departments in the University are not adequately paid. Comparisons with the professional salaries paid at other, but no better, universities than ours show how poorly paid, as a whole, our professors are. Harvard's minimum professorial salary is $4,000, and for each five years of service this minimum is increased $500, until a maximum of $5,500 is reached. Columbia and Chicago pay their professors $5,000 each, with $7,000 in exceptional cases. Stanford pays $4,000. Our professors receive $3,000, $3,500, and $4,000. Taking the difference of living expenses into account, Harvard's $4,000 is equivalent to at least $5,000 here.

It is a high tribute to the devotion to their professions of the men whom we have at Berkeley, and a high compliment to the standing and reputation of our University, when men of world-wide reputation, such as our professors are, will stay with us when, at other universities, they could receive equally honorable positions and higher salaries. California, in her present time of prosperity, is able to pay the University teaching force somewhere near adequate salaries; and, being able, she ought to do it. I therefore recommend to the Legislature that the appropriation for the salaries of the teaching force at the University be increased at least twenty-five per cent.

Public School Teachers' Salaries.—The members of the faculty of the University are not the only people connected with our educational system who are underpaid. For the teachers in our public schools, who receive from sixty to eighty or ninety dollars per month, are very much underpaid.

We should have, for the teachers in the public schools, the very best talent obtainable. Teaching, like the practice of medicine, law, or theology, is a profession, and its practitioners should be trained as doctors, lawyers, and preachers are. This training requires years of time and large sums of money to acquire; and, like all other professional people and those who learn trades, our teachers should regard their work as a life work. Now no person should be expected to take up a life work which will, as in the case of our teachers, yield a maximum salary of only ninety or one hundred dollars per month.

Almost any active, intelligent man or woman can earn more money in private employment than our teachers do. The natural result is that too many of our best teachers, especially men, are deserting the schoolroom for other employments. We need more men teachers, and all our teachers ought to be more contented with their positions than they can be with the salaries we pay them. In almost all private businesses there is an opportunity to gain better salaries by closer application and years of service. The opportunities to do this in the school department of this State are not very many; and, when gained, the rewards are not very great.

I therefore recommend to the Legislature the amendment of the school law so that the pay of teachers shall increase a certain fixed sum, say ten dollars per month, at intervals of, say, five years of continuous service. By this means long service will give promise of greater returns, and, in this way, better inducements will be held out for the ambitious to take up and remain in the profession of teaching as a life work.

SALARIES OF STATE OFFICIALS.

On several occasions I have called attention to the totally inadequate salaries paid to State officials. Even the Governor, with $6,000 per year, a house to live in and $2,500 per year toward its support, and traveling and other funds at his disposal, is unable to make both financial ends meet. But a State Treasurer, whose bond alone is $100,000 and costs $300 per annum, is paid but $250 a month as recompense for the great responsibilities he has to assume. The Secretary of State, with the many and varied duties of his most important office, is also paid but $250 per month. The State Controller, also a very important and necessary official, receives a like salary of only $250 per month. The Attorney-General, the legal counselor and adviser of the State, with its vast and multifarious interests, is paid, like all the others, only $250 per month. So, also are the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, the head of our great public school system, and the Surveyor-General. In private businesses, much smaller than that of the State of California, similar positions are accompanied by salaries twice, even thrice, as great.

It is true that it costs a large sum, a very large sum, of money to run this State government. But its great cost does not arise from the salaries paid its elective officers.

I desire, also, to call the attention of the Legislature to the fact that it is already very difficult, and rapidly becoming impossible, to secure and retain efficient skilled, or even unskilled, help at the hospitals and other State institutions. When the mechanic, even the unskilled laborer, receives, at private employment, three, four, five, six, and eight dollars per day, the State can not expect to retain the services of skilled and competent persons for one, two, or three dollars per day. I therefore recommend that sufficient money be appropriated to secure, at the State institutions, by means of better pay, the willing services of skilled and competent employes.

SAN JOSÉ AND LOS ANGELES NORMAL SCHOOLS.

The main building of the State Normal School at San José was rendered wholly unfit for use by the earthquake of April 18, 1906. This building, utilized for the Normal School proper, was of brick. The children's training school is of wood and has been put in a thorough state of repair and safety at an expense of about $5,000. Competent architects and engineers have examined the main edifice and report that it should be taken down, discarding even the foundations, and an entirely new structure erected in its place. Such new building should be built of nothing less stanch and durable than a steel framework and concrete curtain walls. It is probable that such a structure will cost as much as $250,000, and I recommend that the Legislature make this appropriation. The school is now being conducted in temporary buildings, and no time should be lost in proceeding to reconstruction work.

The State Normal School buildings at Los Angeles were repaired at a cost of $40,000, and there is no pressing need of replacing these buildings with others. The site occupied by these buildings is of great and increasing value, and it is as valuable for the State to hold as it is for private or corporate ownership. It is only a question of time when the State will desire to erect buildings in Los Angeles for the accommodation of its courts and other offices, and when that time comes no better site can be found than that now occupied by the State Normal School.

THE STATE PRINTING OFFICE.

During the last two fiscal years the State Printing Office was operated at a gross expense of $572,319.21, and if the cost of new equipment be added, the total expenditure has been upwards of $600,000. Of this sum nearly $300,000, or one half, represented the expense of manufacturing school text-books, which, being sold, returned their cost, or a little more, to the State. The printing executed for the different departments of the State government, including the University, cost $180,102.60, and $92,413.66 was the cost of printing for the Legislature. The number of school books manufactured during the fifty-sixth fiscal year was upwards of 400,000, and during the fifty-seventh year upwards of 550,000. Few persons are aware that the State government conducts the largest book manufacturing business on the Pacific Coast and the only large school-book printing establishment west of Cincinnati.

Public printing is a rather serious problem for all State governments as well as for the Federal Government, and one of the most frequent complaints is the excess of cost as compared with private printing. An expert who had made inquiries in different parts of the country asserted recently that public printing cost from two-to ten times as much as private printing. The cost of printing done in the California State Printing Office is high, but a comparison with other public printing establishments would probably result favorably to ours. As the best way to reduce the cost of work I have favored the equipment of the office with the most improved machinery in the form of type-setting machines, presses, folders, automatic feeders, and hook-binding machines. This has been accomplished, and the office is now so well equipped that in the school-book department the cost of the work has been sensibly diminished, and during the year 1907 it should be possible to further reduce the prices of the school text-books, although they are already lower than retail prices of corresponding books produced elsewhere by private publishers. The apparent assets in the school-book department of the office increased in three years and a half under Superintendent of State Printing Shannon from about $130,000 to approximately $340,000.

The State Printing Office plant is too valuable to be much longer housed in the present unsafe building in the Capitol park; a suitable building should be erected at some other place in Sacramento, nearer to the river and the railroads, so that incoming and outgoing freight may be more cheaply handled.

COOPERATION OF STATE AND NATION.

In my inaugural address of four years ago I called the attention of the Legislature to the pressing need of protection for the forest and water interests of this State and advised cooperation on the part of the State with the United States in these matters. The Legislature of 1903 appropriated $60,000 to be expended in collaboration with the several departments of the National Government engaged in this kind of work, with the express understanding that the National Government would expend a like sum for the benefit of California, the work to be done by the Government's trained experts. This has been done, even in excess of contractual requirements, and the work is still progressing. The Legislature of 1905 appropriated $70,000 more to be devoted to the same ends. This work has been, and is now being, done mainly along the following beneficial lines:

1. Topographic.—This work has been prosecuted by a department of the United States Geological Survey and has consisted, mainly, in surveying and mapping the physical features of the west side of the Sacramento Valley from Iron Cañon, above Red Bluff, to Suisun Bay. Contour lines have been run at intervals of five feet difference of level and the work will be completed on the west side by June 30, 1907, and within the present appropriation. The results of this work are being accurately mapped and printed for distribution by the Government at Washington. This work will, by June 30, 1907, have cost the State $50,000, and the National Government an equal sum. It is estimated that it will require four years more and an expenditure by the State of $80,000, to do a similar work covering the east side of the Sacramento Valley. It is of great importance to the State, and I recommend that this expenditure be made and that the cooperative topographical work be continued until the entire State shall have been covered.

2. Hydrography.—The area of land in California suitable for irrigation is easily ascertainable. Not so the supply of water for the irrigation of that land. A part of the cooperative work under consideration has been the making of an exhaustive study in order to determine the quantity of waters in California both above ground and below available for irrigation and the generation of power. Many of our principal streams have been, and are being, carefully gauged. More than seventy gauging stations have been maintained, but the work needs to be extended over a period of years to make the results of permanent value. Careful investigations are being made into the extent and probable permanency of subterranean water-bearing strata throughout the State. The importance of this work may be judged from the fact that two thirds of the irrigated area in Southern California is now being supplied with water by irrigation from wells, and that the single community of Pomona has $505,000 invested in pumping plants. One fifteenth of the entire expenditure of the United States Government for this kind of work is being expended in California. Our State Legislature has appropriated $35,000 to carry on this work for the four years ending June 30, 1907, and it is estimated that it will require $25,000 as the State's share for carrying on the work the next two years, the increase to be devoted to investigations of underground waters. So far, only one third of the expenditure has been devoted to this work and two thirds to investigations regarding surface waters. I earnestly recommend that this appropriation of $25,000 be made.

3. Hydro-Economic Investigations.—The determination of the quality of the waters used for domestic supply for cities and towns, and for manufacturing and irrigation, is of equal importance with that of the available quantity. The State's contribution to this branch of the work has been small, only $1,000 having been set apart for it during the last two years. The United States Government has, in this particular, expended two dollars to California's one, and wholly for California's benefit. It has been found that certain streams are contaminated by certain of their tributaries and not by others, but to trace the source of such contamination to its head is a work of some magnitude, inasmuch as sample waters must be taken from streams each day in the year and carefully analyzed. To prosecute this work effectively the Legislature will be asked to contribute $2,000 a year for the next two years, the General Government contributing a like amount. This appropriation should be made.

4. Irrigation and Drainage Investigations.—This branch of the cooperative work has been undertaken in collaboration with the United States Director of Experiment Stations, and is most important to California. Next to the quantity of water available, and the quality of it, must be ranked its economical use, for only by economy in use can all the arid lands of our State be finally brought under successful tillage. This investigation has covered the wasting of water by irrigating communities and methods of preventing such waste, the duty of water where it is being used economically and otherwise, the rates and conditions governing evaporation and percolation in handling water for irrigation, the cost of pumping under differing conditions and with different appliances and powers, and the drainage of surplus irrigation and other soil waters for their conservation and for the reclaiming and preservation of soils. For this branch of cooperative work the State has contributed $25,000 for the four years ending June 30, 1907, the Government contributing an equal sum for the same work. The Legislature will be asked for $10,000 a year for the next two years for continuing this important work, and I recommend that the appropriation be made.

5. Forestry Cooperative Work.—When this department of cooperative work was undertaken California had no general forest policy and had made no beginning toward having one. Under cooperative endeavor with the United States Forest Service, the forestry resources of the State were carefully surveyed, methods of conserving our forest resources were studied by expert foresters, our best timbers were subjected to scientific tests touching their utility for commercial purposes, and so were trees grown here but imported from foreign lands. The effects of fires and of grazing timbered lands were carefully and even exhaustively noted, and methods were studied and experiments made in reforesting burnt and cut-over areas. Finally, a forestry policy for California was elaborated and presented to the last Legislature, which enacted forestry laws making at least a beginning toward an ultimate forestry system for our commonwealth. This has about completed the cooperative forestry work for California as originally outlined, and no appropriation will be asked for this department of work for the next two years. The total cost of this branch of the work, so far as appropriations have been made during the last four years, has been $25,000.

OUR STATE FORESTRY SERVICE.

The Legislature of 1905 made the Governor, Secretary of State, and Attorney-General ex officio a State Board of Forestry, and authorized the appointment of a State Forester with two assistants. An appropriation of $17,600 was made to defray all of the expenses of the forestry work for the succeeding two years. This was, confessedly, a beginning, and only a beginning, looking toward the ultimate evolution of a comprehensive and efficient forestry service for the State. The forestry act was essentially cooperative in its spirit and comprehended cooperation with the Forest Service of the United States Government so far as practicable, cooperation with the respective counties of California, and cooperation with corporate and private forest owners in a united attempt to protect alike the forestry property of the Nation, the State, and individuals from destruction by fire, in renewing deforested areas, and in generally advancing forestry interests.

There is an increasing demand for reliable information as to the renewal of forests when cut-over, as to feasible methods of making trees grow where they do not now grow naturally, as well as how best to conduct a lumbering business without destroying the reproductive powers of timbered areas. But the resources placed at the disposal of the State Forester are wholly inadequate to the attainment of these ends. His own time, and that of his assistants, is chiefly taken up with routine work in striving to secure cooperation along lines of fire protection rather than tree planting and forest renewal through aiding natural processes. The service needs more money and more technically trained assistants in order to meet demands that are legitimate and insistent. Technically trained foresters can not now be obtained, so great is the demand for them the whole country over, for less than $1,800 per annum.

For forest protection 367 fire wardens have been appointed by the State Forester. Of these 103 were paid by the several counties cooperating with the State Forest Service, 128 are being paid by the United States Forest Service and are mainly forest rangers guarding National forest reserves and parks, and 136 are paid by corporate or individual forest owners, or are serving without compensation and therefore without the best results. During the danger season of 1906 there were reported as many as 120 forest fires, which burned over a total area of 650,000 acres destroying forest property of immense value. Forest wardens reached and aided in extinguishing 75 of these fires, but there can not be an adequate protection of the forests without the employment, during the season of danger, of at least twenty district fire wardens for the proper organization of their respective districts for cooperative fighting of fires. Such wardens will each cost $90 per month, and expenses, during the danger season, but will save to the tax rolls of their respective districts many hundred times their cost. The price of lumber in the open market is a forceful reminder of the necessity for a more adequate forest protection in this State. During the past season twenty-four arrests were made under the forest laws, sixteen of the resulting court cases have been disposed of, and fines to the amount of $425 have been imposed and the money covered into the State treasury to the credit of the State Board of Forestry. It would be conducive to greater efficiency on the part of counties cooperating if half the amount of fines imposed and collected were covered into the forest funds of the counties wherein such convictions are had.

The present forestry law, and code provisions in conflict therewith, should be so revised by the coming Legislature as to eliminate inaccuracies and ambiguities. It is estimated by the State Forester that an efficient safeguarding and advancing of the forestry interests of California will necessitate an appropriation of $30,000 per year for the support of the State Forest Service, and, in the light of the destruction heretofore wrought in California's forested areas, once regarded as inexhaustible but now sadly depleted, I am of the opinion that the Legislature should make such an appropriation. Not only are our lumber interests involved, but our irrigation and drainage interests as well. A good beginning has been made, but let it not remain merely a beginning. There is too much at stake to permit of any hesitancy on the part of the State.

LANDS REVERTING TO THE STATE.

As a consequence of the present laws in regard to the sale of property for non-payment of taxes, the State is acquiring a great deal of more or less valuable land, and an intelligent policy in regard to the disposition to be made of it is urgently needed. An investigation recently undertaken by S. J. Flinham, of the United States Forest Service, who worked in cooperation with the State Forester, resulted in the discovery that there was in certain counties an aggregate of nearly half a million acres which had not only been sold but deeded to the State for unpaid taxes. The scope of this investigation included only the counties containing forest lands and a few other counties in the south where forest-tree planting is being encouraged. The total area for the whole State is, of course, considerably larger and is being added to annually.

In some counties the removal from the assessment roll for taxes of the great extent of lands which has been sold to the State is becoming a serious evil. As a means of lessening the same the Legislature of 1905 passed an act permitting the acquirement, under certain conditions, by purchasers from the State, of tax-delinquent lands for a sum less than accumulated taxes and interest, but it is a question whether this law does not work an evil by encouraging many persons to let their taxes go delinquent in the hope of buying their property back for less than the taxes would have amounted to. In a good many instances lands sold to the State for unpaid taxes continue to be occupied and used by the former owners, and there are even instances where valuable mines continue to be worked after having been sold and deeded to the State. The temptation to this form of speculation is increased by giving unlimited right of redemption of tax-delinquent property up to the time when the State has actually sold it.

As a beginning for the needed remedy I suggest that the law be amended to terminate the right of redemption six months after the land is deeded to the State. This would still give property-owners five years in which to redeem—as a deed to the State is not given until five years after the first sale for non-payment of taxes—and that period is believed to be amply sufficient. A considerable portion of the tax-delinquent lands—more than 150,000 acres—is located within the boundaries of United States forest reserves and national parks, and it is believed that the Federal Government would acquire these lands and give in exchange other lands situated outside of said reserves and parks. But it would hardly be profitable to the State to make the exchange until after our land laws have been so amended as to keep enterprising speculators from snapping up at $1.25 per acre any lands of value which might be acquired by the State in this way. To that end I suggest that there be created a board of control, to consist of the Governor, Controller, Surveyor-General, and State Forester, empowered to appraise, sell, exchange, or reserve, subject to court review, these lands, as may be deemed most advisable in each instance. One of the advantages of such a system would be that timbered lands which ought to be reserved for the benefit of watersheds could then be protected. The Legislature could not have for consideration a more important subject than this, and I respectfully urge action along the lines proposed.

SIXTH DISTRICT AGRICULTURAL ASSOCIATION.

On August 17, 1904, there was commenced in the Superior Court of Los Angeles County an action by the Sixth District Agricultural Society against a number of individuals, who, it was claimed, were unlawfully in possession of the fair grounds, and claimed the title thereto. The complaint alleges that the Sixth District Agricultural Society holds the title to the fair grounds upon a trust to use them for maintaining agricultural fairs and for public exhibitions of live stock, and that the defendants had associated themselves together for the purpose of asserting ownership to the property and of diverting the rents and profits thereof to their own use.

The controversy thus brought into court had its beginning as early as the year

1883, when some of the defendants in the above-mentioned action and the predecessors in interest of other defendants instituted an action affecting the title to the fair grounds, in which action the Sixth District Agricultural Society intervened, with the result that a judgment was had confirming the title in the Society and ordering certain conveyances to be made to perfect the record.

In the year 1897 a second attempt was made to obtain control of the property by substantially the same group of persons who had made the previous attempt. Having organized an association designated as "District Agricultural Association No. 6," they elected under the provisions of a statute passed in 1895 to have a capital stock and distributed the shares among themselves and others making like claims. The first board of directors of this corporation comprised a majority of the directors of the Sixth District Agricultural Society. Proceeding under the Act of 1895 this new association took possession of the fair grounds, and ever since has exercised ownership over them for the individual profit of its stockholders.

This was the state of affairs when, in the year 1904, new appointments to the board of directors of the Society were made and the control of its affairs came into the hands of a majority disposed to contest the claims of the new association. As stated above, the suit in court to determine the controversy was commenced in August, 1904. A judgment has been recently rendered in the case which establishes the title and right of possession in the Society, and in addition declares that the defendants are accountable to the Society for rents and profits in the sum of $5,584.

Among other things the court finds as follows: "That there is not, and there never was, any such corporation as 'District Agricultural Association No. 6,' and that no such corporation ever in fact or of right issued any certificates alleged to be certificates of stock. That the attempt to form such corporation was without the authority of law, and that the acts whereby the defendants and their associates attempted to form said corporation, and their acts in attempting to create a capital stock and to issue so-called certificates of stock and their acts purporting to elect directors, and all other proceedings taken by said defendants and their associates in connection therewith, were and are a mere pretense, sham, and wholly without right, and were taken by defendants and their associates as a pretext for and in pursuance of a scheme for obtaining the said property of the said Sixth District Agricultural Association and converting and using it for their own use, profit, and gain, and diverting it from its lawful and proper purpose and uses."

This tract of land, now lying in the City of Los Angeles, is worth several hundred thousand dollars, and the State should intervene strenuously to resist every effort that may be made to take it from her. As shown above, the Superior Court, after a long and exhaustive trial of the case upon its merits, has decided that the property belongs to the State. Only a finally adverse decision of the court of last resort should cause the State to relinquish to any individuals this valuable property. It is more than probable that an attempt will be made at this session of the Legislature to so modify the law under which the State now holds the property as to make it possible for the adverse claimants to gain possession of it. All such attempts should be frowned upon, and nothing should be done or be permitted to be done that will, in any way, weaken the State's title to the land. I commend this important matter to the especial attention of the Legislature.

THE STATE CAPITOL.

At its last regular session, upon the recommendation of architects employed by it, the Legislature made an appropriation of $352,925 to remodel and improve the interior of the State Capitol building. The report upon which the appropriation was based called for the adding of a fourth story by lowering the ceilings of the Senate and Assembly chambers; for new heating, ventilating, lighting, and plumbing systems; for two electric elevators, for the removal of the wooden roof-trusses, and for other extensive changes calculated to render the building more nearly fireproof.

The improvement work is now well on its way, considering the setback caused by the San Francisco disaster, and when completed the building will be as comfortable and convenient as the most modern office structure. This end is devoutly to be wished, the present improvements having been long needed. Although the Capitol was a magnificent building when it was erected, little has been done in the last thirty-five years to replace the original primitive conveniences with more modern ones. The plumbing system, in particular, is bad, and the heating and ventilating facilities are of an antiquated type.

If it be found, upon investigation by the Legislature, that additional appropriations are needed to complete and beautify the interior of the Capitol, I recommend that such appropriation, if possible, be made. With the work still in progress, there can be no doubt that further improvements can be made at the present time with much less expense to the State than at any future time. In comparison with the cost of similar buildings in other states, the expenditures required at this time, added to the original cost of the State Capitol, make a very modest total. The State of California should take pride in having its most important public building reflect the wealth and the refinement of its citizenship.

RAILROAD RATE DISCRIMINATIONS.

The practice of rate discrimination on a wholesale scale by railroads in California has been revealed through an investigation of the transportation of oil which was recently completed by the Commissioner of Corporations of the Department of Commerce and Labor of the United States. This is a serious evil, menacing the very existence of many business interests, and calls for a remedy which at present our State laws fail to supply. One of the worst features in the situation is that most of the discrimination has been practiced in favor of the gigantic trust known as the Standard Oil Company and against competing companies representing California enterprise and capital, many of which competing companies have been already crushed out of existence.

When great oil discoveries were made, a few years ago, in the Kern River and other districts, a large number of companies was organized and capitalized to carry on the production and refining of oil and the allied industries. For a time many of these companies prospered and their enterprising promoters were in a fair way to reap the reward of their efforts. But the Standard Oil Company came into the California field, and since then scores of independent oil industries, as if stricken by a deadly blast, have withered and died. The report published by the Commissioner of Corporations upon his investigations shows how this changed condition has been brought about.

The Standard Oil Company has pursued in California the same practice which it has adopted elsewhere of securing special tariffs and rebates for the double purpose of gaining extraordinary profits for itself and driving its competitors out of business. In this, the Southern Pacific, the Santa Fé, and several other railroads appear to have been willing instrumentalities in the hands of the trust.

Some Details of the Discriminations—A hundred pages of the report of the Commissioner are devoted to a description of the various devices by which injurious discrimination is practiced. The payment of rebates to favored shippers—generally the Standard Oil Company and its allies, the Pacific Coast Oil Company and the Associated Oil Company—has played a large part, and the employment of secret rates has been the next most common practice. The investigation "developed the existence of more than eighty different deviations from published tariff rates on oil in California." A list of all these discriminations is given in the report, from which it appears that many of these discriminations are in rates from Bakersfield, a considerable number from Richmond, and others from Los Angeles and other points.

In California fuel oil is generally sold to manufacturing plants and other large consumers on contracts running for a year or longer, and the margin is so close that even a small difference in transportation rates is likely to turn the scales in favor of one competitor in the trade and against another. But the advantages in rates given to the Standard Oil Company and its allies were not always small ones; they were often large in amount. To quote Commissioner Garfield: "Again and again the bid prices of independent crude oil producers, based on the full tariff rate of freight, indicate that they would have underbid a favored competitor had they been given the secret rates that he obtained." While the published tariff rate of the Southern Pacific Company on shipments from Bakersfield to Redding, Red Bluff, Keswick, and other points in the northern portion of the State was 2 cents per gallon, the Standard Oil was shipping at 14 cents. This discrimination amounted to 25.2 cents per barrel, and enabled the Standard to make a handsome profit while shutting its competitors out of the trade.

In one instance the Standard Oil Company contracted to sell oil in Redding for 79 cents per barrel, when for competing companies the freight alone cost 84 cents a barrel. From Richmond, where its principal refinery is established, to Keswick the Standard Oil was given a secret rate of 46 cents per barrel, while from other points around San Francisco Bay where rival refineries had been established the rate was 84 cents. From Richmond to San José, a distance of 55 miles, the railroad company shipped oil for the Standard Oil Company at the rate of $1.20 per ton, while from Stockyards to San José, only 45 miles, a rival company paid $2 per ton. At a time when the Santa Fé Company's published rate on oil from Redondo to Los Angeles was 10 cents per hundred pounds, the Standard Oil Company was allowed to ship for 4 cents, and even this discrimination was afterwards increased. From Bakersfield to San Diego the Santa Fé gave to the Associated Oil Company a rate which meant a discrimination of more than 42 cents per barrel.

Other Devices to Hamper Producers—The foregoing are a few out of many instances of injurious discriminations in favor of the trust and against the independent producers; but rate discriminations were only one of a number of means employed to harass or destroy independent producers, as demonstrated by the Commissioner of Corporations. One of the most potent means used for their discouragement has been the failure to furnish them cars when needed. Several years ago most of the oil cars in use in California were owned by a subsidiary company of the Standard Oil, and when the latter came into the California field these cars were withdrawn. The railroad company could or would not supply others and the independent oil producers, being unable to guarantee deliveries of oil, were reduced to distress. The Standard and its allies could guarantee deliveries with little or no fear of car shortage. Some of the enterprising competitors bought or built cars in the East, but the railroads refused to haul them, and compelled the owners to sell or rent them. Evidence is presented to show that when the car shortage was at its worst, large trains of oil cars were standing in railroad yards marked "Hold" or "To be held."

Under such intolerable conditions as these, it is not strange that most of the independent producers and refiners have been driven to the wall, and the only wonder is that so many of them survive as really do. But unless they are given the protection of the law in some better manner than that in which it has been afforded hitherto they will all be reduced to helplessness and the sway of the oil trust in California will become absolute.

Legislation is Needed.—All of the discriminations and other improper practices before described have occurred in connection with commerce within the State of California, and therefore do not constitute a violation of the laws of the United States. It is not within the power of the Interstate Commerce Commission to deal with these particular abuses. But the Legislature of this State can provide remedies, or at least can supply the means to punish those who are responsible for the evil. At present there is a most remarkable absence of statute law on the subject; although the State Constitution contains a stringent provision forbidding just such discriminations as have been described.

Section 21 of Article XII says: "No discrimination in charges or facilities for transportation shall be made by any railroad or other transportation company between places or persons, or in the facilities for the transportation of the same classes of freight or passengers within this State, or coming or going to any other State."

Nothing could be clearer or more positive than that constitutional declaration, but although another section says that "the Legislature shall pass all laws necessary for the enforcement of this article," it has failed to do so in the matter of rate discriminations. The Constitution itself provides no penalty for violation of the prohibition of discriminations, and no statute on the subject can be found. It is true that Section 459 of the Civil Code purports to fix maximum rates, but the Supreme Court has intimated that this is no longer in force, and it does not touch upon the subject of discriminations. Consequently, as matters now stand, any railroad which chooses to do so may, in spite of the absolute prohibition by the Constitution, proceed to practice such discriminations in intrastate commerce as could not be practiced in interstate commerce without incurring the severe penalties of the Federal law. These discriminations may be carried even to the extent of destroying independent business concerns and aggrandizing the trusts, and bring down no legal punishment on the heads of the authors of such acts. There is crying need of a punitive law, and I call the subject to the serious consideration of the Legislature.

TRUST METHODS, AND A REMEDY.

It is not solely by securing unfair discrimination in transportation rates that the Standard Oil Company and other trusts are enabled to destroy competition, and, after having done this, to oppress the great mass of consumers, as they had previously oppressed rival producers. By the very weight of their capital and the extent of their credit they make competition difficult, and when, by the adoption of unscrupulous commercial methods, they push their advantages to the limit, they become a serious menace to many industrial interests. In other states these conditions, some time since, reached the stage which justified government intervention so far as government could intervene on grounds which would be legally and economically sound.

California has had too little development along commercial and manufacturing lines until very lately to call for the attention of trusts and cause them to ask and receive such railroad rate and other discriminations as in the East first created great trusts and then gave them the further power to ruthlessly crush out of existence their business competitors. Our climatic and other conditions are such as to enable our people to produce much more per capita than those of other states and countries. Our first production was gold, our second cereals; our third was, and is, citrus and deciduous fruits. Our manufactures are just beginning to be developed. If allowed to compete on equal terms with those of other states, if given the opportunity, free from the "strangle-hold" of transportation discriminatory rates and other trust methods, our State's manufactures, in the hands of our people, will soon develop into magnificent proportions. The fate of our oil producers, driven to the wall by the foreign Standard Oil Company by means of favorable transportation discriminations, teaches us that we are in danger of having any and all home industries which may assume considerable proportions taken from our people and given over into the hands of foreign trusts by our railroads, which are dependent upon us for their existence and the colossal fortunes which, from us in part, they are making for those who have them in charge.

For these reasons the control and regulation of industrial trusts is a subject which deserves to engage the attention of the Legislature during the present session. In this connection I desire to direct special attention to the anti-discrimination law adopted in Kansas two years since, and which is so entirely sane and evidently just that it appears to be a model for California and other states. It is directed against one of the most common practices of the trusts, consisting in selling the same products at high prices when no competition exists, and at other times, or in other places, at prices so low that competition is speedily crushed out. The law in question provides that it shall be adjudged "unfair discrimination" and a penal offense if any person, firm, or corporation shall intentionally, for the purpose of destroying the business of a competitor in any locality, discriminate between different communities by selling a given commodity at a lower rate in one place than in another, after making due allowance for difference in cost of transportation or manufacture. The offense of unfair discrimination thus created is made punishable by a fine of from $500 to $5,000, and contracts made in violation of the law are declared void.

It is not conceivable that such an act as is above described would do injury to any legitimate interest in California, and it could be made to put an end to some of the competition-wrecking operations which the trusts are accustomed to carry on. In the oil investigation conducted by the Commissioner of Corporations, it was learned that the Standard Oil Company resorted to discrimination in prices as a weapon against its strongest competitor, the Union Oil Company, and the latter was forced into an agreement to sell to its rival all the refined oil it should make and cease to compete in that branch of the business. This is an example of the iniquitous trust practices which can not be punished by any law now on our statute books, but could be reached and stopped by such a law as is here proposed.

THE STATE RAILROAD COMMISSION.

The regular biennial report of the State Board of Railroad Commissioners will be laid before you, and from it you may be able to determine whether the usefulness of this branch of the State government is great enough to justify the expense it involves. It is a matter of common knowledge that for a good many years the amount of business transacted by the board has been small and that few persons who consider that they have suffered grievances at the hands of the railroads manifest a disposition to submit them to that tribunal. I have caused an examination of the minutes of the board to be made, and from this it appears that during the last two years about a dozen more or less trifling complaints were all which were brought to the attention of the Commissioners; the authors of these complaints generally dropped them when called upon to make a formal showing, and in all that time there has not been a single contested case calling for the taking of testimony and the hearing of arguments. In short, the board has, practically, done no business, because it has no business to do. Its main function is supposed to be the fixing of transportation rates, but it has fixed no rates, unless it be upon an agreed basis, for a long time past. Even the compilation and publication of the railroad statistics of the State, which was formerly done with some thoroughness, has been abandoned in recent years, and when, not long since, one of the leading railroad companies asked for a compilation of railroad laws and decisions in California, the Commission answered that it could not be furnished because of lack of funds.

The railroad commissions of some of the other states are kept continuously busy with a variety of useful work, though in most cases they have less power in regard to the fixing of rates than has the California Commission. They are charged with such duties as regulating grade crossings, inspecting the trackage, bridges, and equipment of railroads in the interest of public safety, investigating the causes of disasters in which loss of life occurs, and examination of railroad accounts. The New York and Massachusetts Boards of Railroad Commissioners, for example, are required by law to keep informed on such matters and be prepared to make recommendations concerning the physical condition of all railways and their equipment and the degree to which their train service affords reasonable accommodation to the public. They are also required to investigate all accidents involving loss of life, if in their judgment an investigation is needed.

By the framers of our Constitution it was doubtless expected that the California Commission also would be a busy, working commission, and an administrative authority, rather than a court of appeal; but they failed to assign to the board these additional duties imposed on other state railroad commissions, and it is at least questionable whether the field of duty defined by the Constitution can be enlarged by statute. But it is plain that if the California Commission can not be made more useful than it is it should be abolished, and I recommend that the Legislature consider the advisability of submitting a constitutional amendment to that end.

REGULATION OF INSURANCE COMPANIES.

The experiences of many of those who held insurance policies on property destroyed by the fire of April 18 to 21, 1906, teach us that some legislation is necessary in order to protect the insured in this State from the dishonest methods which certain insurance companies adopted in the settlement of their losses. The paying of premiums ought to insure the payment of the losses which the insurers contract to pay. The average insured has no means of ascertaining whether or not the insurance company which solicits his risks is financially sound or conducted by honest men. The State should protect the insured by insisting that all companies doing business here shall pay any losses that may occur under their policies. Too drastic legislation, however, will defeat the very thing aimed at: it will so hamper business as to keep out of the State many solvent, honest companies.

It has been suggested that the State shall require the deposit of a large sum of money as an evidence of good faith and ability to pay. To be of any real protection in cases of great catastrophe, when protection is especially necessary, would require a very large deposit. Other states may make the same requirement, with the result that most, if not all, companies would be able to do business in not more than one or two states. The more insurance risks are distributed, the less apt is bankruptcy to follow a localized catastrophe.

Any legislation, therefore, which will tend to limit the field of activities of insurance companies would be undesirable. If, however, the Insurance Commissioner of California were empowered by law to refuse to admit to this State any company which does not keep on deposit, in the hands of a trustee, on conditions imposed by this State, a sufficiently large sum, either in money or bonds, the objections to the requirement of a deposit in this and any other states might be overcome, and, at the same time, a reasonable guarantee might be secured. If this trustee were some well-known and safe financial institution, not necessarily in this State, and if the conditions imposed by this State concerning the purposes and uses of this deposit were such that it would protect, not only California, but other states, it is not at all improbable that the other states in which the depositing company does business would, by law, accept such a deposit as a means of also protecting their citizens.

One thing, however, that seems absolutely necessary to protect the insured in this State is a standard policy form, which should be simple, concise, and exact. Such a standard policy should not contain any provisions which will in any way enable the company issuing it to rid itself of its obligations on account of the indirect effects of "an act of Providence." A fire loss resulting as the indirect or even the direct result of an earthquake should not lessen the claim of the insured upon the insurer; nor should the immaterial injury by any cause of any insured property lessen the responsibility of the insuring company.

If it be considered necessary to permit the addition of "riders" to the standard form of policies, it should be provided that the form and wording of these additions to the policies should receive the approval of the Insurance Commissioner and be printed in the policy in red ink and in antique style type not smaller than small pica, and, finally, in order to become effective, should be signed by the insured, thus making him a presumably willing and cognizant party to the contract thereby created.

Whatever may be said in favor of mutual insurance, which, ordinarily, must be local in its character and extent, it is safe to say that had San Francisco fire risks been carried in such companies there could have been no fire losses paid in that city. For all or a large proportion of the insured, who would also have been the insurers, having lost all their insured property, the ability to pay the losses would have been destroyed. Any mutual insurance legislation should take cognizance of this lesson taught by the San Francisco disaster, and should provide that risks shall not be assumed where such massed losses may occur.

THE NATIONAL GUARD

Experience in all the wars that this country has ever had teaches that it is necessary to have either a trained citizen soldiery or a large standing army. The latter, for many reasons, we do not want, and, if it be possible to avoid it, we must not have. Recognizing the necessity for a serviceable National Guard from which to recruit its armies in time of war, the Government of the United States annually appropriates large sums of money toward its equipment and training. But in order that this governmental aid shall be continued, to say nothing of being increased, it is necessary that the State shall do its part toward properly sustaining our National Guard, which is composed of our young men, who, without personal recompense, spend their own time and money in learning military drill and tactics.

I again call the attention of the Legislature to the service rendered by the National Guard of California during the time of San Francisco's great distress. I also call legislative attention to the need of the National Guard for proper armories, which other states, recognizing the necessity for their state troops, have erected. The money now spent in renting armories for our National Guard amounts to a high rate of interest on the money it would cost the State to erect them.

I therefore strongly recommend to the Legislature the appropriation of sufficient money for the erection of suitable armory buildings in all the cities in this State where there are two or more companies of State troops.

In addition thereto, I also recommend, in accordance with the request of the Adjutant-General, the appropriation of sufficient money to properly maintain the National Guard of California.

LABOR AND SOCIAL STATISTICS.

The twelfth biennial report of the Commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics shows a large amount of conscientious investigation and compilation, although the material accumulated prior to April 18, 1906, was destroyed by the fire and it was necessary to reproduce it so far as possible. The scope of the operations of this Bureau was considerably enlarged by the legislation of 1905 which required the collection of statistics of marriage and divorce and of crime. Some very valuable data on these lines will be found in the report, which also includes a mass of statistics on wages, strikes, lockouts, child labor, Chinese and Japanese competition, farm labor, and rehabilitation work in San Francisco. In addition to its statistical work, the Bureau has rendered good service in enforcing the child labor act of 1905, which has proved effective for the purpose for which enacted.

COMMISSIONERS VERSUS COMMISSIONS.

I am impressed with the conviction that the good results attained through legislation providing for the abolishment of the State Board of Horticulture and the substitution thereof of a single Horticultural Commissioner with power to organize his assistant forces so as to make them responsible directly to him, and himself responsible to the chief executive office, is worthy of imitation in other departments of the State government. It seems to me that the United States Government, with its executive and administrative functions organized under departments, each having a single head and an undivided responsibility, is a good model to follow. State governments should not be the last to benefit by a process of concentration of effort and responsibility that has proven so advantageous to all other enterprises of large magnitude. State and institutional boards are neither very efficient nor economical, and can not be, because the responsibilities of their members are so divided. Division of responsibilities never makes for efficiency in the conduct of either public or private affairs, and I am strongly of the opinion that if most of our State boards and commissions were abolished and departments substituted, each being under a responsible head, and holding office at the pleasure of the chief executive, with the executive strictly responsible to the people, a marked degree of improvement in efficiency and economy in the dispatch of public business would result.

TULARE LAKE LANDS.

There are some 300,000 acres of valuable agricultural lands now lying under water in Tulare Lake. It is not improbable that a succession of seasons of deficient rain and snow may cause their emergence again, nor is it improbable that they will again be inundated when the snows of winter and the showers of spring again fill the incoming streams to overflowing. Meantime these lands will continue to be of uncertain value and will contribute inconsiderably to the productive power of the State. For many years there has been desultory talk of the construction of a canal down the trough of the San Joaquin Valley for the double purpose of carrying away flood waters and for aiding the drainage of adjacent irrigable lands at ordinary stages of water. It may be questioned whether it would prove of public advantage to precipitate these waters into the San Joaquin River, and thereby complicate the reclamation problem along the lower reaches of that river; but it may be possible to construct a canal of such carrying capacity and length that it will not only furnish drainage for the trough of the upper valley, but irrigation for the west side of the lower part of the valley.

I commend this to the serious attention of the Legislature, coupled with the suggestion that provision be made for a careful survey of the territory concerned for the purpose of ascertaining the most practicable method of reclaiming that large body of valuable land. Also, I would suggest that a method for the proper financing of such an enterprise be made a part of the report made to the succeeding Legislature.

REPORT OF STATE MINERALOGIST.

The report of the State Mineralogist shows that for some years past California's mineral products have been increasing in value at the very satisfactory rate of $2,000,000 per annum. This fact alone would demonstrate that mining, the State's oldest industry, and one of its most important, is enjoying a high degree of prosperity; but additional evidence of this is found in the figures of total production, which exceed $43,000,000 for 1905 and represent forty different mineral substances. I am glad to be able to report that the new law for the suppression of illegitimate mining companies, which, by means of misleading advertising, preyed upon the public, has worked well, and the dishonest promoters have generally sought other fields for their operations.

Acting upon information furnished by State Mineralogist Aubury, the United States authorities recently instituted an investigation of the charges that fraudulent land locations of large extent have recently been made in the counties of Butte and Plumas. It appears that approximately 500,000 acres of land, most of it covered with valuable timber, have been located under the placer laws, and certain of these locations have also been made over the claims of miners who have long been in peaceable possession. This matter is one of immense importance, and the result of the proceedings taken by the Government of the United States will be awaited with deep interest.

DEPARTMENT OF ENGINEERING AND ARCHITECTURE.

Since the office of State Engineer was abolished, a good many years ago, the engineering work of the State has been divided between several different boards and commissioners. The Commissioner of Public Works, the Highway Commissioner, and the Débris Commissioner all have their duties, the boundaries of which are not very clearly defined, and oftentimes it is merely a question of convenience to whom or to what department a given piece of work shall be assigned. In the construction of public buildings the board of trustees, or of managers, of each institution usually selects its own engineers and architects, and each engineer or architect works along lines laid down by himself, with the result that the lessons learned from experience in the construction of one building profit nothing in the building of the next. Better results could be secured by a centralization of authority. It would be well to merge the engineering department of our State government into one department of engineering and public construction, with a single engineer at its head, who should be held responsible to the executive office and should be empowered to associate with him an expert architect, and such other experts along special lines as his work may from time to time require. It should be the duty of this office to procure or make plots of the grounds of all institutions, locating thereon all sewer and other pipe lines and drainage systems, and no alterations or enlargements of any public building should be made without first having obtained the consent and cooperation of this department of public construction.

California is a growing State, and it is inevitable that a great deal of public building must be done, roads constructed, dams built, and reservoirs excavated, and, besides, there is a world of overflowed lands to be reclaimed and arid wastes to be redeemed from drought. Of all such enterprises the fullest records should be preserved and the work be done under a continuing policy that shall begin somewhere and end at some definite goal, instead of being a patchwork beginning and ending nowhere.

It would be wise to centralize and systematize the constructive work of the State under a single head in a single office, with the purpose of procuring uniformity of effort coupled with economy of expenditure.

THE STATE AGRICULTURAL FAIR.

This State institution, properly conducted, can be made, as it once was, of great value to the agricultural and allied interests of this State. The exhibition of 1906, shorn of the objectionable features which characterized some of its predecessors, proved, by the attendance at, and interest shown in, it by exhibitors and others, that a real State agricultural fair, either in districts or at one central place, can be made worthy of State patronage.

In many of the other states such exhibitions are considered, as ours should be, of the greatest interest and value, and are visited by, literally, hundreds of thousands of people.

I would therefore recommend to the Legislature the appropriation of sufficient money to properly equip and maintain the State agricultural fair and to remove from the Capitol grounds the present eyesore of a pavilion, and erect, on the fair grounds, a respectable, convenient building for the purposes of such exhibitions.

PUBLICATION OF OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

I desire to commend to the Legislature for its special consideration the recommendation made by the Attorney-General that authority be granted for the compilation and publication of a volume to be made up of the more important opinions written in the Attorney-General's department during past years. Many such opinions which have been furnished in response to requests from different State officers and boards are of great value, and if made easily accessible would greatly facilitate the transaction of State business. A modest appropriation will be needed for this purpose.

Another important suggestion is made by the Attorney-General, who renews a recommendation first presented two years ago, that his office be relieved of the duty of passing upon applications to sue in the name of the State, and that the function of granting or withholding such permission be left with the courts, where it seems more properly to belong.

RIVER IMPROVEMENT, NAVIGATION, RECLAMATION, DRAINAGE, IRRIGATION.

The people of this State who are directly interested in preserving the navigability of our rivers, in the reclamation and drainage of the vast bodies of very fertile land which lie in our river basins, or in irrigation of those other vast bodies of fertile land which require only the irrigating ditch to make them most productive—the people who are directly interested in these matters are beginning to realize that all four of these important projects are inseparably connected the one with the other, and that each and all of them are dependent for their final perfection upon the improvement of our rivers.

The navigation of our rivers is of the utmost importance to all who occupy the great valleys through which they flow. The six million acres of level land lying between Bakersfield and Redding, together with the four million acres of rolling arable land lying tributary to these valleys, will one day easily support, in affluence and comfort, five million people. The open waterways of our great rivers will, if they be kept navigable, furnish cheap and easy transportation to the great commerce created by this dense population, as the presence of these navigable rivers will do much to keep down freight rates on the railroads. It behooves the State and the Government to see to it that the navigability of these rivers be not only kept as it is, but greatly improved. There should be fifteen feet of water in the San Joaquin as far up as Stockton and in the Sacramento as far up as Sacramento City, and nine feet above these points.

It is a well-known fact among experts that if the waters of a river be kept within its banks it will scour out its bed and deepen itself. The Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers have had many, and still have some, crevasses, or breaks, in their banks, through which the water escaped and still escapes when the rivers rise. The full scouring effect of the water was and is thus lost, and consequently the rivers are not so deep and their navigation, therefore, is more difficult than ought to be the case.

Improvement of Navigation.—Four years ago the Legislature appropriated $200,000 for river improvements, putting its expenditure into the hands of the Auditing Board to the Commissioner of Public Works and the Governor. It was determined to use this money, first, in the closing up of the largest and worst breaks in the river banks, thus confining most of the water to the channel and securing the scouring effect, and, second, to securing certain threatened points of the banks against erosion and other breaks. It was also determined, when possible, to require the owners of lands on which breaks in the river banks were or were threatened, to cooperate with and pay dollar for dollar with the State for the prosecution of the work. Under this system of cooperation several bad breaks have been stopped, other threatened breaks have been prevented, and the rivers have been greatly improved, so that navigation is much easier than it had been for a long period of years. There is now a tide of several inches at Sacramento, a thing unknown for many years before, and river steamers have no difficulty in reaching this city even at the season of lowest water.

The State appropriation, by means of this cooperation, has been made to do duty for four years. It is now about exhausted. The work on the rivers should be continued. I therefore strongly recommend that another appropriation of a like sum be made, to be expended under like conditions.

With a better river, reclamation work is made easier, cheaper, and more certain. The water, confined to the river and not allowed to escape into the basins and attack cross and back levees in the rear, is much more rapidly, easily, and cheaply prevented from inundating reclaimed lands. Navigation and reclamation go hand in hand; both being dependent upon the carrying capacity of the river channel.

The surface of lands along our rivers lying behind levees is generally lower than the high-water surface of the rivers. It is, therefore, more or less troubled by seepage water, and the rain that falls on it can not be readily drained off. The higher the bottoms of the rivers are, the more serious and expensive becomes the problem of taking care of the seepage and rain waters. The deeper the rivers, the better is navigation, the cheaper, more certain and less expensive is reclamation and drainage. The latter is, therefore, like navigation and reclamation, dependent on river improvement.

A Vast Area for Irrigation.—About ten millions of acres in and adjacent to the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys will, if irrigated, raise, in prodigious quantities, almost everything from potatoes to oranges. With proper storage reservoirs in the upper reaches of the rivers and streams of these valleys and the proper use of the countless millions of gallons of water that every year go to waste, this land will support, on irrigated and intensively cultivated farms, a family to every ten acres of its vast expanse. Upon these farms, and in the towns and cities that will grow up and be dependent on them, there can live, as I have said, five million happy, prosperous, and contented people.

The water with which to irrigate these ten million acres must be taken from our rivers and their affluents. The necessary storage reservoirs and the water for irrigation purposes can be much more easily and cheaply utilized if the rivers themselves are improved and their channels deepened so that the water may be confined therein and not allowed, as it has been, and, to a far too great extent, still is allowed, to burst the river banks, inundate the surrounding country, and play havoc with reclaimed lands. Thus, deep rivers will, as has been shown, aid navigation, reclamation, drainage, and irrigation. And these four things will add much, very much, to the wealth of this State and the prosperity of its people. With these four things provided for, north and south of the Tehachapi, our two million people will increase by leaps and bounds, and our one hundred million acres will harbor twenty-five or thirty million people.

The Legislature can, in my opinion, make no better use of the public funds than to provide for the continuance of the work of river improvement.

CALIFORNIA'S HARBORS.

With a north and south coast line of something like eight hundred miles, California has but four natural harbors of sufficient size to safely accommodate a large ocean commerce, viz: at Eureka, San Francisco, San Pedro, and San Diego. Upon these avenues to the ocean California is dependent for the exit and entrance of all the ocean commerce which may be directly or indirectly hers. Upon their proper improvement and use the prosperity not only of the cities lying on these harbors, but also of the whole State of California, to a very great extent, depends. If the shores of these harbors shall be monopolized by a single, or a few, transportation companies, that healthy development of trade and competition, upon which the prosperity of cities, states, and countries depends, will be greatly hampered and the whole State will suffer in consequence thereof.

San Francisco Bay, on its Oakland side, is an example of the paralyzing effect of such monopolization. Here, when the town was first organized, all the water front was given over into private ownership. This ownership finally passed into the hands of the Southern Pacific Company.

San Francisco's water front, thanks to the farsightedness and patriotism of some of her early citizens, has been saved to the State and is being used by and for the State. But San Francisco's water front is only part of the Bay of San Francisco. On the Oakland side is also a water front which is also of great importance to this State. It is of almost equal importance, even to San Francisco, with that portion of San Francisco Bay and its shores which lie in the City and County of San Francisco. For, through Oakland and its neighboring cities is the natural, easy, and convenient access of transcontinental railways to San Francisco Bay and city. The more railroads that terminate on San Francisco Bay, the better it will be for San Francisco. And the easier it is for these railroads to get to San Francisco, the more of them will come.

The Water Front of Oakland.—The Oakland water front, however, has been monopolized by the Southern Pacific Company and its predecessors in ownership. By means of this ownership the Southern Pacific is endeavoring to keep other and competing railroads from acquiring an easy and convenient access to the bay and San Francisco. The struggle of the Western Pacific to break through the Southern Pacific's water-front barrier is an example of what difficulties competing roads must encounter in their endeavors to get to San Francisco. That city and the whole State of California would be better off if this impediment to the approach of competing railroads did not exist.

Oakland's water front, which has passed into private ownership, consists, according to the decision of our Supreme Court, in the strip of land lying within the boundaries of the original town of Oakland and bounded by the lines of high and low tides, as they existed in 1852. Below that line of low tide, both in the estuary of San Antonio and in the Bay of San Francisco, the land lying beneath the water belongs to the State of California. Over it, however, in the interest of navigation, the United States has certain jurisdictions, which are bounded by the so-called bulkhead and pierhead lines, already established by the Government, the names of which explain their purposes.

In my first biennial message to the Legislature I called attention to the fact that certain transportation companies had already built moles and piers over this State land, and that, if not regulated by law, either the companies already occupying portions of it or others coming in hereafter, might monopolize, to the exclusion of still later comers, the whole extent of this State land. This sort of a monopoly dwarfs that portion of California's commerce passing to and from San Francisco.

Section 478 of the Civil Code requires the approval of the Surveyor-General, which approval is open to review by the courts, before a railway corporation may acquire a right of way over public lands of this State. The Legislature of 1903 passed a bill leaving out the provision that the courts may review the approval of State officers of such applications for rights of way. I vetoed this bill on the ground that the interests of the State would be much better conserved if such matters were to remain subject to court review.

Section 475 of the Civil Code provides that grants of rights of way for railroads over public lands, as provided in Section 474, do not apply to any lands of the State within the corporate limits of towns and cities, or within three miles thereof. The Legislature of 1903 passed a bill repealing this Section 475 of the Civil Code. I vetoed this bill on the ground that no particular inconvenience had resulted from this restriction; that railroad companies had had apparently no particular difficulty in gaining access to and across the lands described in Section 475; and that public improvements have not suffered to any appreciable extent because of the provisions of this section.

Section 474 of the Civil Code grants rights of way to railroads over swamp, overflowed, or other public lands of the State, not exceeding two hundred feet in width. The Legislature of 1903 passed a bill which removed the limit of width for railroad rights of way over such public lands. I vetoed this bill on the ground that it is not sound public policy to allow unlimited width for railroad rights of way across the public lands.

Occupation of State Lands.—On the Oakland side of the Bay of San Francisco, extending beyond and below the line of low tide, and, therefore, occupying State lands, are the mole and pier of the Southern Pacific and the pier of the Key Route. These two structures cover many acres of State lands. Under Sections 475 and 478 of the Civil Code as they now stand, these two structures have been built without any authority of law. Had the proposed amendments of 1903 become laws, these lands could have been granted to the railroads and could have been widened.

indefinitely until they monopolized, to the exclusion of other railroads, the land of the State opposite the Oakland water front and for three miles to the north of the town of Berkeley and three miles to the south of the city of Alameda. Soon after I became Governor I asked the opinion of Attorney-General Webb as to how railroad companies could obtain rights of way across public lands lying within incorporated cities or towns within three miles thereof. His answer may be summed up in the following quotation from it:

"There is no procedure laid down in the codes of California by which a railroad corporation may acquire a right of way for the location and maintenance of roads, beds, tracks, wharves, piers, ships, or terminal facilities over submerged lands beyond the corporate limits of the City of Oakland, which limits are the ordinary low-tide line, and the only method left for such a corporation to pursue is to obtain a special grant from the Legislature."

In my message to the Legislature in 1905, in commenting on this opinion of the Attorney-General, I said as follows:

"If this state of facts obtains as to Oakland, it must also obtain as to any other city or town which is placed as Oakland is, and the need of a State policy in respect to water fronts appears to be indicated. Such a policy should be carefully considered, in order that laws framed in accordance with it may be liberal enough to encourage enterprise and yet conservative enough to prevent monopolization of valuable privileges and to protect the rights and interests of the State in water-front property. Commercial opportunities are beneficial only as they are utilized, and the building of wharves, piers, and docks promotes the general welfare. There should, therefore, be some well-guarded law under which the right to occupy submerged State land, within or near, incorporated cities for these purposes may be facilitated and regulated."

"As the lands under navigable water are held by the State only in trust, for the promotion of commerce, it can never entirely alienate such lands, and it is a question to be determined by the State government what the tenure of the occupants shall be. Some states, like the State of Washington, on this coast, and the State of Massachusetts, on the Atlantic coast, grant leases for long terms of years and charge rentals. If legislation should be had on this subject, and it should be determined that the leasehold policy is the most expedient one for California, the rentals should not be fixed so high as to deter enterprise. The primary aim should be to develop commerce; the collection of revenue from this source, while desirable in itself, is secondary."

I renew my recommendation that a well-guarded law be passed, under which any railroad company may be allowed to lease from the State a sufficient, and only a sufficient, portion of the public submerged lands lying within the limits of incorporated cities, or within three miles thereof, to enable them conveniently to carry their traffic to navigable water. This law should be carefully guarded so as not to remove it from court review and so that only portions of the public domain not more than two hundred feet in width shall be leased to any corporation. The greatest care should be exercised to keep out of such legislation a repetition of the attempt of 1903 to put it into the power of a single corporation, or even a few corporations, to monopolize, to the exclusion of competing roads, public lands, the proper use of which is of such great value to all the people of this State.

Such lands, in limited quantities, ought to be leased to the corporations desiring to use them; and the terms of the leases should be such that the rental to be paid shall be determined at intervals of not longer than ten years. While the yearly rentals should, in no case, be large enough to hamper trade or put any onerous burdens upon the lessees, the privilege to be enjoyed is valuable enough to call for the paying of a reasonable rental. And in this rapidly growing State there would be no hardship in providing that the rental should be fixed every ten years.

Safeguarding of State's Interests—All these observations apply not alone to the Bay of San Francisco. They are equally pertinent to Humboldt Bay, to San Pedro, and to San Diego. The City of Los Angeles is especially interested in the port of San Pedro, and the rights of the State to the lands in that harbor should be jealously guarded, lest the metropolis of the south suddenly wake up to the fact that her sea trade and commerce, having fallen into the hands of a monopoly at the shore, are seriously hampered and her prosperity greatly interfered with.

I especially call the serious attention of the Legislature to this matter of the protection of our few harbors, upon which depends, to a very great extent, the future prosperity of this State and its people.

In regard to the Oakland harbor, or that portion of San Francisco Bay lying opposite or contiguous to Oakland, I can not refrain from again calling the attention of the Legislature to the vast importance of so safeguarding it that it may be open to the approach and use of all railroads that desire to get to deep water. I have called attention to the fact that upon its proper safeguarding and use the future prosperity of San Francisco, to a very large extent, depends. For, as is apparent, San Francisco's future prosperity depends, very largely, upon competing railroads obtaining easy and convenient access to her; and that access is easiest and most conveniently obtained over the State lands lying in front of and contiguous to Oakland.

But San Francisco is not the only portion of this State that is vitally interested in the protection from monopolization of these State lands and their use by competing railroads. The counties lying in and contiguous to the great Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys, in fact all the counties lying north of the Tehachapi, are also vitally interested in the preservation and the proper use of this property of the State. For over it must pass much of the trade and commerce coming from and going to these counties; and the railroads, steam and electric, transcontinental and intrastate, which we hope will, ere long, gridiron our valleys in every direction, will center at the Bay of San Francisco and will, if it be possible for them to do so, gain access to deep water across the State lands lying in front of or adjacent to Oakland. The whole State, certainly every county north of Tehachapi, is interested in seeing that these lands be not monopolized by one, or even a few, transportation companies, but that they be kept for the use of all who desire to utilize them.

A Commission of Inquiry.—In line with this is the taking over by the State of the actual improvements, for trade and commerce, of these lands, as the water front of San Francisco has been taken over and improved by the State. I recommend that a commission, to consist of the President of the Board of State Harbor Commissioners for San Francisco, the Mayor of the City of Oakland, and the State Commissioner of Public Works, be authorized to examine into the State lands lying in front of and contiguous to the City of Oakland and plot and map a system of improvements thereof, in the interest of commerce and trade, and report the same to the next session of the Legislature; and that, in order that this work be expeditiously carried out, the sum of $75,000 be appropriated by the Legislature for the employment of engineers by and the necessary expenses of the said commission.

I also recommend that similar commissions, for similar purposes, be constituted for Humboldt Bay, San Pedro Harbor, and San Diego Bay, and that adequate appropriations for the use of these commissions be made.

In this connection, I call particular attention to the report of the Harbor Commissioners for the Bay of San Diego, which represents that there has been extensive encroachment upon the State's tide lands in that harbor, and that to prevent the ultimate loss of much valuable property the boundaries of the State-owned lands should be definitely ascertained and clearly established as soon as possible through surveys and the production of other evidence. This is an important suggestion, and no doubt it applies with as much force to San Pedro and other harbors as to San Diego.

Wharves and Docks in San Francisco.—The wharf and dock facilities at San Francisco are by no means sufficient for the purposes of the vast commerce which is passing through its portals. For a long time previous to the catastrophe of April, 1906, it was evident that the growing commerce of the port of San Francisco required immediate extension of its facilities. And, therefore, the Legislature of 1903 proposed to the people that they vote the State's credit for two millions of dollars in bonds for that purpose. This legislative proposition was submitted to the people two years later, as the law directs, at the election of 1904. The people voted the bonds, but owing to an adverse opinion of the Attorney-General of the State concerning their legality, it became necessary to submit the matter to the Supreme Court. That tribunal decided, late in 1905, that the bonds had been legally issued. The Harbor Commission thereupon, following the red-tape provisions of the law, proceeded to ask for and accept bids, and award contracts for part of the necessary work, and had decided to award a contract therefor on April 19, 1906. The catastrophe of April 18th, however, compelled a postponement of the work for several months. It is now under way.

It will thus be seen that the delays in the prosecution of this work have been from two sources: first, three years as required by law and necessity, second, six months on account of the catastrophe of April 18, 1906, and the days following.

The destruction of the City of San Francisco has suddenly increased the work put upon the harbor facilities. The much larger importations of building materials, which have suddenly increased one hundred per cent, to say nothing of other supplies, together with the destruction of a portion of the already insufficient docks and wharves, have demoralized the trade of the port.

Another thing which has added to the confusion is the fact that, owing to the bad condition of the streets, the capacity of teams for moving freight from the docks has suddenly decreased one third at least. That is to say, a team that was able to move three tons before the fire, is now able to move but two tons. The result of this is that it has become impossible to remove freight from the wharves as fast as it is unloaded from the vessels; and, therefore, on account of the incumbered docks, it is impossible to unload vessels so expeditiously as they should be. Add to this the fact that the warehouses of the city have been, in great part, destroyed, which renders consignees loth to remove freight from the covered wharves, and we have a still further, and not inconsiderable, increase in the causes which lead to San Francisco's present distress in regard to her wharfage facilities.

Charges Imposed on Shipping.—The claim is often made that the port of San Francisco is the most expensive port in the world. As a matter of fact, however, the port charges of San Francisco, that is, those that are fixed by and controlled by the State, are lower than those of any other organized port in the world. Similar charges in other ports, such as Sydney, in Australia; Hamburg and Bremen, in Germany; London and Liverpool, in England; New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Portland (Oregon), Seattle, and Tacoma, in this country, vary from $7\frac{1}{2}$ cents to \$1.50 per ton, according to kind, for freight which, in San Francisco, pays a uniform toll of 5 cents per ton. Pilot charges, towage, water, ballast, stevedoring, and supplies of all kinds may be higher in San Francisco than they are in other ports, but these charges are not fixed by the State. I repeat that instead of being higher in the port of San Francisco, the port charges which are fixed by the Harbor Commission under the State laws are lower than those of any other port in the world.

The dockage charged by the State at San Francisco is 2 cents per ton for vessels up to 208 tons register discharging cargo, three quarters of a cent for each additional ton, half rates for vessels receiving cargo or discharging or receiving ballast or lying idle. European dockage charges vary from $5\frac{1}{2}$ to 34 cents per registered ton for vessels entering or leaving the docks. Besides this there is a discharging expense of $1\frac{1}{2}$ to 8 cents per ton. There are many ports also in which, in addition to these charges, there are town dues on goods ranging from 7 cents to \$1.25 per ton of freight passing over the wharves. Our wharfage charges are a uniform rate of 5 cents per ton passing over the wharves.

Only about one half the revenue received by the State is derived from tonnage and dockage. The other half is derived from the belt railroad, rents of the ferry building, etc. And only about sixty per cent of the wharfage, of 5 cents per ton, is collected from the freight of ships lying at our docks. The remainder, forty per cent, of our wharfage receipts is collected from the freight which arrives, by ferry, in the railroad cars which pass over the water front.

The method of administering the State's property at the port of San Francisco has long since outlived its usefulness. Already decrepit, its absolute inability became apparent when the great catastrophe suddenly threw upon it a large amount of extra work for which it was not prepared. When the business of the port was much smaller, its affairs could be readily managed by a commission of three members, none of whom need be or can be, under the law, expert in such matters. A commission appointed every four years, as this one is, and composed, as this one has to be under the law, of men whose business is not connected with ships, shipping, wharves, or salt water, must necessarily fall, as the Harbor Commission has, slowly, but surely, deeper and deeper into the pool of politics, until it is looked upon, from Siskiyou to San Diego, from Del Norte to Riverside, as a convenient place in which to take care of political workers and incompetents of all kinds. This is no new thing. It has grown up during the years, until the pressure from the politicians upon the commissioners is too great to be entirely resisted, and the San Francisco water front is looked upon as a fair haven into which shall be towed the political derelicts of the whole State. It would be cheaper, far cheaper, for the State to pension off on full salaries a large percentage of the employes of the water front and employ in their place competent and industrious men. Under such circumstances, the work could be better, more expeditiously and more economically done with two thirds or one half as many employes.

Competent Persons Who Are Debarred.—I said above that the law prevents the appointment, as Harbor Commissioners for the port of San Francisco, of men whose business is connected directly or indirectly with ships, shipping, wharves, or salt water. In support of that statement I quote from the law, as follows:

"No person shall be appointed to any office by virtue of this article, nor be employed in the service of the board, unless he be a qualified elector of the State, nor shall any person be so appointed or employed who is interested in any vessel sailing or plying in and out of or on the inland waters of the Bay of San Francisco, as owner, mortgagee, or otherwise, or a stockholder or in any company owning such vessels, who is a consignee, the general or freight agent or manager of any such vessel, or agent or other employe of the owner of any such vessels, or who is engaged in the business of marine insurance, or of procuring such insurance, or who is engaged as a stevedore, in loading and discharging such vessels. No person not a citizen of the United States shall be employed either as a contractor or laborer on any work done under this article. And eight hours shall constitute a legal day's work, whether performed directly for the State or for the person or persons receiving a contract under this article." (Sec 2545, Political Code.)

It will thus be seen that any Governor who obeys the law in the appointing of Harbor Commissioners must overlook all those who, by business training, are best capable of administering and looking after the affairs of a great port. But worse than this, worse because even those who are not trained by previous business experience to be Harbor Commissioners can, with reasonable intelligence and assiduity, become expert in the duties thereof—worse than this, the term of office of the commissioners being four years, no sooner do incumbents become acquainted with the duties of their positions than they are displaced by others, who, as their predecessors were, are compelled to learn their duties, to be, in turn, displaced, when they have accomplished the task. Worst of all, however, is the notion, which has become an unwritten law of custom, that the first duty of a Harbor Commissioner is to take care of political derelicts, without regard to fitness, competency, or industry, except in political campaigns.

The salaries paid commissioners are also entirely inadequate to secure the services of men of large experience and business fitness as Harbor Commissioners. No man whose previous business training would fit him to successfully manage such an immense and varied business enterprise as is transacted on the water front of San Francisco can afford to give all his time, as the President of the Board must, for $300 per month, even if the position were secure for a longer period than four years. And to expect competent men to give their whole time, or any great portion of it, as associate commissioners should, to the State for $250 per month, is worse than an absurdity.

The System Wrong in Conception.—The whole system upon which the administration of the San Francisco water front is based is wrong, radically wrong. Instead of there being three commissioners, there should be one commissioner, whose term of office should be dependent only upon his rendering efficient service and who should be paid a salary commensurate with the value of the service rendered to a business of the magnitude of that transacted on the San Francisco water front. Under this commissioner should be various departments, each headed by men selected by and responsible only to the commissioner. The subordinates of these department chiefs should be selected by and be responsible to, and only to, their chiefs. Efficiency and competency should be the only criteria of employment or retention. But while the executive functions, for the sake of a more energetic administration, should be thus concentrated in one person, it might, and probably would, be found expedient to associate with the commissioner an advisory board, in about the same way in which the State Commissioner of Public Works has associated with him, for certain purposes, an auditing board. In this way, and in this way only, can the water front of San Francisco be put into shape to properly take care of the business passing and to pass over it.

Whether such a state of affairs shall be brought about depends upon the Legislature, in whose hands is the power to initiate and to bring about the necessary changes in the law.

Progress of the Construction Work.—There has been a good deal of complaint because the destroyed portion of the San Francisco water front has not been more expeditiously restored and new wharves built. That material for the restoration of private edifices in San Francisco has not been available in sufficient quantities everybody knows. The State is in no better position in this regard than individuals. It has been absolutely impossible for the State to secure lumber and material, either in proper sizes or sufficient quantity, to more expeditiously replace its destroyed property. It would, for instance, be worse than foolish to use green, or uncreosoted, piles in the teredo- and limpoma-infested waters of San Francisco Bay. Such piles have a life of only about two years, and wharves built upon them would hardly be more than completed before their supports, eaten off by the marine worms, would require the entire replacement of the piling. Not only would this be an absolute waste of public money, but it would require that such wharves shall be thrown out of commission, pending repairs, about every two years, and this should not be permitted even to relieve the present water front distress. The only way in which wharves can be made to live ten years or more in the Bay of San Francisco is to creosote the piles or build the superstructures on cement or metal piers. At present it is utterly impossible to secure creosoted piles, and the building of cement or metal piers requires a long time, a longer time, probably, than will be required to secure and use creosoted piles.

When it is realized that private permanent work in San Francisco, meeting, as it does, the restraints of want of material and the means of its transportation, is slow in beginning, it is not to be wondered at that public work, meeting the same obstructions and the red tape required by the law, is also slow, but no slower than, it as slow as, private work.

But a properly organized administrative and executive force is not the only thing necessary for the proper expansion of the shipping facilities of the port of San Francisco. To build the necessary wharves and docks will require many millions of dollars and years of time.

The State's Duty Regarding Harbors.—San Francisco harbor and water front is the property of and should be administered by and for the benefit of the people of the State of California, of which San Francisco is only an important part.

While the improvement and expansion of the facilities at San Francisco are of direct benefit to that city and, as I have shown, to the whole upper part of this State, and also of indirect benefit to the rest of California, it must not be forgotten that there is a good harbor at San Diego, another at San Pedro, and a third at Eureka, in the improvement of each of which many of our people have a direct, and all of us have an indirect, interest. Let it not be forgotten, also, that, on the eastern shore of San Francisco Bay there is a water front which is of nearly equal value to San Francisco and the rest of the State as that which lies in the City and County of San Francisco. Therefore, when the people of California are asked to pledge the credit of the State for the extension and perfection of the shipping facilities for the water front of San Francisco, those who ask it should not forget that, while it should improve that water front, the State of California, for its own protection and future prosperity, should also see to it that the shipping facilities at San Pedro are taken in hand by the State, to the end that the great and growing City of Los Angeles and the country surrounding be not left to the tender mercies of private monopolies. The ports of Eureka and San Diego, for similar reasons, should not be longer neglected by the State. Nor should San Francisco and the counties lying north of the Tehachapi permit, for reasons before spoken of, the monopolization of the water front lying on the eastern shore of the Bay of San Francisco. And if the harbors other than that of San Francisco be not looked after and taken care of by the State, it will be difficult to persuade the people of California to vote the State's credit for the improvement of San Francisco water front.

In other words, let the efforts of those who are interested in the improvement of our harbors be directed toward a broad, patriotic, comprehensive plan looking to the improvement and the saving to the people of the State of all our harbors. Let there be no selfish, localized plan, let it be State-wide.

BETRAYALS OF TRUST BY PUBLIC OFFICIALS.

Two years ago California was humiliated by the trial and conviction of two of her State Senators for bribery. A third member of the Senate fled, and is now a fugitive from justice. The Senate is to be congratulated on its prompt action in expelling, after an exhaustive trial and before their conviction by juries, the Senators who, by their dishonest acts, brought shame and disgrace upon California and cast a stigma upon our boasted republican form of government.

The recent developments in the City of San Francisco, which seem to indicate a state of affairs at least as bad as that which existed in New York City under the régime of Tweed, ought to shame every person who claims to be a Californian. That official corruption could go to the extreme which seems to have existed in the metropolis should concern every person who loves this country and desires to see its free institutions perpetuated. For, if unchecked, this official corruption will so poison the whole body politic as to cause the sure death of public spirit and private patriotism.

The official who betrays the trust imposed in him commits a crime against his fellow citizens that is blacker, more despicable and more to be detested than even cold-blooded murder. The latter is a crime against an individual, or, at most, against a very few. But the former is a crime against many and disturbs the very foundations of our free institutions. The bribe-taker is, however, no greater criminal than the bribe-giver. Both should be scorned of all men, both should be punished for their crimes against the State. He who betrays the people in times of peace is no less a traitor to his country than he who betrays it in time of war. There are, to our shame, he it said, Benedict Arnolds still among us.

I commend to the careful, patriotic attention of the Legislature this subject and hope that some method will be devised whereby detection and swift conviction may be made more certain than, to our disgrace, be it said, appears now to be the case.

Technicalities in Our Criminal Procedure—Another thing that is engrossing the attention of all thinking men in this State is the way in which, by juggling with the technicalities of the law, justice is defied and our courts and laws made laughing-stocks by cunning lawyers. California ought to blush when it remembers how our criminal procedure permitted the notorious George D. Collins to juggle with justice, defy the courts, roll up needless expenses for the public purse to hear and, worse, far worse than this, implant still deeper in the public mind the suspicion that our laws and courts are made and conducted not for the purpose of doing but hampering justice. And no one has forgotten how, only a short time ago, another attorney, in suing for a fee, publicly set forth how, by means of dilatory motions and an endless trickery with the machinery of the law, he had so delayed the bringing of his client into court that the matter had become outlawed.

The San Francisco officials who have been indicted for crimes against the public good are either innocent or guilty, and in the interests of public morality, that innocence or guilt should be quickly established, and justice, either in vindication or severe punishment, should be swiftly and surely meted out to the accused. Yet we see the courts blocked and day after day, week after week, spent in the interposition of dilatory motion upon dilatory motion, followed by time-consuming argument after argument, until it would seem almost as if there was some truth in the public suspicion that the courts are sieves whose meshes are large enough to let through those with sufficient money and influence.

It is a serious matter, one that appeals to us all, that justice may be thus laughed at, the courts mocked, and the protection of our laws against criminals and criminal acts thus defied. No one of us is safe, either in life, liberty, or property, if those accused of crime may thus stave off trial until witnesses forget, are bribed or disappear, or until, by the very bedevilment of the record, some error is made upon which the technical courts of appeal may hand a reversal of conviction.

I commend this whole subject-matter also to the careful and patriotic attention of the Legislature, hoping that such changes in our criminal procedure will be made at this session as will prevent the spectacles that have, within the past two years, brought disgrace upon our laws and placed a premium upon dishonest, shameful, and indecent trickery. Be the fault where it may be, at the bar, in the trial courts, or in the Appellate or Supreme Courts, let the proper remedies be applied, so that those accused of crime shall be compelled to go to trial within a reasonable time; and let that trial be upon the merits, not the fine-spun technicalities, of the case and the law. Let a crime be quickly followed by punishment and not by judicial legerdemain and wearisome justice-refusing technicalities.

THE IMPORTANCE OF GOOD ROADS.

A living, concrete example of the benefits of good roads is afforded by conditions now existing in the City of San Francisco. Since the 18th of April, 1906, the streets of San Francisco have been, as a result of the great catastrophe, in bad condition. As a result of this, teams that could formerly handle loads of three tons can now draw but two tons. In other words, the cost of teaming, from this item alone, to say nothing of the greatly increased wear and tear on horses, harnesses, and vehicles, has increased about 33½ per cent. No more eloquent sermon on the benefits of good roads could be preached.

California has done comparatively little toward inculcating into the minds of its people the benefits of good roads. Road-building has been left almost entirely to the cities and counties, and the result has been that, with comparatively few exceptions, our counties have gone on, year after year, squandering money in turning up dirt roads in the spring, which in the winter become quagmires. The reason for this is a dual one. In the first place, those who have the making of roads in charge know little or nothing about either its theory or its practice; and, in the second place, it costs less to turn up a dirt road than it does to build a good road. The cost of the good road is, of course, less, much less, in the long run, than the summed-up cost of the yearly turning up of the dirt roads, to say nothing of the saving of money in horse flesh, harnesses, wagons, time, draught power, etc., on the good road as compared with the poor one.

Most of us in California seem to think that a road is pretty good if the natural dirt, be it sand, loam, or adobe, is thrown up in the center and smoothed a little. And it is generally considered a sort of luxury if, in addition to this, gravel is put on, to sink in the mud beneath and disappear. It is only in a very few counties that macadamized roads are at all in vogue, and they, in most localities, have been put in against the protests of those who benefit most by them.

But the macadamized road is not the best road that can be built in these days of crude oil. Nor is it the cheapest to build or maintain, the properly built oiled road being cheaper, and better, than any other road that can be constructed in California except, perhaps, in localities where rock is cheapest and oil dearest. But while it is the fact that crude oil properly applied to our various soils—sand, loam, gravel and adobe—has, in many places, made first-class, substantial roads, at a cost even as low as $150 per mile, it is also a fact that, in many other places, crude oil, improperly applied at a much greater cost, has resulted in failures and has, therefore, been abandoned as a road-making material.

The State Commissioner of Highways, Hon. N. Ellery, has made an especial study of oil as a road-making material, and has given the result of those studies in his report for 1906. Copies of this most excellent document may be had by applying to him; and I call to it the especial attention of the members of the Legislature and all those interested in good roads.

Effect On Land Values.—Not only do good roads make the products of the farm more valuable because they enable the farmer to deliver them more cheaply, but, conversely, they make the land on which those products are raised also more valuable, because the products themselves are more valuable. Just as the railroads make land more valuable because its products can be delivered more cheaply and quickly than by team, except under certain conditions of short haul and good roads, and just as the cheaper rivers can beat the railroads, so the good roads make the farmers' products and farm more valuable and bring into productive and remunerative use lands that, with poor roads, can not be utilized at a profit. By this increase in value of its lands, to say nothing of the greater prosperity of its people, the State and all its political subdivisions are greatly benefited. Smaller farms replace the great holdings, the great wheat fields give way to intensive cultivation, school houses spring up in all directions, free rural delivery, with the daily paper, and the periodicals, and the telephone, all follow fast upon the heels of the good road. It humanizes, civilizes, brings prosperity, luxury, and affluence to the farmer's door, and enables the former lonely dweller in the country to have and enjoy many of the comforts of the city.

The student of political economy sees the dangers that always have resulted and always will result from the overweening growth in wealth and population of the cities at the expense of the country. No nation has ever long survived, and no nation ever can survive, the corrupting, weakening influences that result from such a state of things. Among the healthy, vigorous, clean people of the country is found the greatest patriotism. Upon them depends that watchful care upon which in turn the perpetuity of our country depends. We have only to look at our stricken metropolis of San Francisco to see the menace to our institutions, our very liberty, that will follow the depopulation of the country brought about by the migration of the country people to the cities. The country must increase in population as do the cities to keep the balance of power and wealth from passing to the latter.

The good road will do more, far more, than any other influence, to bring this about. The good road leading to the electric railway will bring the dwelling place of him who lives fifty miles from town almost within its suburbs, and will thickly dot those fifty intervening miles with villages and the homes of happy and contented people.

Time for California to Act—But, as I have said, California has done but very little toward encouraging the building of good roads. European countries, with centuries of experience behind them, knowing the necessities therefor, maintain good roads as we maintain sheriffs and policemen. And some of the states of our country, like New York, are spending millions of dollars to aid in the building of these necessary adjuncts to and spreaders of population and civilization. The time is ripe for California, toward which are now turned the eyes of all the world, to follow the example of her older and more experienced sister states and the guidance of the still older and more experienced nations of the Old World and do her part toward aiding and encouraging the advancement of good roads.

I invite the careful attention of the Legislature to this important matter, and would recommend that a sufficiently large sum of money be appropriated, to be expended, under the supervision of the State Commissioner of Highways, in cooperating with counties and abutting landowners, in building good roads throughout the State. These State-aided good roads should be State-selected main arteries, built to State-made specifications and State-approved surveys. And toward their construction the State can well afford to pay at least one third the cost.

Oiled roads, as I have said, are cheap and good, when properly constructed. The cooperative sharing of the cost by the State would put a comparatively small expense upon the State treasury or the cooperating counties and individuals. The benefits would, however, be very great to the State, the counties, and the individuals; and the example of cheap and good main highways would soon lead to the building of similar roads by the counties themselves. The State can well afford, I think, to pay at least one third of the cost of such highways, if for no other purpose than to insure, by its supervision of the work, good roads in California. And for this purpose I recommend the appropriation of at least $250,000. This sum, in cooperation with counties and individuals, should build at least one thousand miles of good oiled roads in this State and save at least an equal sum in decreased wear and tear and increased efficiency of horses, harnesses, and wagons; besides which it will greatly increase the assessed valuations of the lands tributary to the roads thus built and soon bring back in taxes the money spent upon them.

BUILDING AND LOAN INVESTIGATION

Whether or not the Building and Loan Associations, or any of them, have been guilty of practices which can not be defended under the law or correct business methods has not been, I believe, authoritatively proven. In view, however, of the uneasiness in the public mind concerning these associations, or some of them, I am of the opinion that an investigation, by some competent authority, legislative or other, into their methods, and the enactment of legislation which will correct any evils that may be found to exist, are both timely and necessary.

Building and loan companies have been of great benefit to thousands who have availed themselves of their privileges. Honestly and well conducted, they can be of still more benefit to the home-builder of small means. And as there has been no advance in legislation to keep up with the development of the building and loan companies, I recommend to the Legislature a thorough investigation of the whole subject-matter, to the end that abuses and weaknesses, if any there be, in the laws governing these companies may be remedied and provided against.

THE STATE LIBRARY

Within the last two years the State Library has been more thoroughly organized by the Board of Trustees, who have applied the principles of the merit system by adopting a graduated scale of salaries and arranging for regular promotions from the lower to the higher grades based on experience and proved ability. At the same time the library service has been extended in a number of directions and its usefulness greatly increased. I desire to call the attention of members of the Legislature to the valuable assistance they may expect to receive in their work by consulting the legislative reference department which has been established for their convenience. Through the establishment of the traveling library system, the benefits of the State Library, heretofore confined largely to the capital city, have now been extended to all parts of the State, but more especially to the small communities which do not enjoy the advantages of public libraries of their own. There are at the present time no less than three hundred and twenty-five traveling libraries, located in as many different places, in fifty-six counties. Thus, the residents of even the smallest village may have brought to their doors, practically without cost, the advantages of a great modern library. Moreover, the State Library is rapidly becoming a storehouse of rare and valuable books, documents, and manuscripts upon the history of California.

THE JAPANESE QUESTION.

It is safe to say that the President, when he penned that portion of his annual message upon the opening of Congress in which he refers to the treatment of the Japanese in the San Francisco schools, was not aware of the conditions on this Coast, especially in California. In common with the people of the East, who have had no experience with the unassimilable people of Japan and China, the President does not understand the racial differences between the Japanese and the Chinese and people of Caucasian blood. Coming in contact only with a few educated and intelligent individuals of these two races, the people of the Eastern States do not understand that to permit the immigration of only a small fraction of the whole number of these people means the monopolizing by them of such pursuits as they may engage in. This monopolization would not militate against the public good were the monopolizers capable of being absorbed into the body politic, and, in this generation, or even in the next, becoming integral parts of our cosmopolitan people.

Unfortunately, however, neither the Japanese nor the Chinese appear to be capable of absorption and assimilation into the mass of our people. Neither race has, apparently, any desire to renounce allegiance to its mother country and become, in the true sense of the word, citizens of the United States. Our laws and customs regard intermarriage with them as miscegenation. All their energies are bent toward acquiring a competency here to enable them to live in comfort and affluence in their own countries. They collect in colonies, either in the cities or in the country, do only such business as necessity compels with any but those of their own people, and have no close relations of any kind with our people. Being able to live on a small fraction of what seems necessary to support Caucasian people, being, furthermore, clannish in the extreme and evincing neither desire nor ability to mingle with our people, the lower classes of these two nations are not, in any sense of the word, desirable immigrants to much less citizens of, this country. There are Chinese and Japanese, especially the former, who have lived in this State many years, some of them half a century, and in no essential particulars have they acquired our manners and customs. They are, practically speaking, as much foreigners, in manners, customs, habits of thought, and loyalty to their mother countries as they were when they came here. The great mass of them make no investments in this country, have no interest in its institutions and no sympathy even with our civilization or modes of thought; they make no attempt to accommodate themselves, even in dress, modes of living, or customs to those surrounding them, and, in fact, desire only to gain sufficient wealth to enable them to return to their own countries to live out the rest of their lives.

The Causes in the Races Themselves—It is beside the question to say that they show these peculiarities because of the inhospitableness of our people. Were the racial differences in civilization, thought, manners, and customs not insuperable between these Asiatics and the Caucasians, whatever inhospitableness our people might show toward them would insensibly disappear and there would be, in spite of all attempts to the contrary, signs of Americanization, in the best sense of the term, among them. Such, however, does not appear to be, in any sense, the result of their residence here. The Chinese among us are still Chinese; they wear, for the most part, their national costumes and queues, they live strictly in quarters by themselves, and preserve their national customs inviolate. The Japanese also have made no attempts to disassociate themselves from their fellows and become individuals among us. They, like the Chinese, congregate together, not in quarters, as the Chinese do, but still apart by themselves. They wear, it is true, American clothes, but they preserve the Japanese customs. And they, even more than the Chinese, refuse to do business, when it is possible to avoid it, with Caucasians.

It is useless to expect that people with such different racial characters, of such different civilization, can ever mix with our people and become absorbed into our body politic. They can not become good American citizens, it is useless to attempt to make them such.

But while the Caucasian can not reconcile himself to the Asiatic, it must not be forgotten that the Asiatic can not reconcile himself to the Caucasian. While the Caucasian looks askance at the Japanese and Chinese, both the latter have an equal, a greater, contempt for the Caucasian. To the Asiatic the Caucasian is an inferior, with whom it is little short of degrading to closely associate.

This condition of affairs exists not only in this country, but also in Japan and China. Both Europeans and Americans have lived for many years in both of these countries, yet there is no mingling of the races even there, no intermarriage, no assuming, on terms of equality, amity, and unconscious friendliness, of the dress, manners, customs, mode of living, or religion of these countries by the Caucasians living there. There, as here, each race looks upon the other as inferior.

Reasons for Separate Schools—Under these circumstances, it is not at all strange that there is an aversion to the mingling of the children of the two races. And, therefore, California has decreed that, whenever it is so desired, the local school authorities may provide separate schools for the Chinese and Japanese children, in which they shall be taught as Caucasian children are, and by equally capable teachers.

In the case of the Japanese this separation seems to be the more necessary, because many of the Japanese who desire to attend our schools are much older than the Caucasian children with whom, on account of their deficient learning, the Japanese must be enclashed. It is not at all desirable that youths, even Caucasian youths, of eighteen years or more of age, should be associated in the schools with children of tender ages. The reason therefor is sufficiently explained by its mere statement.

The laws of California require, when the local school authorities so decree, the separation of the Chinese and Japanese scholars from the Caucasian. And, as I read it, the treaty of the United States with Japan does not require that the Japanese shall be put in classes with our children. To give them as good school facilities more than complies with the treaty. Therefore, it would appear that San Francisco, in providing separate schools for the Japanese, is acting strictly within the letter and spirit of the laws of this State and is in no way acting in contrariety to the treaty with Japan.

The State of California, a sovereign state of the United States of America, has no quarrel with the government of either Japan or China. On the contrary, California has the greatest respect for these two countries, and deprecates equally any indignities which may be put upon Americans in Japan or China, or upon Japanese or Chinese subjects in this country. We realize thoroughly that it is only the irresponsible and vicious in China and Japan who insult and injure American citizens; we know equally well, and we hope that the Japanese and Chinese governments also know, that it is only the irresponsible and the vicious who, in America, insult and injure the subjects of these two great nations. All good Americans frown upon such indecencies here, as all good Chinese and Japanese frown upon them in their own country. But, nevertheless, until the courts of this country shall have declared that California has no right to do so, this State reserves to itself the prerogative and privilege of conducting, under the law, State, National, and treaty, its schools in such manner as seems best to us, and this without the slightest disrespect toward the Government of the United States or the subjects of any foreign nation.

THE DEATH OF CONTROLLER COLGAN.

The State has met with a serious loss in the death of Edward Power Colgan, State Controller, which occurred on the 20th day of last November. When last the Legislature was in session, so recently as the month of June, 1906, Mr. Colgan was present, apparently in his usual health, and rendered, as usual, valuable service, aiding in solving the financial and other problems arising out of the great disaster of April 18, 1906. Almost immediately following the close of the extraordinary session his health began to fail, and for many weeks before his death it was evident that the end could not be far off. Happily, Mr. Colgan, who had served the people of California faithfully in his important office for nearly sixteen years, lived long enough to know that his fellow citizens had honored him by re-electing him for a fifth term by the largest majority ever given to a candidate seeking their suffrages for a State office. The public career of Controller Colgan was one of high honor, and in private life he was greatly beloved. I suggest that it would be in order for the Legislature to testify in some fitting manner its appreciation of the distinguished public services of Mr. Colgan.

GEORGE C. PARDEE, Governor.

APPENDIX—LIST OF ORDERS EXTENDING EXECUTIVE CLEMENCY.

The number of orders extending executive clemency during the four years of my administration is as follows: Commutations of sentence, 100; pardons, 10; reprieves of sentence, 18; restorations to citizenship, 13. The total number of applications for clemency which were granted is therefore 141. The number of applications for clemency of all kinds received and passed upon exceed five hundred, so that the cases where favorable action was had constitute only a little over twenty-five per cent of the total number considered.

The pardon orders were issued in cases where it was clear that the prisoner was not guilty of the crime of which he was convicted, which accounts for the small number granted. The grounds upon which the commutations of sentence were made are various, including all cases where it was shown that mitigating circumstances had been uncovered and undue hardship or injustice done.

In nearly all cases the orders of commutation were granted upon the condition that, if the prisoner were ever again convicted of felony, he shall be compelled to serve out the remainder of his original sentence, in addition to the sentence imposed for the new offense. The efficacy of this condition as a deterrent of further crime on the part of the released prisoner has been demonstrated, and in several cases, where the condition was violated, the offender has been made to suffer the added penalty.

Following is a list of clemency cases where favorable action was had, with a brief synopsis of the facts of the case and the reasons for extending clemency.

PARDONS.

March 4, 1905. Benjamin Wright, convicted in Santa Clara County in January, 1905, of misdemeanor and sentenced to pay a fine of $150 and to imprisonment of ten days in the County Jail. It was represented that Wright had paid his fine and that he had been amply punished for his infraction of the law. The pardon was issued upon the recommendation of the following officers of the town of Mayfield: A. B. Clark, C. Ducker, L. Distel, P. Towne, Alexander Peers, all members of the Board of Trustees; W. H. Myrick, Clerk; Frank Forshay, Marshal; F. W. Weishaar, Treasurer; W. A. Beasley, Attorney.

December 21, 1905. Thomas W. Kelly, convicted in Fresno County in November, 1891, of murder in the first degree, and sentenced to life imprisonment. At San Quentin State Prison, on October 6, 1905, in the presence of the Warden and the Chaplain, Frank Woods, condemned to death and then about to mount the scaffold, confessed that it was he and not Kelly who committed the murder for which Kelly was imprisoned. After searching investigation, the prison officials certified that they could discover nothing to indicate collusion between Woods and Kelly. In addition the following persons who were familiar with the facts of the crime, state that they have always entertained grave doubts as to the correctness of the verdict, and all urged the release of Kelly, who had served a term equivalent to a sentence of twenty-two years, viz: W. D. Tupper, then District Attorney; H. H. Welsh, the Assistant District Attorney; Frank H. Short, and J. M. Hensley, then Sheriff.

July 21, 1906. Narcisso Mariotti, convicted in Sacramento County in November, 1904, of assault with a deadly weapon, and sentenced for two years. Mariotti, who was then confined in Stockton State Hospital for the Insane, was pardoned upon the report of Dr. F. W. Hatch, General Superintendent of State Hospitals, which was in part as follows: "I am convinced of his insanity at the present time and am of the opinion that the developments in the case go far to confirm our opinion that he was not sane at the time of the commission of the crime." This report was supplemented by a statement signed by Judge E. C. Hart and District Attorney A. M. Seymour, which is in part as follows: "It is our sincere belief that he was insane, and we are of the opinion, as a matter of law, that he committed no crime."

November 20, 1906. James Dowdall, convicted in San Francisco in October, 1906, of robbery, and sentenced for fifty years. Dowdall was pardoned because of the confession by John Siemsen and Louis Dabner that they committed the crime for which he was imprisoned. The confession was so circumstantial and accurate in its details as to leave no doubt of its truth. Dr. T. B. W. Leland, the prosecuting witness, acknowledged that he was mistaken in identifying Dowdall, and recommended his pardon. The papers were referred to the Justices of the Supreme Court, who recommended pardon, saying: "We are satisfied from an examination of the papers accompanying his application that his conviction was due to mistake of identity."

December 6, 1906. Edward Pincus, convicted of vagrancy in the Police Court of Los Angeles City in March, 1903, and sentenced for six months in the County Jail. The judgment was entered upon the failure of Pincus to appear, and after his bail of five dollars had been forfeited. It was represented that sentence was passed without the knowledge of Pincus, and that, although it was never set aside, there had never been any effort on the part of the Los Angeles officials to take him into custody, though nearly four years had elapsed and he had lived openly and decently in said city. He was pardoned on the recommendation of W. H. Savage, John W. Stetson, Dr. H. J. Daniels, and others familiar with the facts.

COMMUTATIONS OF SENTENCE

January 7, 1905. Rosie Alameda, convicted in December, 1904, of vagrancy before the Police Court of the City of Oakland, and sentenced for a term of six months in the City Prison. It was represented by Anita C. Whitney, Secretary of the Associated Charities; Warren Olney, Mayor of Oakland; J. W. McClymonds, City Superintendent of Schools, and other workers in charitable organizations, that the associations in the prison would thwart all effort to reform said prisoner, and that her extreme youth (sixteen years) rendered it possible to effect her reformation by means of proper influences and surroundings. Having served one month in prison, which, under the circumstances, was ample punishment, she was released.

January 18, 1905. Joseph Bryan, convicted on two charges of burglary in Sonoma County, in April, 1896, and sentenced for a term of twenty years. His term was commuted to expire January 23, 1905. It appears that a rumor current at the time of the trial to the effect that Bryan was concerned in a still more serious crime, lately committed, contributed to the severity of the sentence. This rumor was afterwards found to be without foundation. Bryan's petition was indorsed by S. K. Dougherty, who presided as Judge at the trial; Emmett Seawall, the District Attorney, who prosecuted the case; A. G. Burnett, A. B. Lemmon, J. A. Barham, and other prominent citizens of Sonoma County. A majority of the Justices of the Supreme Court also recommended clemency in this case.

January 23, 1905. John E. Sexton, convicted in El Dorado County, in January, 1900, of extortion, and sentenced for a term of two years. His sentence was commuted to expire January 30, 1905. Counting the time spent in the County Jail awaiting trial and appeal, Sexton had served all but one month of his full sentence.

In passing upon Sexton's case the Supreme Court said, "Owing to the peculiar circumstances of the case, and the character of the evidence relied upon to support the verdict, we think the law would have been well satisfied with a judgment finding the defendant guilty of a misdemeanor." It was these considerations which were urged by citizens of El Dorado County and elsewhere to warrant Sexton's release, among such citizens being C. E. Peters, District Attorney; G. J. Carpenter, W. F. Bray, James W. Keys, W. C. Van Fleet.

May 2, 1905. Thomas Cody, convicted in Los Angeles County in December, 1901, of grand larceny, upon two separate informations, and sentenced for a term of ten years. His term was commuted to expire July 1, 1905. The recommendation for Cody's release was signed by the State Board of Prison Directors and by B. N. Smith, the Judge who presided at the trial. The resolution of the Board recites that Cody's offense consisted in the stealing of two bicycles, and that the sentence was disproportionate to the crime committed. It also certified that his conduct as a prisoner was exemplary and that he had rendered faithful and valuable services to the State.

May 2, 1905. Charles H. Parks, convicted in Solano County in September, 1900, of rape, and sentenced for a term of twenty years. His term was commuted to expire on the first Monday in May, 1906. Clemency in this case was granted upon the recommendation of the trial Judge, A. J. Buckles, and upon a statement of the case showing extenuating circumstances. There was also presented a sworn statement by the prosecuting witness exonerating Parks from complicity in the crime.

May 9, 1905. Frank Kelly, convicted in Sacramento County in April, 1897, of burglary in the first degree and prior, and sentenced for a term of fifteen years. His term was commuted to expire May 15, 1906. It appears from the statement signed by Max P. Fisher, the arresting officer, E. C. Hart, the committing Judge; F. D. Ryan, District Attorney at the time of the trial, and A. M. Seymour, present District Attorney, that Kelly was not the leader in the crime, and that after his conviction he imparted valuable information to the officers, which assisted materially in obtaining other convictions. At the time of his release he had served a term equivalent to a sentence of about twelve years.

May 9, 1905. Espolinario Martinez, convicted in Los Angeles County in June, 1903, of rape, and sentenced to the minimum term of five years. His term was commuted to expire May 15, 1905. The release was granted upon the recommendation of Judge B. N. Smith and District Attorney Fredericks. The Judge stated that if any discretion had been given him under the law Martinez would never have been sentenced to the State Prison, since it was clearly shown that the offense was committed without criminal intent, and with the consent of the prosecutrix, whom Martinez had lived with as man and wife.

June 14, 1905. Albert L. Williams, convicted in Merced County in December, 1888, of murder in the first degree, and sentenced to life imprisonment. His term was commuted to expire July 3, 1905. The release of Williams was recommended by C. H. Marks, the committing Judge, a majority of the trial jurors, and by a majority of the Justices of the Supreme Court. It appears that the crime was committed without the appearance of any murderous motive, and without premeditation or malice, the relations between Williams and the deceased being of the friendliest nature at the time of the homicide, and the shooting having occurred under circumstances which might well bear out the theory of accidental homicide, or at most of manslaughter. Williams had served a term equivalent to a sentence of twenty-seven years.

June 20, 1905. William J. Hamilton, convicted in June, 1905, of drunkenness and vagrancy before the Police Court of Oakland, and sentenced to a term of thirty-three days in the City Jail. He was released by commutation, after serving about half of his sentence, upon a statement of facts by W. H. Thomas, Commander of Appomattox Post No. 50, G. A. R., and upon the recommendation of George Samuels, the committing Judge. The statement showed that Hamilton was in no sense a vagrant, but was employed at San José, and had come to Oakland to prepare vouchers for his quarterly pension.

August 14, 1905. Christopher Murphy, convicted in Alameda County in September, 1904, of assault with a deadly weapon, and sentenced to a term of eighteen months in the County Jail. He was granted clemency upon a statement of facts indorsed by the following citizens of Oakland, viz., Alexander Young, Jr., L. L. M. Salsburg, E. M. Gibson, W. G. Palmanteer, H. Abrahamson, M. J. Keller, and Frank Barnett. Murphy's offense consisted in participating in a general fight, started in a crowd returning from a public picnic, in which many others took part, none of whom were prosecuted for their part in the affair. At the time of his release Murphy had served all but four months of his sentence.

August 18, 1905. Walter Tallmadge, convicted in Tulare County in November, 1896, of grand larceny, and sentenced for a term of eighteen years. He was released upon the recommendation of a majority of the Justices of the Supreme Court and upon a report by Charles F. Gladding, the prison physician, to the effect that the prisoner was suffering from an incurable ailment. Tallmadge's crime consisted in the stealing of hogs, and it appears that the sentence was out of all proportion to the offense committed.

September 22, 1905. James K. McKenzie, convicted of battery in San Francisco in June, 1905, and sentenced for five months in the County Jail. His term was commuted on the recommendation of the committing Judge, George H. Cabaniss, who stated that in the light of subsequent developments the sentence was too severe, the offense being that of drunkenness and disorderly conduct. The petition was indorsed by the prosecuting attorney, J. M. Hanley, by Sheriff P. J. Curtis, and by other officials of the County Jail.

October 11, 1905 William Crawford, convicted of battery in Kern County in May, 1905, and sentenced for six months in the County Jail. The petition was indorsed by the committing Judge, A. W. Marion, Hon. S. C. Smith, Congressman, and R. L. Stockton, Superintendent of Schools, and recited that facts were disclosed subsequent to the trial mitigating the seriousness of Crawford's offense.

October 23, 1905. J. J. Donnelly, convicted in San Francisco in October, 1894, of robbery with a prior conviction of misdemeanor, and sentenced to life imprisonment. This is one of the several cases in which the committing Judge had no discretion in imposing sentence, the law then being such that no lesser punishment could be given in cases where the prisoner was convicted of robbery with a petit prior. W. T. Wallace, the committing Judge, writes: "The statute, which I am informed has since been repealed, compelled me to sentence the man for life. The circumstances are peculiar. Of course he has suffered enough, and I hope that you will intervene in his behalf." Donnelly had served a term equivalent to a sentence of about nineteen years. His term was commuted to expire in June, 1908.

October 23, 1905. Thomas McDonough, convicted in San Francisco in October, 1894, of robbery, and sentenced for twenty years. The State Prison Directors recommended the release of McDonough as "specially deserving of consideration by reason of his conscientious performance of prison duties, his consistent good conduct and the evidence of his complete reformation," and a majority of the Justices of the Supreme Court concurred in such recommendation.

October 23, 1905. Beito Linares, convicted in Los Angeles County in June, 1902, of robbery, and sentenced for ten years. Linares was released upon the petition of the officers of the County Jail at Los Angeles, indorsed by Henry T. Gage, J. D. Fredericks, Frank P. Flint, George P. Adams, and other prominent citizens of Los Angeles County. The petitioners state that while a prisoner at the County Jail Linares did signal service to the community by preventing, at the risk of his life, a general jail delivery.

October 23, 1905 William Wilson, convicted in San Joaquin County in April, 1901, of robbery with a petit prior, and sentenced to life imprisonment. This case is similar to the case of Donnelly (supra) where the committing Judge had no alternative in pronouncing sentence. Upon the statement of Judge Edward I. Jones that, if discretion had been vested in him, he would have imposed a sentence of only ten years, the term of Wilson's imprisonment was commuted to expire in April, 1910.

October 23, 1905. William Berry Holland, convicted in Alameda County in August, 1895, of robbery with a petit prior, and sentenced to life imprisonment. This case is similar to those of Donnelly and Wilson (supra). Judge A. L. Frick stated that if discretion had been vested in him, he would not have imposed a sentence exceeding twenty years. Upon this showing Holland's sentence was commuted from life imprisonment to a term of twenty years.

October 24, 1905. George Green, convicted in San Francisco in April, 1901, of robbery with a petit prior, and sentenced to life imprisonment. This case falls in the same class as that of Donnelly, Wilson, and Holland. Judge Cook states regarding the sentence: "Had the statute stood then as it stands now, I should, in consideration of his having pleaded guilty, have imposed the minimum sentence permitted, to wit, ten years. As it did stand, however, I had no discretion, and was compelled to sentence Green to life imprisonment for stealing fifty cents." The sentence of Green was accordingly commuted to a term of ten years.

November 14, 1905 A. E. Eldridge, convicted in San Bernardino County in January, 1904, of forgery, and sentenced for two and one half years. On April 1, 1905, Eldridge was released on parole, and took up his residence in San Diego, where he obtained a responsible position, and won the respect of the community. Upon the recommendation of M. L. Ward, D. C. Collier, and other prominent citizens, Eldridge was released from the restrictions of the parole law by commutation of sentence.

November 28, 1905 John S. Leroy, convicted in Glenn County in October, 1891, of murder in the first degree, and sentenced to life imprisonment. On January 7, 1904, Leroy was paroled by the Prison Directors, and took up his residence in Kings County, where he has lived an exemplary life. The evidence upon which Leroy was convicted was wholly circumstantial, and many responsible persons, familiar with the facts, expressed their belief in his innocence, among such being D. K. Trask of Los Angeles. The petition for Leroy's release was also signed by M. L. Short and W. V. Buckner, Judge and Sheriff respectively of Kings County.

December 21, 1905. John Mahatch, an Indian, convicted in Del Norte County in June, 1904, of murder in the first degree, and sentenced to be hanged. On October 10, 1904, upon the recommendation of Marshall B. Woodworth, United States Attorney for the Northern District of California, who had been requested by the Attorney-General of the United States to investigate the case, a reprieve was granted said Mahatch. Before the expiration of the reprieve the death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment upon the recommendation of the seven Justices of the Supreme Court, and the report of Mr. Woodworth, which showed that the case was not one deserving the extreme penalty, both Mahatch and the person killed being engaged in a drunken row at the time of the killing.

December 22, 1905. J. J. Alvarez, convicted in San Diego County in February, 1880, of murder in the first degree, and sentenced to life imprisonment. The State Board of Prison Directors twice recommended the release of Alvarez, and favorable letters were received from the committing Judge, five of the jurymen, and from the representatives of the Mexican Government at Washington, D. C., and San Francisco. The ground of the various petitions was that the crime was more of the nature of manslaughter than of deliberate murder. The commutation was made conditional upon his departing from California.

December 23, 1905. Percy Holt, convicted in Sacramento City in July, 1905, of petit larceny, and sentenced for a term of six months in the County Jail. At the time of his conviction Holt was under the age of eighteen years. The commutation of sentence was granted upon the recommendation of R. M. Clarken, the committing magistrate, who stated that the sentence was imposed without full knowledge of the circumstances of the case and the previous good record of the prisoner. The petition was also indorsed by S. Luke Howe, City Attorney, and John C. March, City Justice.

December 23, 1905. Edward Sprague, convicted in Yolo County in July, 1905, of attending a boxing contest, and sentenced for a term of three hundred days in the County Jail. At the time of his release Sprague had served over five months of his sentence. Sprague pleaded guilty to the charge, expecting a fine only to be imposed. H. L. Huston, District Attorney, and E. T. Lampton, committing magistrate, recommended clemency, stating that if all the facts of the case had been brought to their knowledge Sprague would not have been so severely dealt with.

January 8, 1906. John Murbach, convicted in Napa County in February, 1883, of murder in the first degree, and sentenced to be hanged, which sentence was thereafter commuted to life imprisonment by Governor Stoneman. The present order of commutation was made on condition that Murbach depart for the State of New York and never return to this State. W. E. Price, a responsible citizen of New York, undertakes to care for him during the remainder of his life. The crime was committed while Murbach and the deceased were in a hand-to-hand fight, and the facts indicated manslaughter rather than murder. Murbach had served a term equivalent to a sentence of thirty-seven years.

January 13, 1906. George Barker, convicted in San Francisco in June, 1898 of robbery, and sentenced to imprisonment for life. Barker's term was commuted to expire on January 22, 1906, upon condition that he leave the State. The order of release was made because of the confession of T. F. Gorman, a convict under death sentence in the State of Nevada, who exonerated Barker from complicity in the robbery, and stated the facts of the crime with such detail and accuracy as to leave no doubt of the truth of his confession. It was believed, however, that Barker had a guilty knowledge of the crime, it being shown that his previous record was bad and that he had close association with the perpetrators of the crime. For this reason he was not given a full pardon.

January 29, 1906. John Grant, convicted of adultery in Contra Costa County, in November, 1905, and sentenced to imprisonment for four months in the County Jail. Grant was released upon the recommendation of W. S. Wells and H. V. Alvarado, Superior Judge and District Attorney respectively of Contra Costa County, who stated that after the passing of sentence in this case, the Supreme Court, upon a similar state of facts had held that no crime was committed, there being no knowledge on the part of the community as to the actual relations of the parties charged with adultery.

January 31, 1906. Larue Calmes, convicted in Los Angeles in November, 1905, of non-support of his family, and sentenced for one hundred and fifty days in the City Jail. The petition for clemency was indorsed by J. F. Chambers, the committing magistrate, and Wm. Frederickson, prosecuting attorney, who stated that the wife of the prisoner was ill and without means or strength to obtain necessities for her two small children, and that, having served over half of his sentence, the prisoner should be given opportunity to provide for his family.

March 26, 1906. John Murphy, convicted in San Francisco in February, 1902, of robbery, with a petit prior, and sentenced to imprisonment for life. This case is similar to that of Donnelly and others (supra) where the committing Judge had no alternative as to sentence. Judge Cook, who passed sentence, said: "Had it not been for Section 666 of the Penal Code, as it then stood, I should not have imposed more than a ten-year sentence." Accordingly the sentence was commuted to a term of ten years.

April 7, 1906. William Shanks, convicted in Napa County in May, 1906, of disturbing the peace, and sentenced for ninety days in the County Jail. The release was made upon the recommendation of Raymond Benjamin, District Attorney, who stated that Shanks's only offense was his addiction to the liquor habit, that "the purposes of his punishment have been entirely served, and it will be to his benefit and that of his needy family that he be pardoned." Luther J. Evans of Napa also indorsed the petition and agreed to give steady employment to Shanks.

April 17, 1906. John Oakes, convicted in Los Angeles in February, 1906, of battery, and sentenced for ninety days in the City Jail. The release of Oakes was ordered upon the recommendation of W. C. Patterson, member of the State Board of Charities, Rev. P. H. McDonnell, of St. Vincent's Church, and H. H. Rose, the committing magistrate, all of whom represented that imprisonment had effected a complete reformation, and that the aged wife of the prisoner was in dire need of his aid and comfort.

April 26, 1906. Wm. F. Hopkins, convicted in San Francisco of simple assault, and sentenced for ninety days in the County Jail. Upon the recommendation of Captain H. N. Morse and Captain J. J. Callundau, the prisoner was released. They represented that by reason of the fire and earthquake the prisoner's mother was alone and unprotected and on the verge of collapse, and was greatly in need of his care.

April 28, 1906. James Fitzpatrick, convicted in San Francisco in September, 1905, of burglary, and sentenced for a term of one year. It was shown that the earthquake and fire had reduced the family of Fitzpatrick to a condition where his aid and counsel were of immediate necessity, and having creditably served all but two months of his sentence he was released.

May 5, 1906. Donald A. Urquhart, convicted in Kern County in December, 1901, of forgery upon two counts, and given an aggregate sentence of ten years. The Board of State Prison Directors recommended the release of Urquhart because of his good conduct as a prisoner and the severity of his sentence, and J. W. Mahon, the committing Judge, approved the bestowal of clemency. Urquhart had served a term equivalent to a sentence of over eight years.

May 31, 1906. John McClure, convicted in Los Angeles County in March, 1905, of murder in the first degree, and sentenced to be hanged on May 4, 1906. Upon the recommendation of Chief Justice Beatty and Associate Justice Shaw, of the Supreme Court, the sentence of McClure was reprieved to June 8, 1906, to afford time to investigate the case. Fuller statements of the case were thereafter presented and the sentence of McClure was commuted to life imprisonment upon the recommendation of said Justices, it being shown that the act of McClure had not the accompaniments that betray an abandoned and malignant heart, that he was a cripple, aged, poor, and friendless, and that he committed the act to enforce his supposed rights, and out of sudden anger arising from the unjust treatment he had received from the person killed.

June 9, 1906. Julia Wilson, convicted in San Francisco in February, 1906, of vagrancy, and sentenced for a term of six months in the County Jail. The prisoner was released upon the recommendation of W. H. Langdon, District Attorney, who certified that, since her confinement in jail, she had given birth to a child, and that the accommodations were entirely inadequate for the proper care of mother and child.

June 20, 1906. John A. Harmon, convicted in San Francisco in January, 1903, and sentenced for seven years. His term was commuted to expire on November 5, 1906, upon the representation of the Folsom Prison officials that said Harmon gave intelligence to the prison officials of the contemplated break in July, 1903, and that later at the trial of the captured convicts, he testified as a witness on behalf of the prosecution. It was shown that by reason of his said services to the State said Harmon had incurred the ill-will of his fellow convicts, to such an extent that his life was not safe in their company, and he was therefore kept in solitary confinement.

June 26, 1906. Thomas Gormley, convicted in Los Angeles County in November, 1887, of rape, and sentenced for fifty years. The order of release was made upon the recommendation of Wm. A. Cheney and J. R. Dupuy, the Judge and District Attorney respectively at the trial. Judge Cheney stated that the long sentence of fifty years was imposed more because of the prevalence of crime at the time than for any other reason. Gormley's conduct as a prisoner during his confinement of nearly twenty years was exemplary.

June 26, 1906 F. O. Meister, convicted in San Francisco in January, 1906, of obtaining money under false pretenses, and sentenced for a term of nine months in the County Jail. The release of Meister was recommended by F. H. Dunne and W. H. Langdon, the Judge and the District Attorney respectively officiating at the trial. They stated that Meister's family had lost their home and support as a result of the earthquake and fire, and were in great need of his assistance. Meister had served seven out of his nine months' sentence.

June 26, 1906. Eugene Sutherland, convicted in Amador County in April, 1905, of rape, and sentenced for five years. R. C. Rust, the committing Judge, and C. P. Vicini, the District Attorney prosecuting the case, represented that the crime was one of constructive rape only, there being no violence or persuasion, and the person raped having the appearance of being over the statutory age, and consenting to the act. The Judge stated that, had he the power, he would have imposed a sentence of only one year. Sutherland's term was accordingly commuted to expire July 30, 1906.

June 26, 1906. Fred H. Taylor, convicted in Solano County in May, 1906, of disturbing the peace, and sentenced to pay a fine of ninety dollars or be imprisoned in the County Jail for ninety days. Taylor was released on the recommendation of Lieutenant F. N. Fillmore, of the U. S. Navy; John A. Brown, the committing magistrate; L. G. Harrier, Superior Judge, and T. T. C. Gregory, District Attorney. Lieutenant Fillmore stated that Taylor served on board the fire tug "Leslie" during the earthquake and fire in San Francisco, and did heroic service, his hilarious condition having undoubtedly been brought on by a relaxation from the strain of continuous rescue work.

June 26, 1906 Fred Wilson, convicted in San Francisco in March, 1901, of burglary with a petit prior, and sentenced for fifteen years. His sentence was commuted to a term of ten years on the recommendation of Judge Carroll Cook, the case being one where there was no alternative, under the law, but to give the sentence imposed. The case is similar to that of Donnelly and others (supra).

July 5, 1906. John W. Sanders, convicted in San Francisco in July, 1899, of murder in the first degree, and sentenced to life imprisonment. On December 20, 1903, the State Board of Prison Directors granted a parole to Sanders, who has since resided in Mendocino County, where he has led an exemplary life. Having been imprisoned for a term equivalent to a sentence of thirty years, he was given his freedom by commutation, the following citizens, among others, petitioning therefor: Judge J. Q. White, J. B. Sanford, John L. McNab, H. H. Miller, and J. H. Smith.

July 5, 1906. Joseph Harveston, convicted in Santa Cruz County in March, 1898, of mayhem, and sentenced for fourteen years. On October 10, 1903, Harveston was paroled by the Prison Board, and he has since lived an upright life in Santa Cruz County. Following are a few of the many responsible signatures to his petition: Judge L. E. Smith, F. A. Hibb, Duncan McPherson, F. D. Baldwin, A. A. Morey, and J. J. Leonard. His term was commuted to expire in July, 1906.

July 16, 1906. B. Roselli, convicted in Los Angeles County in March, 1906, of violating the "Child Labor Act," and sentenced for a term of five days in the City Jail. It was shown that while technically guilty of the offense, which consisted in permitting a minor child to be employed about his store, there was no intent to violate the law. The petition was indorsed by Joseph F. Chambers, the committing Judge; George Beebe and Guy Eddie, prosecuting attorneys, and W. V. Stafford, Commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

July 16, 1906 J. H. Swain, convicted in Los Angeles in October, 1905, of a misdemeanor, and sentenced to pay a fine of fifty dollars and be imprisoned in the City Jail for thirty days. H. H. Rose, the committing magistrate, and Wm. Fredericks, prosecuting attorney, recommended clemency, certifying that Swain was in a weak condition from pulmonary disease and that confinement in jail would greatly endanger the chances of his recovery. A certificate signed by Dr. J. W. Jauch corroborated this statement regarding the serious consequences of confinement. Accordingly he was released by commutation of sentence.

July 21, 1906. Earl Duke, convicted in Stanislaus County in May, 1905, of grand larceny, and sentenced for two years. At the time of the crime Duke was but eighteen years of age and pleaded guilty without urging extenuating facts which have since come to light. Having served all but six months of his sentence he was released upon the recommendation of L. W. Fulkert, the committing Judge, and L. J. Maddux, District Attorney.

August 30, 1906. D. McVicker, convicted in Napa County in June, 1906, of selling liquor within one and one-half miles of the Veterans' Home, and sentenced to a term of 120 days in the County Jail. It was represented by responsible persons that while McVicker was technically guilty, nevertheless he had no criminal intent, believing at the time that he was acting within the law. Over two hundred citizens of Napa County signed the petition, including H. C. Gesford, Superior Judge;

L. W. McKnight, the committing magistrate; D. A. Dunlap, Sheriff; F. L. Coombs, and George A. Carrere.

September 12, 1906. Chas. J. Fox, convicted in Los Angeles in March, 1906, of embezzlement and sentenced for a term of six months in the City Jail. Because of the distressing situation into which the conviction placed the wife of Fox, who, with her infant child, were without means of support, the trial Judge released him upon bonds, pending the Governor's action. W. B. Mathews, City Attorney of Los Angeles, was requested to investigate the case, and, upon his favorable report the order of release was issued.

October 2, 1906. James A. Cassaday, convicted in Napa County in September, 1904, of burglary in the first degree, and sentenced for nine years. It satisfactorily appeared that the sentence was excessive, the crime consisting in breaking into a chicken house. The petition was signed by all of the trial jurors, Theodore A. Bell, Robert Corlett, Dr. W. W. Rumsey, H. M. Meacham, and nearly two hundred other citizens of Napa County.

October 2, 1906. Chester Stephens, convicted in Sacramento County in September, 1906, of petit larceny, and sentenced for a term of six months in the County Jail. It appears that the sentence was out of proportion to the offense, which consisted in the stoning and taking of a chicken which the prisoner and a companion encountered on the road, and for which they paid the sum of one dollar to the owner when he appeared. The order of release was made upon the recommendation of C. L. Pugh, the committing magistrate, and Ezra Casselman, the prosecuting witness.

October 2, 1906. Walter W. Haskell, convicted in Sacramento County in September, 1906, of petit larceny, and sentenced for a term of six months in the County Jail. Haskell was convicted jointly with Chester Stephens (supra), and was released for the reasons assigned above.

October 11, 1906. Edward Hilder, convicted in Lassen County in August, 1905, of rape, and sentenced for thirty years. His term was commuted to expire in October, 1908, and the order was made upon the recommendation of the State Prison Directors, who desired to release Hilder on parole, but could not do so under their rules until his term had been shortened. The case was one of constructive rape only, there being no violence, and the female consenting to the act.

October 11, 1906. George Edwards Mathews, convicted in Fresno County in August, 1903, of rape, and sentenced for thirty years. His term was commuted to expire in October, 1906, upon the recommendation of H. Z. Austin, the committing Judge; O. L. Everts, District Attorney at the time of trial; Geo. W. Jones, present District Attorney; J. D. Collins, Sheriff; Frank H. Short, A. M. Drew, Dr. Chester Rowell, and many other responsible citizens of Fresno County. It was represented by them that the case was one of constructive rape only, the female freely consenting to the act.

October 11, 1906. Thomas Evans, convicted in Nevada County in March, 1898, of murder in the first degree, and sentenced to imprisonment for life. His sentence was commuted to a term of fifteen years upon the recommendation of the State Prison Directors. It was represented that the killing was the result of a hand-to-hand encounter succeeding a quarrel, and that the crime was more in the nature of manslaughter than murder. The petition was signed by F. T. Nilon, the committing Judge; C. E. Church, W. H. Martin, David F. Morgan, L. S. Calkins, and over one hundred other responsible citizens of Nevada County.

October 25, 1906. B. F. Edwards, convicted in Los Angeles County in September, 1902, of grand larceny, upon two counts, and given an aggregate sentence of eight years. The State Prison Directors recommended the release of Edwards, representing that his sentence was too severe, the crime consisting in the larceny of two bicycles. This recommendation was concurred in by a majority of the Justices of the Supreme Court, and by B. N. Smith, committing Judge; James C. Rives, District Attorney at the trial, and W. H. Auble, Chief of Police.

November 14, 1906. Charles Humphreys, convicted in Tulare County in January, 1906, of burglary in the second degree, and sentenced for two years. Since his trial, at which he pleaded guilty, facts came to light which, if known at the trial, would have prompted a lighter sentence. The release of Humphreys was consented to by W. B. Wallace, the committing Judge, and Daniel McFadzean, District Attorney of Tulare County.

November 26, 1906. Charles Anderson, convicted in Monterey County in March, 1901, of robbery, and sentenced for twenty years. Anderson was released upon the certificate of Dr. Percy Sumner, the prison physician, to the effect that he was suffering from chronic consumption and that his only hope for recovery lay in being removed to a different climate. The petition for clemency was indorsed by N. A. Dorn, the committing Judge; I. H. Anderson, then District Attorney; also by B. V. Sargent and Fred A. Treat, at present Judge and District Attorney respectively of Monterey County.

November 26, 1906 David R. Wyman, convicted in San Mateo County in December, 1901, upon charges of burglary and grand larceny, and sentenced for an aggregate term of fifteen years. His sentence was commuted to expire December 3, 1906, upon the recommendation of Judge George H. Buck and District Attorney J. J. Bullock, who represented that on account of the youth of Wyman and his previous good record the sentence was too severe, but that under the law no lesser sentence could be given than the one imposed. Over one hundred prominent citizens of San Mateo County endorsed the petition, and a majority of the Justices of the Supreme Court also recommended clemency in this case.

November 30, 1906 Charles Wyman, convicted of a violation of the election laws in San Francisco in June, 1905, and sentenced for three years. His sentence was commuted to expire at once upon the recommendation of Mr. Rudolph Spreckels, Mr. Francis J. Heney, Assistant District Attorney of San Francisco, and William J. Burns, who was connected with the office of the District Attorney in San Francisco. These gentlemen assured me that the release of Wyman would aid in the administration of justice.

November 30, 1906 Adolph Steffens, convicted of a violation of the election laws in San Francisco, in April, 1905, and sentenced for three years. His case was in all respects like that of Wyman, and he was also released upon the recommendation of Messrs. Spreckels, Heney, and Burns, upon the same assurance made in the case of Wyman.

December 6, 1906 William Morse, convicted of battery in the Justice's Court of San Diego in September, 1906, and sentenced for a term of six months in the County Jail. Upon a sworn statement by Dr. Albert J. Elliott that the prisoner was in a precarious condition of health, and upon the urgent recommendation of District Attorney Cassius Carter that clemency be granted, Morse was released by a commutation of sentence.

December 6, 1906 Patrick O'Reilly, convicted of murder in Mendocino County in June, 1887, and sentenced to life imprisonment. In August, 1904, he was paroled by the Prison Board because of good conduct and of extenuating circumstances connected with his offense. Having conducted himself well on parole for over two years, and upon strong recommendations by Judge Rutledge, District Attorney Maunon, and Hon. J. E. Pemberton his sentence was commuted so that he might be freed from parole restrictions.

December 6, 1906 C. B. Wilcor, convicted of murder in the second degree in Santa Clara County in May, 1892, and sentenced to life imprisonment. Because of long and faithful service as a prisoner he was released on parole by the Prison Board in November, 1903. Over three years having elapsed since his parole, and the Prison Board having by resolution recommended his discharge by commutation of sentence and satisfactory evidence being produced that he was worthy of clemency, the order of commutation was issued.

December 6, 1906 Ira Abbott, convicted in Nevada County in October, 1894, of murder in the second degree, and sentenced for thirty years. In December, 1903, he was paroled by the Prison Board and has since lived an exemplary life in his community. Upon the petition of C. E. Clinch, John R. Tyrrell and other responsible citizens of Nevada County, who were familiar with the facts of the case, the parole restrictions were removed by commutation of sentence.

December 6, 1906 John H. Williams, convicted in Nevada County in May, 1882, of murder, and sentenced to life imprisonment. Williams was released on parole by the Prison Board in August, 1904, and has since lived a correct life in Sacramento County. Upon the recommendation of the Prison Board, supplemented by a strong petition presented by L. T. Hatfield and others, his conditional freedom was made absolute by commutation of sentence. At the time of his release he had served a term equivalent to a sentence of over forty-one years.

December 6, 1906 Benjamin Dice, convicted of murder in the second degree in Tulare County in March, 1897, and sentenced for twenty years. In June, 1904, he was paroled by the Prison Board, and has since been supporting his wife and seven children. He was freed from the restrictions of the parole law upon the recommendation of Hon. Wheaton A. Gray, presiding Justice of the Second District Court of Appeal, who was the trial Judge in the case.

December 6, 1906 Robert Lee Horrell, convicted of murder in the first degree in Solano County in May, 1892, and sentenced to life imprisonment. Because of good conduct during his long confinement, and of mitigating facts connected with the crime, Horrell was released on parole by the Prison Board, and has since lived an exemplary life. Upon the recommendation of Mr. John McNaught, Col. George H. Pippy, and Mrs. Mary E. Hart, Horrell's term was commuted to expire on the first Monday in May, 1907.

December 7, 1906 Robert M. Wilson, convicted in Tulare County in November, 1893, and sentenced to life imprisonment. In January, 1904, Wilson was released on parole by the Prison Board, and has since occupied the position of foreman on a large dredger Mr. I. L. Borden, vice-president of the Bank of Alameda, vouched for the merits of the application. Wilson had served a term equivalent to a sentence of over twenty-one years.

December 19, 1906. Charles Kline, convicted in San Francisco in February, 1896, of burglary and sentenced for fifteen years. After serving about two years of his sentence, Kline escaped from prison and within ten days was arrested in Utah for stealing food, and was given a sentence of ten years in that State, which sentence he served out with credit. At the time Kline was released from the Utah State Prison I received letters from many prominent citizens of that State, among them being Governor Cutler, and a memorial signed by the officers of the prison, all urging me to commute the unexpired term pending against Kline in this State, and representing that he had completely reformed and had rendered valuable services to the State of Utah during his confinement. I deemed it best, however, to have him returned to this State to further expiate the offenses committed here. On December 19, 1906, his sentence was commuted by me to a term of seven years upon the urgent request of Hon. A. M. Drew, Hon. W. A. Johnstone, and other responsible persons, who vouched for the merits of the case, and upon the recommendation of a majority of the Justices of the Supreme Court.

December 19, 1906. Harvey Fowler, convicted in Los Angeles County in June, 1900, of robbery, and sentenced for twenty years. Upon a certificate by Dr. Percy Sumner, physician at San Quentin Prison, to the effect that Fowler was totally and hopelessly blind, as well as upon the assurances by responsible persons that Fowler, who is over sixty years of age, and an ex-Union soldier, would be cared for in the Soldiers' Home, I commuted his term to expire on December 24, 1906. A majority of the Justices of the Supreme Court also recommended that clemency be granted in this case.

January 3, 1907. George Donnelly, convicted of grand larceny and prior in San Francisco in November, 1895, and sentenced for thirty-five years. This is one of two cases in which Archibald Yell, Warden of Folsom Prison, makes a special recommendation of clemency. Among other things the Warden says: "During the past few years he has turned over a 'new leaf,' and has shown a decided disposition to lead an upright life. I am convinced, as near as one can be of such things, that if he could get an opportunity to show his reformation he would so. I would suggest that if you could see your way clear for doing so, you commute his sentence to twenty years." I have accordingly ordered that Donnelly's sentence be commuted to a term of twenty years, subject to the approval of a majority of the Justices of the Supreme Court.

January 3, 1907. Wong Fook Sam, a Chinaman, convicted of perjury in San Francisco in June, 1904, and sentenced for three years in the State Prison at San Quentin. Upon the urgent recommendation of Judge Carroll Cook and District Attorney Wm. H. Langdon, Fook's sentence was commuted to one month, which, added to his term of imprisonment in the County Jail, will more than make up the sentence imposed by the court. The following minute order by Judge Cook shows the reasons for extending clemency in this case:

"I will state here in open court that I am satisfied that the time this prisoner has spent in the jail has been spent for the purpose of enabling the District Attorney's office to secure a ruling from the appellate tribunal in relation to the probation act which might govern the court in future cases, and that ruling has been had, and that in aiding the State to secure such ruling the prisoner has been kept in the County Jail until the term to which he was sentenced to the State Prison has passed.

"It is not through his individual fault or the fault of his counsel that his term has not been spent in the State Prison.

"I feel, therefore, it is a case, if there ever was a case, in which executive clemency should be extended and that he should be pardoned by the Governor.

"Further than that, from facts that have come to my knowledge relative to the testimony given on the trial, I have very grave doubts as to his guilt at all, and I feel if I had been in the possession of facts I am now in possession of, at the time sentence was pronounced, I never would have pronounced any at all, believing that his conviction was secured by some testimony which was fabricated."

January 3, 1907. Roland Edwards, convicted in San Francisco in May, 1902, of attempt to rape, and sentenced to the State Prison at San Quentin for seven years. Because of an appeal taken and the subsequent issuance of stay orders, Edwards is still confined at the San Francisco County Jail. He has been imprisoned for a term equivalent to the sentence imposed by the court. I commuted his term to one day. In addition to having served practically all of his sentence, a reading of the record shows that the offense, if committed, was not an aggravated one, the attempt being made without force and without any physical injury. The main witness for the prosecution has since been convicted of a felony and other witnesses for the prosecution have since shown their unreliability, all of which bears out the contention of the defense that the crime was exaggerated by the malice of the witnesses.

January 3, 1907. Patrick Ryan, convicted in San Francisco in February, 1885, of robbery with a prior conviction of petit larceny, and sentenced to life imprisonment. This case is the same as that of several others, mentioned above, in which the Judge had no alternative but to impose life imprisonment. Judge D. J. Toohy, who tried the case, recommended the release of Ryan, saying that he had served long enough and that he was compelled, under the law, to impose an over-severe sentence. In addition to this reason for release, some doubt has been raised by the confession of one James Kelleher, who maintains that it was he and not Ryan who committed the crime. The matter was referred to Judge Carroll Cook for investigation, who examined Kelleher, and reported that as a result he had grave doubts as to Ryan's guilt, and for that reason recommended his release. His term was accordingly cut short by commutation of sentence.

January 3, 1907. George Cameron, convicted in San Francisco in September, 1898, of burglary with a previous conviction of felony, and sentenced to life imprisonment. The crime committed by Cameron consisted in the stealing with two companions of some bolts of cloth from a tailor shop, and was characterized by no aggravated features sufficient to warrant the very severe sentence imposed. His accomplices were given but five years each, although one, like Cameron, had been before convicted of a felony. Under all the circumstances, I believed that a sentence of fifteen years will be ample punishment in this case, and I accordingly ordered his sentence commuted to that term. This order to become effective must receive the consent of a majority of the Justices of the Supreme Court, which consent has been asked for.

January 3, 1907. Fred Raabe, Jr., convicted in San Francisco in May, 1904, upon two counts for robbery, and given an aggregate sentence of twenty years. I ordered his release by commutation of sentence upon the certificate of Dr. C. F. Gladding, the physician at Folsom Prison, who states: "He is a sufferer from asthma. He has been under my care and treatment for over two years, and of late the paroxysms are more frequent—as often as once a week. He is in a very emaciated condition, being also a constant sufferer from gastric and cardiac trouble. In my opinion he is liable to pass away in one of these paroxysms." For this reason and because of the youth of the prisoner at the time of the crime (eighteen years), the following persons recommended the release of the prisoner: Lewis F. Byington, the District Attorney who prosecuted the case, C. F. Curry, E. C. Hart, George W. Wittman, J. W. Hughes, J. C. B. Hebbard, and James G. Maguire. The release of the prisoner by commutation of sentence was ordered, subject to the consent of a majority of the Justices of the Supreme Court.

January 3, 1907. John McPhie convicted in Yuba County in June, 1898, of robbery, and sentenced for twenty-five years. In the year 1903 he was paroled by the Prison Board, and has since conducted himself in an exemplary manner, as attested by the following citizens of Monterey County, where he has resided: Judge B. V. Sargent, Sheriff W. J. Nesbitt, Thomas Reardon, Mayor of Salinas. His sentence was commuted so as to relieve him of the parole restrictions and allow him to accept a lucrative position outside this State.

January 3, 1907. Joseph L. Taggart, convicted in Riverside County in August, 1905, of grand larceny, and sentenced for three years. His sentence was commuted to expire on the first day of February, 1907. The evidence in this case was circumstantial and a reading of the record shows that there is some basis in the prisoner's contention that he did not commit the crime. It appeared also that up to the time of the crime he had borne a good reputation, belonging to a respectable family, and supporting his family faithfully.

January 3, 1907. Jung Waung, a Chinaman, convicted in San Francisco in June, 1888, of murder in the first degree, and sentenced to life imprisonment at San Quentin Prison. In August, 1905, the Prison Board paroled Jung Waung, the resolution to that effect reciting that "there has always been a measure of doubt as to his guilt," and further stating that "he has been of most valuable assistance to the officers of this institution." Upon a showing that the prisoner had conducted himself on parole in a most exemplary manner, and upon a guarantee that he would be removed from the State and transported to China, never to return, I granted a commutation of sentence conditioned to be void unless the deportation is accomplished within thirty days and conducted under the supervision of the parole officer of the Prison Board.

January 3, 1907. Quan Sieh, a Chinaman, convicted in San Francisco in May, 1888, of murder in the first degree, and sentenced to life imprisonment at San Quentin Prison. The case is in all respects like that of Jung Waung, the two prisoners having been jointly convicted and having been paroled by the Prison Board upon the same grounds. The commutation of sentence in this case is subject to the same conditions as in the case of Jung Waung.

RELIEVES OF SENTENCE.

February 27, 1905. Lee Look, a Chinaman, convicted in Santa Clara County in May, 1903, of murder in the first degree, and thereafter sentenced to be executed at San Quentin on Friday, March 3, 1905. The death sentence was reprieved to Friday, April 28, 1905, upon the recommendation of the District Attorney of Santa Clara County, who represented that Lee Look had filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus in the Supreme Court of the United States, thereby staying the execution in this State, and that a reprieve of sentence was necessary in order to save the expense and risk attendant upon transporting Lee Look back to Santa Clara County for re-sentence, in case the decision upon the habeas corpus proceeding was adverse to the applicant.

On April 26, 1905, upon an application by A. H. Jarman, attorney for said Lee Look, who represented upon oath that additional time was required to allow the prisoner to prepare an application for re-hearing in the Supreme Court of the United States, the death sentence was further reprieved to Friday, May 19, 1905.

April 26, 1906. John McClure, convicted in Los Angeles County in March, 1905, of murder in the first degree, and sentenced to be executed at San Quentin Prison on Friday, May 4, 1906. Upon the recommendation of W. H. Beatty, Chief Justice and Lucien Shaw, Associate Justice, of the Supreme Court, the death sentence was reprieved to Friday, June 8, 1906, to give time for an investigation of the case. Later, fuller reports upon the case were received from the Justices, and a commutation of sentence granted.

September 8, 1906. Adolph Julius Weber, convicted in Placer County in February, 1905, of murder in the first degree, and sentenced to be executed on September 12, 1906, at Folsom Prison. The sentence was reprieved to September 27, 1906, upon sworn statements by Weber's attorneys that new evidence had been discovered, and upon a request by the Attorney-General to be granted time to make a counter-showing. Weber's application for commutation of sentence was later denied and he was executed on the day set in the order of reprieve.

RESTORATIONS TO CITIZENSHIP.

The orders of restoration to citizenship in the following cases, while they are in effect formal pardons, were issued after the terms of the prisoners had expired, and upon a showing that each had, since his discharge, borne a good reputation for sobriety and industry, and in all respects had proved himself worthy to take his place as a citizen in the community.

Charles Bottorf, convicted of burglary in the second degree, and sentenced for a term of two years. Discharged October 31, 1904, upon expiration of term. Restored June 14, 1905.

Harry Coyne, convicted of a felony in Los Angeles County in June, 1896, and sentenced for a term of five years. Discharged January 17, 1900, upon expiration of term. Restored June 14, 1905.

Antone Bokariza, convicted of assault with intent to commit murder, and sentenced for a term of seven years. Discharged December 14, 1903, upon expiration of sentence. Restored June 14, 1905.

Joseph Hubert, convicted of murder in the first degree in Calaveras County in January, 1896, and sentenced to be hanged, which sentence was thereafter commuted by a previous Governor, so that he was discharged from custody in December, 1904. Upon a satisfactory showing he was restored to citizenship on June 14, 1905.

William B. Peterson, convicted of grand larceny in Sonoma County in September, 1899, and sentenced for a term of one year. Discharged July 6, 1900, upon expiration of sentence. Restored December 20, 1905.

A. E. Eldridge, convicted of forgery in San Bernardino County in January, 1904, and sentenced for a term of two and one half years. Eldridge was released on parole and later his sentence was commuted to expire on November 14, 1905. He was restored to citizenship January 29, 1906.

R. A. Shorley, convicted of burglary in Solano County in January, 1900, and sentenced for a term of five years. Discharged in August, 1903, upon expiration of sentence. Restored March 1, 1906.

Baxter D. Lightfoot, convicted of murder in the second degree in Yuba County in December, 1892, and sentenced for a term of fifteen years. Discharged in April, 1902, upon expiration of term. Restored March 1, 1906.

Leonard G. Wesley, convicted of burglary in the second degree in Kern County in May, 1904, and sentenced for a term of one year. Discharged March 6, 1905, upon expiration of sentence. Restored April 7, 1906.

Frank L. Stocking, convicted of burglary in the second degree in Merced County in December, 1896, and sentenced for a term of ten years. Discharged in January, 1904, upon expiration of sentence. Restored October 1, 1906.

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR—(CONTINUED).

On motion of Mr. Johnson of Sacramento, the following was taken up and read:

Gentlemen of the Legislature of the State of California

I have been much impressed by the ceremonies just closed. Through them, and in a most solemn and impressive manner, it has been announced that I have been chosen by the people of this great State to preside over its destinies for four years, to guard its interests, to conscientiously and to the best of my ability administer upon its affairs and to execute its laws.

With the great honor which the high office of Governor brings, there also come grave responsibilities, and appreciating this, I enter upon the discharge of my duties with a full realization of the difficulties which will confront me in passing upon the important questions which will arise, affecting the interests of our people. In meeting them, I trust I shall not falter in my duty, and that I may have the wisdom to decide them on the side of right.

We are pleased to notice that our State is steadily growing in wealth, population, and importance. For a number of years we have enjoyed a wonderful prosperity, which still remains with us, and our future seems exceedingly bright and hopeful. And why should it not be so, with our wonderful resources and great advantages? Our broad and fertile valleys; our mountains, rich in mineral wealth; our magnificent forests, our unsurpassed opportunities for manufacturing and commerce, and our salubrious climate, are attracting to-day the attention of the world, and many are seeking our shores for homes and to engage in business.

CONSTRUCTION OF TRANSCONTINENTAL LINES.

Because of our rapid increase in population and the possibilities of a wonderful development in the products of our soil, mines and forests, transcontinental railways are building, or contemplating building, to our coast and connecting us by rail with the populous states of the Mississippi Valley and the Atlantic Coast.

The completion of these roads will prove of great advantage to our State; they will add to our wealth and importance; they will cheapen both freight and passenger rates to the large markets of the East; they will develop our valleys and our coast; they will bring to us a large population, and we should offer them every encouragement, so as to hasten their completion, and put no unreasonable obstacles in their way. Railroads form a most important part in the commercial and business life of a State. They operate under franchises granted by its sovereign power, and do business as do public servants. They ought not to make excessive charges or grant rebates to favored shippers or discriminate against persons or places, and for doing so the State has the right to complain. They also ought to be treated fairly and not as a common enemy, and should be protected in all their rights, and every just encouragement offered to induce them to extend their lines and to improve and increase their service.

RIVER TRANSPORTATION.

Since the prosperity of our State depends so largely upon the facilities we have for quick, cheap, and convenient transportation, it is very important that every effort should be put forth to keep our navigable streams open and free to navigation, and to improve them to the best possible advantage. This work primarily belongs to the General Government, but much can be done by our State, and should be done. We should urge upon our representatives in Congress and upon our Senators to press before the River and Harbor Committees of the House and Senate the importance of improving the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers, in accordance with some plan to be adopted by competent engineers, and whenever it is possible for the State to render aid, it should do so. We can not be too careful in protecting these streams from causes which may tend to shoal the water, create bars, or in any other manner cause obstructions to form which hinder, delay, or impede their free navigation.

These two streams are public highways, free from corporate control, open to all alike, and if safeguarded and improved will play a most important part in the future development of two of the greatest valleys in the world—not greatest in extent, but greatest in the variety and abundance of crops which, under proper irrigation, they are capable of producing.

CAPITAL AND LABOR.

Our laws should be just and reasonable and should not alone protect the individual in his property and personal rights, but should equally protect all corporate interests. This is the day of organization and consolidation. Capital and labor are both organized, and when kept within reasonable limits and prevented from intrenching upon the rights of others, can accomplish great good, and are to be encouraged. But neither should be permitted to do those acts which are detrimental to the general welfare of all, and both should respect the right of every citizen to invest his money in any enterprise, or sell his labor in the field or factory. The right to labor, to accumulate property and to conduct a business are most sacred rights, vouchsafed to all by our Constitution, and no man or corporation in the enjoyment of any of these rights should be unlawfully or wrongfully interfered with by either organized capital or organized labor. These rights of the citizen should at all times be jealously guarded by our laws and those evading them punished, and no law should be enacted which would give to organized capital or organized labor any rights superior to or infringing upon the rights enjoyed by all the people in common.

PURE FOOD BILL.

The pure food bill enacted by the last session of Congress has made it necessary that there should be some changes in our laws. This bill applies to interstate commerce only, and does not affect articles of food prepared and drugs and medicines compounded in the states and intended to be sold and used therein. The pure food bill was very much needed to stop the wholesale adulteration of foods in the United States, and to stop the preparation of medicines containing drugs that were injurious to the people who purchased the same in ignorance of what they were buying. The law provides that there shall be a printed label on each bottle or package, showing the ingredients of the medicine or compound offered for sale. The State Board of Health, in its Nineteenth Biennial Report, says:

"Most of our long list of deaths from enteric troubles are the result of impure foods, and to stop the deaths the cause must be removed."

Strong legislation is required to stop the sale of impure food and drugs in this State, not only the sale of that manufactured or prepared here, but that which is shipped in; so that the purchaser may know what he is getting. The law enacted should be along the lines of the Act passed by Congress, so as to be as much in harmony with it as possible. It should be made a high misdemeanor for any person to manufacture within this State any article of food or drug which is adulterated or misbranded, or offer the same for sale, or to offer such food or drug for sale when shipped into the State from any other State or country.

There are patent medicines and nostrums for sale to-day in this State that are injurious to health and ought not to be sold. People who buy them are perfectly ignorant of the kind of drugs used in compounding them. The safety of the public health requires that the sale of such medicines should be suppressed, or at least that there should be plainly printed on a label to be affixed to the bottle or package, a statement giving the ingredients thereof, and the preparation when it contains morphine, opium, cocaine, heroin, chloroform, chloral hydrate and similar drugs, so that the purchaser may know what he is getting and what poison he is taking or giving to his children.

I know of no legislation more important than this, and trust that it may speedily be passed.

The Board of Health strongly recommends that such a law be enacted, and this, too, after a most careful investigation into the subject. It is to be hoped that the bill passed by Congress, together with the legislation enacted by the several states, will put an end to the evil practices of manufacturing and selling impure foods and drugs to the people of this nation.

California, because of its fruit interests and wine industries, should be the first to stand for a strong pure food law, not alone because of the protection it affords to the health of its citizens, but also because it will prove beneficial to us in a commercial sense. The branding of cottonseed oil as pure California olive oil injures our olive industry; the misbranding of our wines affects our wine producers, and the placing of labels upon inferior Eastern fruit and representing it to be California fruit is a gross injustice to those engaged in canning and preserving California fruits. Such practices are frauds upon the community and should be stopped, and every effort should be put forth to stop them. The General Government will take active steps to do so, and it is our duty to assist when and wherever we can.

DIRECT PRIMARY LAW.

The direct primary law is being discussed somewhat, and will no doubt be taken up and considered by you during this session. There is much that can be said in favor of a direct primary law, and there are many good arguments made against it. Of course, upon these you are to pass. A few weeks ago there appeared in the San Francisco "Call" a very clear and concise statement of what was intended by this law. It is as follows: "The direct primary law contemplates the nomination of partisan candidates for political office by direct vote of the members of political parties voting under the same full protection of the law that is thrown around general elections, and by employment of the Australian ballot. The voter makes his own nomination by ballot in the same manner that he votes for the candidates of his choice after nomination."

It is urged in favor of a direct primary law that all political questions should be submitted directly to the people for their decision, and that it is just as important that the voter should say who the candidates should be as to decide which one should be elected.

The candidate for office receiving the majority of votes at a primary election has been before the people and they have had an opportunity to judge of his character, his worth, and his qualifications to fill the office he is seeking. If he is an unfit and unworthy man, that too, will be known.

If you should decide in favor of a direct primary law, then the Constitution will have to be amended, because Section 2½ of Article II, provides for a primary election for the purpose of choosing delegates to attend a convention for the purpose of nominating candidates, and the section will have to be amended so as to provide for the holding of a primary election for the purpose of electing party candidates to be voted for at a general election.

Should you not deem it advisable to adopt the direct primary law, then I advise that our present primary law be amended so as to apply to the entire State, and also amended in other particulars which are necessary, but which need not be stated now. The primary law as it exists to day is too cumbersome, and should be simplified.

ALASKA-YUKON-PACIFIC EXPOSITION

Commencing on June 1, 1909, and ending on October 15, of the same year, there will be held in Seattle, Washington, an exposition known as the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition. The intent of the exposition is to exploit the marvelous resources of Alaska and to increase the oriental trade on the Pacific Ocean. This exposition will be largely attended by people living east of the Rocky Mountains, many of whom will be seeking homes or opportunities to make investments. There is no doubt but that the Northwest will make a splendid exhibit of its wonderful resources, and that many will be attracted thereby. We should take advantage of the opportunity which this exposition offers us, to place on exhibition a splendid display of the products of our soil, mines, and forests. For this purpose a reasonable sum should be appropriated, similar to that appropriated for the Lewis and Clark Exposition.

REVISION OF REVENUE LAWS.

The time has arrived in this State when we should consider the advisability of changing or amending our revenue laws and substituting a system which is more modern and which will meet the conditions of to-day. The present system of taxation is old and antiquated, having been in existence for nearly fifty years, and has not proven to be elastic enough to meet or keep pace with our growth and development. To-day we are confronted with the fact that we have upon our assessment rolls but very little more personal property than we had thirty-four years ago, notwithstanding the population of the State has trebled, and there has been a corresponding increase in our wealth. Upon investigation, we learn that real property bears nearly all the burden of taxation, and the farmer, based on the value of his property and his income, pays a greater sum for taxes in proportion than the merchant, manufacturer or other man of business. All the farmer has is in plain sight, and, consequently, is assessed, while money and credits to a large extent go free. Such conditions ought not to exist, as all property should bear its just proportion of taxes. The expense of the State is largely met by a direct tax levied upon property in the different counties. We have a Board of Equalization, whose duty it is to equalize the assessments made in the several counties of the State, so that each shall pay its just share of State taxes. It is a well-known fact that in most every instance assessments are made as low as can be so as to escape the State tax as much as possible. And while the Board by equalizing assessments endeavors to put all counties on the same basis, still with all its care there is sure to exist inequalities between different classes of property, between county and county and between city and city, which can not be prevented. The result is that one county will pay more than its just proportion, and another county will pay less. A system which makes such results possible, and can not be remedied, should be abolished. It is quite evident that some change should be made in our revenue laws, but just how far that change should go, is a question. Shall we continue the present system, with some amendments, supporting the State by a direct property tax, collected from the several counties, or shall we make radical changes in our revenue laws and separate county and State by providing that the State shall be supported from sources different than those which support the city and county?

If this question were a new one, I would advise that we approach it with great care and caution, but we find that several states have adopted the dual system, and that good results have been accomplished. It is evident that some of the evils existing to-day by reason of our present revenue laws, can best be remedied by adopting a system already in use in several of the states by separating State and local taxation.

This means that the State shall collect its revenues from sources other than a direct levy on real and personal property—of individuals, leaving to the counties and cities the exclusive right to tax such property for local purposes.

This plan will save the owners of real estate nearly $4,000,000 annually paid for State taxes, and abolishes at once the necessity for equalization between the counties. The assessment will then be local in each county and city, will be made with only local matters in view, without regard to values in other localities, and without a purpose of keeping down the State tax to a minimum by an undervaluation of property.

This system is not an untried one, as it is now in vogue in several of the states, where it has proved to be successful. It is the most modern method in use and the most just.

The State, under this system, could derive its revenues in addition to those collected from present sources, by levying a tax upon the gross earnings of railroads, street railroads, express companies, car companies; light, heat and power companies; telegraph and telephone companies; on the shares of the capital stock of banks, and upon corporate franchises.

I can not in this brief address set out in full all the reasons why there should be a separation of State and county taxes, but I respectfully call your attention to the very able and exhaustive report of the Commission on Revenue and Taxation. It is plainly demonstrated that such a separation, at least, is a vast improvement over our present system, and it is also shown that our present revenue laws are not only inadequate, but very unsatisfactory.

To bring about this separation it is necessary that the Constitution should be amended, and I advise that a resolution amending it as suggested by the Commission, be passed.

This will then refer the whole matter to the people for their consideration and the wisdom of the measure can then be fully discussed by the press. In the meantime, the Commission can continue to gather information in those states where the dual system is in use, and can also prepare amendments to our laws to meet the changed conditions if the constitutional amendment carries.

This question of revising our revenue laws seems to me to be one of great importance and I commend it to your most careful consideration, trusting that you will give to it your best thought.

HARBOR IMPROVEMENTS.

The question of harbor improvements in this State to-day is one of considerable importance, particularly as it affects San Francisco. Our commerce, both foreign and domestic, is rapidly increasing. We are extending our trade to the Orient and in Australia, and in a few years, when the Panama Canal is finished, this trade will be greatly augmented by the commerce that will spring up between this coast and the Atlantic. Steps should be taken to put the water front of San Francisco, and also of other ports in California, in condition to accommodate this fast increasing trade and to care for the great commerce which will come to us when the canal shall have been completed. The rebuilding of San Francisco will, for a number of years, call for a vast amount of building material, consisting of lumber, steel, cement, etc., and a great portion of this, particularly lumber, will come in ships and dockage and wharf room must be provided for it. There is no reason why improvements should not be commenced at once, and pushed to completion as rapidly as possible.

These improvements should be substantial and permanent, following a carefully prepared plan, so that when completed we can boast of one of the finest ports in the world. Of course, to relieve present congested conditions, some temporary work must be done, and it should be attended to at once. The Board of State Harbor Commissioners, in their Biennial Report, published in 1905, speaking of the work contemplated to be done with the $2,000,000 voted by the people of the State for the purpose of completing the sea wall south from the Ferry Building to Channel street, and also for constructing new piers and docks that may be necessary, say: "The money will be used as follows: The construction of 4,400 feet of sea wall that will approximately cost $770,000, and building eleven modern cylindrical piers along the new sea wall, having a total length of 9,600 feet and a width of 120 feet, amounting to $1,105,000." This money should be used immediately and these improvements completed as soon as possible.

When this money is exhausted if we have not sufficient docks and wharves to properly accommodate the commerce, then I advise that we submit again to the people the question of voting more money for this purpose, by issuing bonds secured by the receipts of the harbor. I am sure that the people of this State are willing to vote all the money necessary to improve this great harbor in the manner it should be improved, but they have the right to expect that the money shall be prudently expended and the best results obtained, and further, that the work shall progress rapidly, and not drag along from year to year. I sincerely trust that during the next four years the Harbor Commissioners will give to these matters their closest attention, and this administration will expect them to do so. While it is true that the cost of building materials and wages have increased, yet the improvements to be made are necessary, and a rapidly growing and pressing commerce demands them; therefore, it is not a good business policy to delay the work. With the limited wharves now existing, it is important that they should be used to the best advantage to accommodate all. Some care should be taken to see that freight is taken away in a reasonable time, and where it is not, a penalty should attach. Within the last few months the merchants and shippers of San Francisco have given considerable prominence to the conditions existing along the water front of that city, and have made many suggestions for their betterment. The State will soon be called upon to expend a large sum of money in extending the sea wall and in constructing docks and wharves to accommodate the rapidly increasing commerce coming to that port. Before this work commences, and while the Legislature is in session, I am of the opinion that some good would come from an investigation into the several harbors of the State under State control, and I would therefore recommend that a joint committee of the Senate and Assembly be appointed to make inquiries into the prevailing conditions at these several harbors, and also to ascertain pilot charges and other expenses attached to shipping; the amount of pilot fees collected and the rebates, if any, given, and to whom; the average expense of a vessel engaged in foreign trade in arriving and departing from the port of San Francisco; whether any shippers are favored over others; whether any of the wharves are being used for business other than receiving and discharging freight to the exclusion of others; what repairs and improvements are necessary, and such other matters affecting the public interests as may suggest themselves to the committee, and to make a full report thereof to the Assembly and Senate at its earliest convenience so that proper legislation may be passed if found necessary.

INSURANCE LAWS.

The effect that the recent conflagration in San Francisco has had upon insurance companies, the efforts made by some to evade the payment of their liabilities on technical grounds, and the loss, delay, and inconvenience suffered by the insured, have demonstrated that there should be some amendments made to our insurance laws affording a better protection to our citizens and making it more difficult for a foreign company to evade its just obligations. However, in making such amendments, we should act with calm deliberation, proceed cautiously and be only actuated by a desire to enact such laws as will amply protect the insured in his contract, which must be fair and just, and afford protection to the company as well. Insurance is a legitimate business and a very important one, and should be so considered. In legislating, care should be taken not to enact laws containing provisions that will be so onerous to the companies that they will be forced to withdraw from the State, or that will entail upon our people more expensive insurance than they pay to-day.

In matters of legislation affecting the insurance business, we have not progressed as rapidly as some of our sister states, notably New York and Massachusetts. Both of these states have given the question of insurance considerable study, and have a very good code of insurance laws which have proven quite successful.

We may with profit examine the laws of these two states and adopt such as we may deem proper, or at any rate they can furnish us a safe guide in drafting those laws which we may consider to be necessary for the protection of this State under the conditions existing here. There should be a standard form of policy, providing against the loss by fire, explosion, collapse or earthquake. Under such a policy there would be no doubt as to the obligations of the insurer, no doubt as to the legal meaning and effect of the provisions of the policy, and no opportunity to insert clauses not noticed or misunderstood by the insured. The contract of insurance should be made clear and certain as to its terms, and this is of the most importance.

There should also be enacted a deposit law under which companies of foreign countries will not be permitted to do business in this State unless they have on deposit in this or some other State a minimum sum, and in addition thereto the full reserves required of domestic companies, as to all policies issued upon property situated in the United States where a reserve is required. This is the law in many of the states, and had it been the law in this State the Transatlantic and other companies, which have retired to Germany without paying their losses, would not have escaped so easily, because their assets in this country might have been sufficient to have covered part of their losses, at least.

All insurance companies should be required to furnish to the insured, upon demand, the necessary blanks to make out his proof of loss, this demand to be made upon either the local or general agent representing the company in this State, and if none, then upon the Insurance Commissioner. The demand should be made within a stated time and the proof of loss submitted within a fixed period, after the blanks have been furnished.

You will no doubt have many proposed changes in the law presented to you for your consideration. I know you will proceed carefully and thoughtfully in what you do, and I trust that when your labors are finished you will present a Code of Insurance Laws equal to those existing anywhere, and which will be conservative, fair and just to all concerned. This question is a most important one, and very intricate in its details. It opens up a subject that the average person is not familiar with, and one that requires study to understand. But after all it resolves itself into what constitutes a fair agreement between the insurer and insured, and what is necessary to protect the interests of the contracting parties. When this has been solved, your work will have been finished.

There will be many important measures pending before you during this session, which I have not referred to and which will require your close attention. The most important will be in providing money to carry on the business of the State during the next two years.

Our expenses appear to be increasing out of proportion to our increase of population and wealth. We have many commissions to support, some of which seem to me to be needless. There is also a steady increase in the expenses of our various State institutions, caused by the growing number of inmates and the construction of quarters to receive them. There is no denying the fact that California is one of the most expensive states in the Union to care for, and while our attention for years has been called to the fact, we still continue along in the old way. Our burdens have been placed upon us and we are bearing them, and in all probability will continue to do so. But those burdens should be made no greater. Every effort should be made to prevent any unnecessary expenditures of money being made. When matters come before you asking for an appropriation, meet it with the question, Is it necessary? and make the parties advocating the measure show you the necessity before you grant it. We all feel a pride in our State institutions, and want to see them properly managed and cared for, and our people are willing to provide the necessary money to do this, but we don't want any extravagances. Some repairs to our public buildings will have to be made and some new ones constructed to replace those destroyed by the earthquake, but before money is appropriated for either, the character and extent of the repairs should be carefully considered, and the class and expense of new buildings thoroughly investigated, particularly the buildings to be constructed at the Agnews Asylum. The care of the insane is a big problem in our State. The percentage is greater here than in almost any other State, while the numbers in our asylums are steadily increasing. The expense of maintaining them is great already, and every effort should be made to curtail it where possible, without doing any injury to or hindering the great work we are doing. This much the people of this State have the right to expect of us, and here our duty ends.

It is for the best interests of all that the legislative and Executive departments should work in harmony. I sincerely trust that we may have the confidence of each other, and that upon all questions affecting the public welfare we may freely consult and exchange our views. A public office is a public trust, and a public trust is the highest trust known. Those vested with governmental power can by their acts destroy their State, or they can make it a strong, powerful, and influential nation. A State's administration is what its public officials make it. If it is an honest and a just one, it will have the support of all the people. If it is not, it will meet with their condemnation. The people expect of us an economic administration, that only just laws shall be passed, and that the needs of the State shall be judiciously provided for.

Ours is a large State and a grand one. It is an empire within itself. It rests here upon the Pacific Ocean in regal splendor—a queen among the states of the Nation. To-day it is inviting the best of our country to settle here and abide with us. It welcomes capital to invest in our mines, in our forests, in our valleys, and in our cities. It looks forward to a future full of hope and blest with all that makes a people great, contented and prosperous. We must be known as a progressive State, one where law and order are preserved, where capital is protected, and where labor of the highest and best type is free to follow its own calling; a State dedicated to education and all that is noblest in life.

Such a State is ours, and such a State, with all its great responsibilities, with all that is dear to the hearts of its subjects, with its present and its future hopes, has been placed in our hands as a sacred trust to guard and to protect, and God giving us strength and wisdom, we will do so.

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE OF THIRTY-SIXTH SESSION.

ON BUILDING AND LOAN CORPORATIONS.

ASSEMBLY CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, January 14, 1907.

MR. SPEAKER: Your special Committee on Building and Loan Corporations, appointed at the close of the thirty-sixth session of the Assembly, pursuant to the following resolution adopted by said body March 10, 1905 (Journal thirty-sixth session, 1905), to wit:

"Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That a committee of three Assemblymen be appointed by the Speaker of the Assembly to prepare and present to the Assembly at the thirty-seventh session a report on the building and loan associations of this State and to suggest such legislation from this investigation as they shall deem necessary. For the purpose of this investigation the said committee is hereby empowered to demand and receive such information and to subpoena witnesses to obtain such information as it shall require to prepare said report and such legislation. Said committee shall be entitled to receive, and there is hereby made payable out of the Contingent Fund of the Assembly, such sum or sums as may be necessary to defray their expenses incidental to such examinations and investigations, and such sums as may be required to pay the clerk employed by them under and by virtue of this resolution, the total expenses of this committee to be limited to one thousand dollars."

would report as follows:

Your committee met May 10, 1905, at San Francisco, California, and there adopted a plan of work, which plan in general comprised: (1) The compilation of the building and loan laws of other states; (2) the gathering of data as to the financial condition, the manner of doing business, etc., of the building and loan companies of this State; (3) the securing of suggestions and advice from those of experience in reference to needed legislation.

Space forbids that we should give anything more than a cursory review of the work of the committee, other than to say that we have met five times in all, and have given the subject a most thorough and careful consideration. From a careful digest of the building and loan laws of the states throughout the United States, we are led to the conclusion that in those states where the mutual feature of said corporation is fostered and safeguarded there the most good has come to humanity in the providing of homes for countless thousands who would otherwise be tenants and at the mercy of the landlords. From a review of the condition of the companies in this State, we find them generally in a healthy financial condition, economically managed, and giving general satisfaction.

There were on May 1, 1905, one hundred and thirty-three companies actually engaged in business in this State and nineteen in liquidation. Of one hundred and thirty-three, fully ninety per cent are what are known as mutual companies, and the remaining ten per cent nationals, or companies doing a general business in the issuing of different classes of stock. The greater number of the mutuals are doing a strictly mutual business, while some few have broken over, and in order to obtain funds or meet competition, are issuing guaranteed investment stock and thereby destroying their mutual feature.

In our work we have been ably assisted by our State Librarian and others.

Since the appointment of your committee, several of the so-called nationals have incorporated under the savings bank law.

Your committee has prepared a draft of a bill which is herewith submitted for the consideration of the Assembly.

Respectfully submitted.

DREW, Chairman.

Report received, read, and referred to Committee on Building and Loan Associations.

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE.

The following report of special committee was received and read:

SACRAMENTO, January 16, 1907.

MR. SPEAKER: Your special committee, to whom was referred Assembly Joint Resolution No. 10—Relative to the government of forest reservations, as pastures for stock, etc.—herewith report:

Upon investigation and inquiry, we find that the United States Government has already made provisions for the admission of stock, both cattle and sheep, to all of the forest reserves. Cattle are admitted to all the reserves, at a cost of thirty-five cents per head for the season, for all over six months old, under that age, free. As the privileges are given, by preference, to people living in the foothills and adjacent valleys, the arrangement seems to be satisfactory, and requires no suggestion of modification from this committee.

The mountain ranges are so classified and divided by the Government officials that cattle, alone, are admitted to the lower or timbered regions, while sheep are permitted to occupy the higher ranges beyond the timber belts. "Trails," about a mile in width, are designated through the hills and timber belt, along which sheep are allowed to pass to and from the high summer ranges, thus avoiding controversies with cattle owners and ranchers.

About forty thousand sheep have been admitted to the Sierra Reserve (north), during the year, in addition to the large number of cattle, from which the Government has derived a revenue of about $8,000. The tax levied by the Government for these privileges seems to be entirely satisfactory to the owners of both cattle and sheep, and under the systematic plans adopted by the officials of the General Government, it seems likely that the controversies and troubles heretofore experienced by stockmen and tourists will disappear and these vast mountain ranges, remaining perpetually under Government ownership and control, will become a source of profit and pleasure to the people of California.

JONES, Chairman.

On motion of Mr. Transue, the report was adopted as read.

To the Legislature of the State of California, thirty-seventh session.

This committee was appointed by virtue of the following resolution adopted at the thirty-sixth session of the Legislature:

"Resolved by the Assembly of the State of California, That a special committee of five members of this Assembly be appointed by the Speaker, and that such committee be charged with the duty of thoroughly investigating the system of common schools in this State and the laws governing the same; that said committee report to the next Legislature, submitting recommendations as a result of its investigations, which, in its judgment, may be thought necessary in order to eliminate all confusion and conflict. Said committee shall be entitled to receive from the Contingent Fund their actual traveling expenses incurred in performing its duty herein prescribed and the expense of such clerical assistance as may be necessary in connection therewith."

Under the authority thus conferred this committee held eight sessions, two at San Francisco, one at Berkeley, two at Sacramento, one at Los Angeles, one at Oakland, and one at Fresno, at which suggestions were presented by the leading educationists of the State relating to changes in the school laws, and much valuable information was secured, thus enabling the committee to reach conclusions that may result in beneficial legislation. A considerable amount of correspondence produced other valuable ideas and the Legislative Reference Department of the State Library furnished a very useful bibliographical index of various subjects investigated by your committee.

This committee also wishes to acknowledge the receipt of valuable assistance from members of the State Teachers' Association, and pertinent suggestions and recommendations from the Convention of City and County Superintendents, many of which recommendations have been adopted.

Submissive to the spirit of the resolution of its appointment, this committee has discharged its duty from the viewpoint of the State and not from the point of view of the several counties, school districts, or other centers. The Constitution of the State provides, and the Supreme Court has so interpreted its language, that the matter of education is a State affair, not a local concern of the people of the several districts; that the school system should be a homogeneous whole that shall produce an equality of results in all portions of the State.

At the outset, however, we have reached the conclusion that no locality should be deprived of all of its powers of initiative and direction as to its educational affairs. The views of leading educators are to the effect that the best educational system is that which divides power and responsibility between the State and the smaller units thereof. This view has been adopted by this committee.

Present Needs of the School System.

The most pressing need of the State school system according to all the testimony adduced by this committee, is for a larger number of qualified teachers in the elementary schools. The evidence of this need may be found in the following facts:

School district trustees in many cases report extreme difficulty in obtaining competent teachers, and still greater difficulty to retain a competent teacher when once secured. Some remote districts report serious delays in the opening of school at the proper time, owing to the inability to secure any kind of a teacher.

The normal schools are supplying a less proportion of the new teachers required than they did a few years ago.

Local boards of education have very few applicants for teachers' certificates. In some instances qualified persons have to be personally importuned to become applicants.

One County Superintendent is on record as offering to take the entire output of one normal school in his county, such being the demand for qualified teachers.

Another County Superintendent reports: "Our schools have held their own in number. The teachers are not so good and are getting worse, all sorts of derelicts being able to get back into the ranks by virtue of the insufficiency of the supply of teachers. * * * The large ungraded schools are sending their share of graduates, but the teachers who can successfully teach them are leaving the ranks of the teaching profession."

It is notable also that male teachers are leaving the profession very rapidly and comparatively few are entering it.

There are two causes that appear to be operating most strongly to deplete the schools of efficient instructors:

1. Inadequate pay as compared with other occupations;
2. Increased difficulty and added expense to meet the requirements of schools and colleges which aim to educate teachers.

It may be stated also that the recent establishment of high schools has operated to attract teachers who otherwise might have attached themselves to the elementary schools; as the high schools offer larger salaries and higher social position, it is but natural that a teacher should seek to become qualified to fill the more exalted position.

There is also to be noted a steady drift of teachers from the rural schools to the town schools and from thence to the larger cities, also caused by the attractiveness of larger salaries and greater social advantages.

This movement has been growing and the conditions above reported have been intensifying for several years and appear likely to continue for several years to come. Therefore it is time that some means should be taken to counteract this tendency and to establish some sort of a policy that will supply for our educational system the required number of qualified teachers.

This matter recently formed a subject for the investigation of the "Commonwealth Club" of San Francisco, and from the report of the educational section thereof we take the following extract:

"It is worth while to compare the salaries of male teachers in California with the pay of other male workers in the State, for here are found relations that are of force in determining the number of men engaged in teaching, and that help to lengthen or shorten the total period of service as well as the tenure in each position. In 1904, according to the report of the United States Bureau of Labor, street laborers in San Francisco received $15 per week, or $750 per annum, allowing two weeks for rest or sickness. During the same year iron molders received a minimum wage of $3.25 per diem. This gave these skilled workmen $950 per annum after allowing for Sundays, holidays, and a two weeks' vacation. The salary statistics collected by Dr. Frederic Burk for the school year 1903-4 show that thirty-four per cent of the male teachers of California received less than $750 per annum, and were consequently more poorly paid than unskilled street laborers in San Francisco; and seventy-one per cent of the male teachers received less than the $950 paid to iron molders.

"The following facts have been collected by the section from County and City Superintendents concerning salary conditions of the current school year, 1905-6:

"In San Francisco the maximum salary of elementary school teachers is $996; the minimum $720; the average, $888. In the other cities under supervision the highest salary of elementary teachers is $912, and the minimum is $540. One of these cities has an average salary as high as $878, and another has an average as low as $630.

"In forty-six counties of the State, including all the cities considered above except San Francisco, the salaries of regular teachers and principals are as follows:

14 receive	$400 or under
677 receive	$401 to $500
1,617 receive	$501 to $600
2,782 receive	$601 to $700
1,689 receive	over $700

"At least fifty per cent of the 1,689 teachers last mentioned are serving in high schools. It should be noted that almost all of the teachers receiving less than $600 are employed in country schools; and that a very large per cent of those receiving over $600 teach in cities. These figures, therefore, point out one of the reasons why the rural and small town schools are being deserted so often in favor of employment in the schools of cities."

As above indicated one remedy for existing conditions must be by the way of making the teaching profession more remunerative. The demand for higher salaries must be met and with promptness if we wish to retain the efficiency of our school system. How to meet this demand for the better payment of the teachers is the problem that has confronted this committee.

Several plans have been submitted to this committee which will have the effect of securing an increase in the salaries of teachers.

One plan is to increase the amount of State aid to the primary and grammar schools, and as the law requires that all money apportioned by the State shall be exclusively used to pay salaries, it would follow that naturally the individual salaries would be probably increased. The method by which the amount appropriated by the State in support of the primary and grammar schools may be increased is by the enactment of a law which will increase the number of school census children by including all children between the ages of five and twenty years. The law at present includes only those between the ages of five and seventeen years. As the amount of the State school tax to be levied each year is determined by the number of school census children the proposed increase will produce a like increase in the amount of the State school fund which is distributed among the several counties and eventually reaches the fund from which teachers are paid.

This plan of increasing the amount of the State school fund would secure approximately $500,000 more for the purpose of paying salaries. A similar result could be secured by increasing the amount to be raised by taxation from seven to eight dollars per census child; or, if the amount be increased from seven dollars to nine dollars the increase would approximate $900,000.

Two members of the committee, Messrs. Slaven and Strobridge, indorse the proposition to increase the State fund, believing that this will secure a substantial increase in the pay of teachers and produce a marked improvement in the number and quality of the teachers of the elementary schools.

Two other members of the committee, Messrs. Treadwell and Thompson, while equally anxious to favor some means of increasing the salaries of teachers, do not indorse the plan of increasing the amount of State aid, believing that the increase should be borne by the several counties, cities, and school districts. In support of this position it is pointed out that from the last biennial report of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, during the last fiscal year the financial expenditure in support of the primary and grammar schools was as follows: State funds, $3,880,740; local funds of counties, cities, and school districts, $3,681,439; percentage of State aid, over fifty per cent. In support of high schools: State funds, $210,570; local funds, $2,204,341; percentage of State aid, ten per cent. In support of the State University the State contributed $380,000, while the local subdivisions contributed nothing. The amount per census child contributed by the State in support of the primary and grammar schools was $9, and the amount for each child enrolled in the primary and grammar grades was $13.

From the report of the United States Commissioner of Education for the year 1904 (the latest report issued), are taken statistics showing the expenditures in support of the schools made in several states.

Name of State	Total Expenditure for Schools	Amount Contributed by State.	Percentage of State Aid.
New York	$47,642,780	$4,491,720	.095
Pennsylvania	29,169,920	5,446,175	.19
Massachusetts	16,436,780	316,919	.002
Illinois	20,884,417	1,805,326	.09
Ohio	17,838,802	2,104,683	.118
Iowa	10,636,069	214,525	.002
Indiana	9,634,691	2,324,720	.241
Missouri	9,203,855	1,778,189	.20
Michigan	8,871,295	1,929,861	.22
California	8,758,582	3,863,473	.44

The above table comprises the expenditures of the ten states of the Union that expended the largest sums for school purposes. While California ranks tenth in the total sum expended it stands first in the above list in the percentage contributed from State funds. Several of the Southern and a few of the Pacific States give a larger percentage of State aid.

It will be noted from the above table that many of the states which enjoy the reputation of having the highest educational advantages, contribute but little support from State funds, and it does not follow that should this State enlarge its support that added efficiency would thereby be secured to the school system.

Changes made in the school law by the last Legislature required larger sums to be raised in support of the schools, and it is noted from the last report of the Superintendent of Public Instruction that about $700,000 additional revenue was raised during the last fiscal year.

The purpose of most of the legislation mentioned was to effect an increase in the salaries paid teachers. Many counties in the State report that salaries have been increased and also that the school term has been lengthened in many rural districts. In connection with the report of the superintendent it will be noted that the balance in the local school funds shows an increase of about $400,000 over that of the previous year. It would appear, therefore, that instead of raising the salaries of teachers the local officers in many cases permitted the increased available funds to remain unexpended and the same appear in the form of additional cash on hand at the close of the fiscal year. It is probable that next year will witness a greater increase in salaries than has yet taken place.

It is acknowledged that the result of the apportionment law enacted by the last Legislature has produced beneficial results by increasing the salaries of teachers in the rural districts and by lengthening the school term in many of the smaller districts, and furthermore that the full benefit has not yet accrued.

But it appears to the members of the committee that do not indorse the plan of increasing the amount of the State School Fund, that the difficulty in the way of increasing the pay of teachers is the lack of means of discriminating between those who deserve higher pay and those who do not, for it is probable that the beginner in the ranks receives at least a fair salary considering the lack of experience. It is those who have taught for years who find their efforts, however deserving, are not sufficiently rewarded. Feeling this and not seeing any incentive to special effort, they relax their energies, become indifferent as to the quality of their work, and the general efficiency of the school system is seriously impaired. Any scheme that merely puts more money in the school fund is not going to solve the problem. There is no certainty that an increase of funds will increase the pay of the teachers who really deserve it. It will not prevent local school officials from employing more teachers than may be required, or from employing special teachers, or in other ways eating up the increased funds, while the inadequacy of pay of the efficient teachers may remain as it is.

This committee is of the opinion that an effective way of raising salaries of the teachers is by the establishment of a salary schedule by act of the Legislature. This schedule should be a graduated one, relatively small for beginners, but increasing year by year until the maximum is reached. Thus an inducement would be held out for teachers to remain in the profession. There might also be provision made for rewards to those of exceptional efficiency as a stimulant to extra endeavor. In this way the efficiency of the school system would be measurably increased.

As a measure that may have the effect of increasing the pay of teachers we have been asked to recommend one which will provide that sixty per cent of all county school money be applied to the payment of teachers' salaries. This recommendation is unanimously given, and a measure to this end is herewith presented Manual Training, Etc.

While the improvement of the school system of the State has been rapid and gratifying in the extreme, we would be doing ourselves an injustice did we not call attention to the advances made in educational lines by other states and other countries. In certain lines of educational work more rapid progress has been made by other states and by foreign countries than here. Particularly is this true in the matter of industrial education. Manual training is now recognized as being a necessary part of the modern school system. The most eminent authority on this subject, Prof. Calvin M. Woodward, of St. Louis, has this to say:

"By 'manual training' is understood 'the systematic study of theory and use of common tools, the nature of common materials, elementary and typical processes of construction, and the execution and reading of mechanical drawings.' * * * The real object of manual training is not to construct certain objects, which are only the incidental means, but to develop mastery and power as a result of effort made. In co-operation with mental training it strengthens and disciplines all the faculties; the 'whole boy' is put to school."

On the same subject Prof. James P. Munroe, of Boston, maintains that manual training when "rightly conceived, and carried on, promotes coordination, develops creativeness, broadens comprehension and strengthens character."

Prof. W. T. Harris, formerly United States Commissioner of Education, says: "Tool work with its theory and with natural science is permanently educative."

The demands on this committee for a recognition of manual training and domestic science and other forms of industrial education in the courses of study in our common schools have been many and emphatic, and we would be derelict in our duty did we fail to heed them. We have therefore presented measures for your consideration providing for manual training and domestic science as "studies" that may be taught in the primary and grammar schools. There is already ample authority for the establishment of polytechnic high schools and for the adoption of industrial courses by the several high school districts of the State. A visit made by this committee to the Los Angeles Polytechnic High School demonstrated to us the extreme usefulness of such institutions, and we are inclined to the belief that should the State be eager to expend a larger sum in support of the schools that it would be wise to specify that a considerable portion thereof should be devoted to the encouragement of industrial education.

Agricultural Education.

Not only is it interesting but it is highly important that we should note the development of recent years in the matter of providing for the young a means of acquiring a knowledge of the science of agriculture. The Congress of the United States early recognized the necessity of providing some means of disseminating a practical knowledge of this important industry, and did so by liberal endowments of "agricultural colleges" in several states of the Union.

The framers of our State Constitution recognized the importance of our leading industry by declaring that "the Legislature shall encourage by all suitable means the promotion of intellectual, scientific, moral, and agricultural improvements."

Our State University is one of the "agricultural colleges" endowed by Congress. It is a question with us whether the Legislature has performed its full duty in the matter of "agricultural improvement." Congress has, as above stated, endowed a college; the Legislature has in part supported its department of agriculture, and two years ago added to its resources by authorizing the purchase of an experimental farm. But the question has been put to us: "Has not this encouragement been commenced at the wrong end?" The statistics of our State University show an enrollment in the agricultural department of only 123 students out of a total enrollment of 3300. It is notorious that the State is giving a higher education to a larger number of young men and women who aim to enter professions than to those who aim to adopt agricultural pursuits. There is something wrong in the system that accomplishes this result. Moreover, when we consider the fact that but a small percentage of the pupils in our secondary schools ever reach the University, we are forced to the conclusion that the failure of the system above noted is at least in part due to our neglect to provide the necessary impulse in our secondary schools to those whose aspirations are other than scholastic. In other words, agricultural education should properly commence in the primary and grammar grades by suitable "nature studies," to be followed by a certain degree of specialization in the high schools. The graduate of a high school ought to be given a good elementary knowledge of agriculture (that is, if the pupil so desires), so that if circumstances forbid him the privilege of a University course he can be at least partially equipped to enter upon an agricultural avocation.

As it now is, our high schools are fitting their graduates for a higher education of the scholastic sort; they are being fitted to enter at the literary end. The curriculum of the average high school is arranged with a view of meeting the requirements of the University as laid down by the scholars. There are no "credits" given for any sort of industrial training by high schools. It therefore seems to this committee that if the Legislature is to promote "agricultural improvement" it is high time to provide a course of study in our secondary schools that will lead students in the direction of our "agricultural college." And if we are ever to increase the percentage of the pupils who shall enter the University we must make the University attractive for an entirely different class of boys and girls than those now attending. We should endeavor to make it a school for "toilers" as contradistinguished from "scholars." Even if we cannot do this, we can at least give some instruction in our high schools that will better fit its graduates to enter upon industrial occupations. The polytechnic high schools now being rapidly instituted tend toward satisfying the demand for trades workers. In addition there should be courses in agriculture and its allied sciences provided, or, what might be still better, there might be agricultural high schools, which, while not neglecting the scholastic branches, would make prominent the specialty which the name suggests.

Agricultural high schools are no longer an experiment in several of the Eastern States and, where they have been established, are said to be highly successful. In Wisconsin schools of agriculture and domestic science were provided for by an act of the Legislature of 1901. This act was amended by the Legislature of 1903, providing for at least four of such schools and providing that the amount of state aid received by each shall equal two thirds the amount actually expended for maintaining the school during the year, provided that no more than $4,000 shall be apportioned to any one school in any one year. The course of study covers two years, and includes the elements of agriculture, domestic science, political and domestic economy, with work in composition, literature, United States history, and civics, and commercial arithmetic with farm accounts. Before these schools are entitled to State aid their work must be approved by the State Superintendent and Dean of the Agricultural College maintained by the State University. Two schools have been organized and maintained under the law. Their creation seems to be fully justified. The instructors of the school improve every opportunity to talk to the citizens of the county on all suitable occasions. An increased interest in agriculture has arisen as a result. A few acres of land for farming purposes is apportioned for the use of such agricultural school.

Following the lead of Wisconsin comes similar legislation in Illinois and Minnesota, and other states are preparing to join the procession.

This committee has framed a measure providing for the establishment of courses of agriculture and domestic science in high schools and giving financial aid to such schools. We trust that it will become a law.

Uniformity of Text-Books.

There has been a suggestion made that some legislation should be had with a view of securing a greater degree of uniformity of text-books in the various high schools; also that there should be a nearer approach to uniformity in the courses of study. At present there are over 175 high schools in the State and each high school board has the authority to adopt text-books and establish courses of study in its particular school. In removing from one district to another the pupil usually finds his entire school plans disarranged and at the same time is compelled to purchase an entirely new set of text-books. In order, however, to meet the suggestion and remove the cause of the difficulty the Legislature would have to confer upon some central body the power to adopt text books and approve courses of study. The committee is not prepared to recommend that such power be vested in the State Board of Education, as the members thereof are already overburdened with duties. This subject is hereinafter incidentally referred to, under the head of "School Supervision."

Free Text-Books.

Nearly every Legislature during the past ten years has been importuned to furnish the State text-books free to all pupils. To meet this demand an amendment to the Constitution will be required. Moreover, it may not be economical or wise for the State to undertake this scheme. The law now permits local boards of education and trustees to purchase text-books for the use of children whose parents are unable to purchase them. This provision is objected to on the ground that it puts the badge of poverty on the children who use the books so furnished, and besides those parents who are poor but proud do not like to avail themselves of this charity, while others, less deserving, take advantage of it. In case this Legislature should not wish to go to the extent of furnishing text-books free to the entire State, we would propose as a substitute measure a law that will give to each county the right to furnish free text-books within its limits. It might be considered wiser to enact such a law than to amend the Constitution so that the furnishing shall be done by the State. If the several counties should undertake this scheme the responsibility would be brought directly home to the people and the gift would be more likely to be appreciated and the expenditures more safely guarded.

In the following states text-books are required to be furnished free: Delaware, Idaho, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, Wyoming, Nebraska (twelve states).

In the following it is optional with local boards to furnish text-books free: Colorado, Connecticut, District of Columbia, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota, Utah, West Virginia, Wisconsin (fifteen states).

Maryland limits its state appropriation for this purpose to $150,000, and so far as we have any information on the subject this is the only state that purchases text-books from its state funds. The local districts bear the expense in all other cases. As to the advantages of a system of free text-books we would call attention to the investigation of the subject made by the United States Commissioner of Education and reported in the report of the Commissioner for the year 1901. The testimony adduced was almost overwhelmingly in favor of free text-books. (See also report of Commissioner for year 1902, page 2390; for the year 1903, page 2415, and for the year 1904, page 2279.)

Supplementary Text-Books.

Serious complaint has been made that a system is much in vogue by which parents are practically obliged to purchase a lot of so-called "supplementary" readers and text-books for their children at the suggestion, usually, of the teacher. From investigation we believe the complaint to be well founded. We have, therefore, proposed a bill which will incorporate into the code a law forbidding the teacher to suggest to the pupil the advisability of purchasing any such supplementary book; that when such books are actually required they must be provided by the school district and paid for out of the school funds of the district. As expenses of this kind would diminish the amount available for salaries, it is believed that the evil complained of would soon cease.

School Supervision.

For some time past there has been a demand from educationists for a more adequate supervision of the rural schools. The law requires of the county superintendent that he shall personally visit each school in his county at least once a year. In many counties this is as often as he can inspect a school, and under such conditions the inspection must be very superficial. The intelligent supervision of schools has been made a theme for almost endless discussion among educators, and several solutions for the present problems connected therewith have been proposed. One suggestion has been made to the effect that each county superintendent appoint a number of deputies, and that these deputies (with himself) should constitute the county board of education. This might work well in the more populous counties where the services of a number of deputies would be required, but would hardly be a suitable scheme for the smaller counties, where the superintendent is able to do all of the supervision. Another plan is to permit the county supervisors to appoint the members of the county board from a list of names furnished by the county superintendent. This might work well at times; sometimes it would cause a clash between the board of supervisors and the superintendent. A similar plan for appointing boards in municipalities has disclosed its weakness. The declaration has been made that there should be supervision by experts. All will agree to this, but thus far no efficacious scheme for obtaining the services of none but experts has been brought forward.

At this point this committee proposes to assert the right, as well as the duty of the State to see that there is proper supervision of the schools—both rural and city. Not necessarily that it will always command the services of experts, but the State should exercise some function of supervision by reason of the superior interest of the State in securing the highest welfare for the child—its future sovereign. It is not a matter calling for the exercise of district authority, or county authority, or city authority—it is a State affair. The State contributes more than $4,000,000 of its funds annually to support the schools. It should have an opportunity to see that this vast sum was properly expended; to see that competent teachers were actually employed and that approved methods of instruction were intelligently exemplified. The concern of the State is the welfare of the child. How can the State ascertain and safeguard the welfare of the child without inquiry as to the conditions surrounding him?

Herein are illustrated the limitations placed upon the State in the matter of unifying the State school system. The Constitution commands the Legislature to provide a system of common schools which the Supreme Court has said must be a State system, and yet the same instrument grants little or no power to State officers. The Superintendent of Public Instruction exercises but a limited ministerial power and the State Board of Education has but little real power other than to provide a State series of text-books. Taking it for granted that the State should exercise some powers of supervision, the Constitution does not provide a means, and that instrument should be amended. We are inclined to the opinion that there should be a State Board of Education exercising enlarged powers. But a glance at the composition of the board as at present constituted will show that it can not exercise any more power to advantage. Not that there is any objection to the personnel of the present board; they are all estimable men and highly competent educators. But they all have other duties to perform and to impose additional duties at this time would mean that they would have to neglect those for which they were primarily appointed. Moreover, it will be noticed that the dominating influence of the board is that radiating from the "higher educational" circle, and no law would be sanctioned by the people that would vest in them the control of the entire school system. Your committee therefore presents a proposed constitutional amendment providing for a new State Board of Education as a necessary and preliminary step toward providing an adequate scheme of school supervision by the State. The next Legislature then will be in a position to deal more intelligently with this important matter.

It may be well in this connection to refer back to the suggestion of providing for a greater uniformity in the matter of text-books and courses of study for high schools. If the above amendment to the Constitution should be adopted, it would make comparatively easy the matter of adopting regulations governing this subject. The new State Board of Education would then be the proper central body to which could be delegated the necessary power; in fact the power of supervision would necessarily include the supervision of text-books and courses of study as well as the matter of supervising the methods of teaching. Through this body the different portions and departments of the school system could be properly related—articulated as it were—and out of it would evolve a uniformed system, which is so necessary when we come to contemplate what should be a complete and harmonious whole.

School Libraries.

Several suggestions have been made to the committee for the improvement of the service of school libraries. Statistics show there are about 1,600,000 volumes in the libraries of the several school districts. The habit of reading good books is one which should be inculcated in every child. Yet during vacations and on other non school days this vast storehouse of knowledge is locked up in the schoolhouse and made practically inaccessible. It has been suggested that boards of trustees should have wider discretionary powers in respect to school libraries; that libraries might be made accessible during vacations; that in towns having public libraries the school library might be consolidated therewith under such conditions as might be agreed upon by the several authorities. The suggestions appear to be good and we present bills to secure the desired result.

High Schools and the University.

A considerable time of the committee has been devoted to securing an understanding of the relationship existing between the high schools and the State University. Complaints were made that the system of "accrediting" high schools was, in effect, a "cramming" process applied to schools instead of to individuals. From time to time the "standard of efficiency" has been raised until the demands upon the high schools required that they, too, should raise their standard of efficiency for admission to these schools from the grammar grade, and it was seriously suggested that some of the studies usually taught in the high school should be commenced in the lower grades. The effect of this cramming soon became evident and many protests against the entire accrediting system were vehemently made.

In reply to the accusations it was pointed out that the accrediting system had increased the efficiency of the high schools, had increased their number, and had increased the percentage of high school graduates enrolled in the university. Very naturally this should be so, when the reputation of a high school depended upon its being upon the accredited list of the university; there was also a rivalry among principals to see how many graduates each school could furnish to the university.

But it must be noted in this connection that this claim for "increased efficiency" and "higher standards" was from the viewpoint of the scholar. Nothing was said in respect to the increased efficiency of the seventy per cent of the graduates who did not attend the university, but were forced to assume at once the active and pressing duties of life. Were they better equipped to fight life's battles? Would it not have been better for them had less attention been paid to the meeting of university requirements and more time given to the task of fitting them for the great university of life, where knowledge is gained by the struggle for existence? These are serious questions, but it is hardly necessary to answer them here, for the announcement has been made that the accrediting system is to be modified, if not abolished. It is proposed that any graduate of a high school will be admitted to the university, without examination, when presenting, in addition to a diploma of graduation, a written recommendation or certificate from the principal that the holder is qualified to do university work.

An investigation of this question will reveal that the scheme is more objectionable than is the accrediting system. It is plain to be seen that the practice involves the issuance of two diplomas of graduation; one a diploma showing a completion of the high school course and another called a "recommendation" permitting the holder to enter the university. We wish to voice an emphatic protest against the dividing of our high school pupils into classes, for it must be evident to any thoughtful person that this division will be made in the early years of the high school course. Pupils soon after entering high school usually indicate their intention of attending the university or otherwise. Those who are to receive a higher education will very naturally be given the "university attention," while those who are to shift for themselves will be in fact left to shift for themselves during the entire high school term. The efficiency of the school will depend upon the efficiency of those who will attend the university; the others, constituting the large majority, will not count, for there is no way of measuring their efficiency after they have left school. The efficiency of the school will be increased as regards its ability to furnish university entrances, but it will be done at the expense of the "ordinary" graduates. In reality there will be a lowering of the average of efficiency. The effect also of dividing our high school pupils into two classes will be more than likely to be demoralizing to the pupils themselves. It may result in prematurely driving away from school many of those who would otherwise complete the high school course. The view of this committee is, therefore, that the proposed system should be severely condemned.

We would be censured, however, if we should merely content ourselves with the condemnation of a system without, at the same time, endeavoring to supply a better one, and we have earnestly sought for a solution of the problem confronting us.

We have taken the view that all of our children should be treated upon a basis of equality and that the purpose of a school system was not that alone of producing "scholars"; rather it is to make the young men and young women more capable and better fitted to enter upon any chosen occupation and to assume the severe duties and responsibilities of life.

Applying this view of the matter at hand, we hold that every graduate holding a high school diploma should by right be entitled to receive at the hands of the State a higher education if he so desires. If he is not capable of taking a full university course he should be entitled to take as much thereof as his capabilities will permit. If he is incapable of taking any part of the education offered, then it is a matter for the university authorities to either provide a course that he can take, or dismiss him from the institution. If the latter should be done, then it should not be charged up as a fault of the high school that sent him there.

This committee has therefore proposed a law requiring but one certificate of graduation from a high school, and prescribing that the holder of such a diploma shall be entitled to enter the university without examination.

To forestall any charge that this proposed law will result in lowering the standard of efficiency of the high schools, we have provided for a system of inspection under the direction of the State, and should any high school fall below what may be required by the State, then such school will be deprived of the right to issue any diploma whatsoever. Surely this penalty will be sufficiently severe to prevent any deterioration on the part of our high schools. We may add by way of explanation that the inspection proposed will be performed by some competent man appointed for that express purpose by the Superintendent of Public Instruction. We believe that upon examination this plan will disclose much to commend it. We are informed that a similar plan exists in one or more of the Eastern States.

The University and Normal Schools

The State has established five normal schools for the education and training of teachers, and these are maintained at a large expense to the State. We note with exceedingly great regret that the attendance at these schools appears to be diminishing and that they are not at the present time supplying as large a percentage of the new teachers required as they did ten years ago. On the other hand, the State University has established a pedagogical department and has to a considerable extent usurped the functions of a normal school. It appears, however, that comparatively few of the graduates of this department become teachers in the primary and grammar grades, as the high schools offer greater inducements for them. Moreover, the committee is informed that the graduates of the normal schools make better teachers in the elementary schools than do the university graduates. This is because there is no training department connected with the university. Moreover, we note that this Legislature is asked to make a large appropriation for the establishment of such a training department at the university. In view of the fact that the State has invested a large amount of money in the establishment of normal schools, we believe that they should be continued as the training schools for teachers of the common schools, and that their usefulness in this regard should not be destroyed by permitting the university to usurp the functions of the normal schools.

In this connection we would urge upon the managers of the several normal schools that they make strenuous efforts to elevate these institutions to a higher plane of usefulness, and endeavor, if possible, to enlarge the output of teachers.

Certification of Teachers.

The committee proposes a few minor changes, or rather additions, to the law respecting the certification of teachers, as follows:

1. Temporary certificates good until the next annual examination. At present temporary certificates are valid for only six months, but examinations are now held only once a year.
2. That holders of kindergarten certificates issued upon a normal school diploma be entitled to teach in the lower primary grades.
3. That a special manual training certificate be issued to the holder of a diploma of a normal school showing him to have completed a course in manual training.

Medical Inspection.

It has been pointed out to the committee that many cases of the inability of pupils to do school work are due to physical disabilities. In several of the Eastern States, and more notably in some foreign countries, systems of medical examination are provided for schools with a view of detecting the causes of physical deficiency, and excellent results have been reported. We think it wise that some action should be taken by this State. We have reported a bill providing for a system of medical examination for elementary schools, which, while not as comprehensive as may be required, will be a step in the right direction.

The High School Law.

We propose a few minor changes in the laws providing for the organization of high schools.

We propose that high school trustees shall be elected by the district at large instead of by districts as at present. The objection to the present law is that where a number of small districts are united with a large one, it is the smaller districts that control the board.

We also propose a change in the law governing the annexation of districts to a high school district already organized, so that the people of the annexed district may be taxed for the bonds issued to build the school buildings, should they so desire to be taxed.

Tuition.

The committee also proposes a change in the method of paying tuition. At present many school districts enjoy the advantages of a high school without contributing to the support of one. The pupils of such districts attend a neighboring high school and pay tuition to the same when the district ought to have a high school of its own or become a part of some high school district. The committee therefore proposes a law that will make the tuition fee a charge against the school district. As the spirit of our educational system is antagonistic to personal charges for education, we believe the amendment proposed therewith is a proper one. Similar laws prevail in Eastern States.

Compulsory Education.

The committee finds that the present compulsory education law is inadequate for the purposes for which it was intended. Adequate means for its proper enforcement are not provided, and, furthermore, it is only applicable to the larger cities. Important amendments are proposed to this law for the purpose of widening its scope and providing more ample means for its enforcement.

Miscellaneous Matters.

The committee has prepared a number of bills amending such sections as conflict with other sections; also making a few changes that appear to be needed to correct errors that have inadvertently been made by ill-considered amendments, and others that will facilitate the work of school administration. None of these make any important change in the school law.

Conclusion.

The committee in making these recommendations has been, and the Legislature in adopting any legislation should be, governed solely by what is for the good of the children of the State. The rights of the teachers are but to be incidentally considered and never should control. It should be always kept in mind that the teachers are for the schools, and not the schools for the teachers.

Another thing that should be carefully considered in adopting any legislation is the necessity for almost complete independence between the primary and grammar schools and the high schools, and between the high schools and the university. The tendency of the university to make mere preparatory schools of the high schools has become a recognized evil, and this in turn has compelled the high school to reflect back on the common schools with the same result.

It is only a small proportion of the graduates of the grammar schools that ever enter the high schools, while the great majority enter immediately upon the great struggle for existence. This great majority, which only get the advantage of State education for a short period, should be the chief care of the State. Their education should be practical and above all complete so far as it goes. They should be masters of those elementary studies which they will need in all walks of life.

As a matter of fact, less and less attention is being given to the elementary studies. The three "R's" are constantly being neglected, and new studies being substituted so as to prepare the student for the course in the high school. Many students go out of the common schools with a smattering of all kinds of studies, but unable to intelligently express themselves in English, much less to legibly write or correctly spell.

When we reach the high schools the condition is, if anything, still worse. Only a small proportion of the graduates of the high schools ever enter the university, still the main aim of those schools has been to prepare the pupil for the university. Every teacher and every principal has been confronted with the necessity of having the school "accredited" to the university. In order to be accredited the school must teach the studies that the university authorities require, and in some cases even use the books recommended by them. The pupil is also given to understand that the chief aim is to reach these requirements. Here, again, the chief aim is not to prepare the pupil for the work of life, upon which the great majority of graduates must enter, but to prepare for the university, to which but a small majority ever go. A smattering of the studies which will later be taken at the university is forced upon the pupils; cramming becomes a necessity; the number of studies is constantly increased, until a pupil is compelled either merely to cram in order to pass the examinations or to break down under the strain. The time has come when the course of study in the grammar and high schools must be simplified. More attention must be given to the essentials. The aim must be to make men and women who are able to enter upon the work of life, and not merely upon the career of scholars. Let us make the common schools for the common people.

Respectfully submitted.

SEC. 3 All demands payable out of the school fund must, before they can be approved by the city clerk, or paid, be previously approved by the board of education, by a vote of the majority of the members thereof taken with the ayes and noes spread upon the minutes, and the action of said board endorsed on said demand and signed by the presiding officer and the secretary thereof. After the approval of said demands they shall be delivered to the City Clerk, who shall have the same powers and perform the same duties in reference to demands payable out of the school fund as is provided for other demands.

SEC. 4 All demands payable out of the library fund must, before they can be approved by the city clerk, or paid, be previously approved by the board of trustees of the Santa Monica Public Library, by a vote of three members thereof, taken with the ayes and noes and spread on the minutes, and the action of said board endorsed on said demand and signed by the presiding officer and the secretary thereof. After the approval of said demands they shall be delivered to the city clerk, who shall have the same power and perform the same duties in reference to demands payable out of the library fund as are provided for other demands.

SEC. 5. No demand can be approved by any board or officer, audited or paid, unless it specify each several item, with the date and amount thereof.

SEC. 6 No payment can be made from the city treasury, or out of the public funds of said city, unless the same be specially authorized by law or this charter, nor unless the demand which is paid be duly audited as in this charter provided. The term "audited," as used in this charter with reference to demands upon the treasury, is to be understood to mean that said demands have been presented to, passed upon and approved by every officer and board of officers, as required by this charter, and this must appear upon the face of the paper representing the demand, or else it is not audited. provided, that the approval or rejection in whole or part of a demand by the committee on finance of the council is advisory only to the council, and the rejection by said committee of a demand in whole or in part does not of itself prevent it being duly audited.

SEC. 7 No demand upon the treasury shall be allowed by the city clerk in favor of any person or officer in any manner indebted thereto without first deducting the amount of such indebtedness, nor to any person or officer having the collection, custody of or disbursement of public funds, unless his account has been duly presented, passed, approved and allowed, as required by law or this charter; nor in favor of any officer who shall have neglected to make his official returns or his reports in writing in the manner and at the time required by law or this charter, or by the ordinance or regulations made in pursuance thereof; nor to any officer who shall have neglected or refused to comply with any of the provisions of this charter or ordinances of the city, or any act of Legislature regulating the duties of such officer, on being required in writing to comply therewith by the mayor or president of the council; nor in favor of any officer for the time he shall have absent himself, without lawful cause, from his duties of his office during the office hours prescribed by this charter or by ordinance, and the city clerk may examine any officer receiving a salary from the treasury on oath touching such absence.

SEC. 8 The city clerk must number and keep a record of all demands on the treasury, showing the number, date, amount and name of the original and present holder, on what account allowed, out of what fund payable, and by what officers or board it has been previously approved, and it shall be a misdemeanor in office for the city clerk to deliver any demand until this requisite has been complied with.

SEC. 9. Every lawful demand upon the treasury, duly audited, as in this charter required, shall in all cases be paid on presentation and canceled, and the proper entry thereof be made, if there be sufficient money in the treasury belonging to the fund out of which it is payable; but if there be not sufficient money belonging to said fund to pay such demand, then it shall be registered in a book to be kept by the treasurer for that purpose, showing its number, when presented, date, amount, name of the original holder, and on what account allowed, and out of what fund payable, and total deficiency in said fund; and being so registered, shall be returned to the party presenting it, with an endorsement of the word "registered" dated and signed by the city treasurer. All registered demands shall be payable in the order of their registration.

SEC. 10. Nothing in this article contained shall be construed as interfering with or preventing the payment by the city treasurer of bonds of the funded debt of the City of Santa Monica, and the interest coupons thereof, in accordance with the Constitution, laws, and ordinances authorizing the issuance of said bonds.

SEC. 11. All public moneys collected by any officer or employé of the city shall be paid into the city treasury, without any deduction on account of any claim for fees, commissions or other cause or pretense; and the compensation of any officer, employé or other person so collecting money, shall be paid by demands on the treasury duly audited as other demands are audited, and paid.

SEC. 12. No suit shall be brought on any claim for money or damages against the City of Santa Monica, its board of education, board of trustees of the Santa Monica Public Library, or the board of water commissioners, until a demand for the same has been presented, as herein provided, and rejected in whole or in part. If rejected in part, suit may be brought to recover the whole. Nor shall suit be brought against said city, or said board of education, board of trustees of the Santa Monica Public Library, or board of water commissioners, upon any claim or demand that has been in whole approved and audited as provided herein, provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed so as to deprive the holder of any demand of his right to resort to a writ of mandamus or other proceeding against the city council, or any board or officer of said city, to compel it or him to act upon such claim or demand, or pay the same when so audited.

ARTICLE XIV.

SEC. 2. The police judge shall have the powers of examining magistrates and may commit offenders for trial in the proper court.

SEC. 3. The police court shall have exclusive jurisdiction of the criminal proceedings for a violation of any city ordinance, and all civil actions and proceedings arising out of the violation of such ordinances and for the collection of any license required by any ordinance, except such actions and proceedings as are within the jurisdiction of other courts under the provisions of the constitution of this state.

SEC. 4. The police court shall also have exclusive jurisdiction of the following public offenses committed within the city, (except when prosecuted by indictment or information):

1. Petty larceny;

SEC. 6. The clerk of said court shall remain at his office during business hours and for such reasonable time thereafter as may be necessary for the discharge of his duties.

SEC. 7. All fines, penalties and forfeitures collected by said police court shall be the property of the city and shall be immediately deposited with the city treasurer for the use of said city.

SEC. 8. The city shall furnish the necessary dockets and all blanks and other books and papers and stationery necessary in the transaction of the business of the said police court. A complete record of all cases shall be entered in the docket of said court. Separate dockets shall be kept for the civil and criminal business.

SEC. 9. The said court shall have a seal, which shall be furnished by the city.

SEC. 10. The police court shall always be open for the transaction of business, except on Sundays and other legal holidays.

ARTICLE XV.

THE INITIATIVE

SECTION 1. The basis of the percentage hereinafter provided for any petition shall be the total number of voters registered in the city at the last preceding general election prior to the filing of said petition: and all voters registered at said general election or thereafter shall be qualified to sign the petitions herein provided for. Upon presentation to the city council of a petition or petitions signed by qualified electors of the city, in number equal to 25 per cent of said registration, asking for submission to the electors of a measure fully set forth in said petition or petitions, being a measure that the city council might itself adopt, it must either enact such measure without alteration, or submit the same to the electorate at the next regular city election occurring subsequent to sixty days after the filing of said petition or petitions. But if such petition or petitions are signed by qualified electors in number equal to 30 per cent of said registration, then such measure, if not so enacted by the city council must be submitted to the electorate at a special election to be called within sixty days from the filing of such petition or petitions.

The method of signing and presenting petitions provided for herein shall be as follows: The signatures to the petition need not all be appended to one paper, but each signer shall add to his signature his place of residence, giving the street and number. Each such paper shall have attached thereto the affidavit of a registered voter of the city, stating that all the signatures to the paper were made in his presence, and that to the best of his knowledge and belief each signature to the paper appended is the genuine signature of the person whose name purports to be thereunto subscribed. Within twenty days from the date of filing such petition in his office, the city clerk shall examine and from the great register, and certificates of registration, ascertain whether or not said petition is signed by the requisite number of qualified electors, and if necessary, the city council shall allow him extra help for the purpose, and he shall attach to said petition his certificate, showing the result of said examination. Each signature whose genuineness is not called to question by the sworn affidavit of the owner thereof shall be assumed to be genuine. If by the clerk's certificate the petition is shown to be insufficient, it may be amended within ten days from the date of said certificate. The clerk shall, within twenty days after such amendment, make like examination of the amended petition, and if his certificate shall show the same to be insufficient, it shall be returned to the persons filing the same, without prejudice, however, to the filing of a new petition to the same effect. If the petition shall be found sufficient, the clerk shall submit the same to the city council without delay. Any number of proposed measures may be voted upon at the same election in accordance with the provisions of this section: provided, that there shall not be held under this section more than one special election in any period of six months.

Whenever any measure is required or authorized by this charter to be submitted to the electors of the city, at any election, the city clerk shall cause the measure to be printed, and he shall inclose a printed copy thereof in an envelope and mail the same to each voter, at least ten days prior to the election, but the city council may order such measure to be printed in the official newspaper of the city, and published in a like manner as ordinances adopted by the city council are required to be published; and may order that such publication shall take the place of the printing and mailing of the measure as at first above provided. Ordinances and measures in connection with local improvements, the expenses whereof are defrayed by special local assessment, shall not come within the operation of this section.

THE REFERENDUM

SEC. 2. Any measure that the city council or the electorate of the city, as herein provided, has authority to adopt, the city council may of its own motion submit to a vote of its constituent electors at a general or special election.

Except as herein provided, no penal ordinance or measure, no ordinance or measure granting any franchise or privilege, and no ordinance or measure making or authorizing any contract (except contracts for improvements, the expenses whereof are defrayed by special local assessment, and contracts where the subject matter involved is of less value than $1000.) passed by the city council, shall go into effect in less than thirty days after its final passage. But ordinances and contracts declared by the city council to be necessary as emergency measures for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety, passed by a three-fourths vote of the city council and not obligating the city for a longer period of time than one year, may go into effect at the will of the city council or as otherwise provided by law.

If within said thirty days a petition or petitions signed by qualified electors of the city, in number equal to 25 per cent of said registration, is filed with the city clerk, asking that any penal ordinance or measure, any ordinance or measure granting any franchise or privilege, or making or authorizing any contract (except contracts for improvements, the expenses whereof are defrayed by special local assessments, and contracts where the subject matter involved is of less value than $1000.) adopted by the city council, be submitted to the electorate, then such ordinance or measure must either be repealed or submitted to the electors for approval or rejection at the next regular city election occurring subsequent to sixty days after the filing of said petition or petitions, or at a special election called prior to such regular city election, and if such ordinance or measure has not gone into effect before the filing of such petition or petitions, and said petition or petitions are signed by qualified electors of the city, in number equal to 30 per cent of said registration, then such ordinance or measure shall not go into effect until and unless adopted at such election, and no ordinance or measure once so submitted, shall be again so submitted, except by a vote of the city council, or on a petition signed by 30 per cent of said registration. Said petition or petitions shall be in all respects in accordance with the provisions of section one of this article except as to the percentage of signers, and be examined and certified by the clerk in all respects as therein provided.

If the majority of votes cast on any ordinance or measure referred as provided in sections one or two of this article to the electors of the city, shall be in favor thereof, it shall, if not already in effect, go into effect as a valid and binding ordinance or measure of the city, ten days after the official count shall be determined, otherwise such ordinance or measure shall be repealed or rejected; such repeal shall take effect ten days after the official count shall be determined.

No ordinance or measure approved by the electorate under the provisions of these sections shall be subject to veto, nor, within two years from the date of its adoption, be amended or repealed except by a vote of the electorate or by legislative authority superior to that of the city council. Any amendment or repeal of such ordinance by the city council shall be subject to the referendum provided in this section.

If the provisions of two or more measures approved and adopted at the same election under the provisions of this chapter conflict, then the measure receiving the highest affirmative vote shall control.

THE RECALL.

SEC 3. The holder of any elective office may be removed at any time by the electors entitled to vote for a successor of such incumbent. The procedure to effect the removal of an incumbent of an elective office shall be as follows. A petition signed by electors entitled to vote for a successor to the incumbent sought to be removed, equal in number to at least 40 per cent of the entire vote for all candidates for the office, the incumbent of which is sought to be removed, cast at the last preceding general municipal election, demanding an election of a successor of the person sought to be removed shall be addressed to the council and filed with the city clerk; and said petition shall contain a general statement of the grounds for which the removal is sought. The signatures to the petition need not all be appended to one paper, but each signer shall add to his signature his place of residence, giving the street and number. Each such paper shall have attached thereto the affidavit of a registered voter of the city, stating that all the signatures to the paper were made in his presence, and that to the best of his knowledge and belief, each signature to the paper appended is the genuine signature of the person whose name purports to be thereunto subscribed. Within ten days from the date of filing such petition the city clerk shall examine and ascertain whether or not said petition is signed by the requisite number of electors entitled to vote, and if necessary, the council shall allow him extra help for that purpose and he shall attach to said result of said examinations. If, by the clerk's certificate the petition is shown to be insufficient, it may be amended within ten days from the date of said certificate. The clerk shall, within ten days after such amendment, make like examination of the amended petition, and if his certificate shall show the same to be insufficient, it shall be returned to the person filing same without prejudice, however, to the filing of a new petition to the same effect. If the petition shall be found to be sufficient, the clerk shall submit the same to the council without delay and the council shall thereupon order and fix a date for holding the said election, not less than thirty days nor more than forty days from the date of the clerk's certificate to the council that a sufficient petition is filed.

The city council shall make or cause to be made publication of notice, and all arrangements for holding of such election and the same shall be conducted, returned and the results thereof declared, in all respects as are all other city elections. The successor of any officer so removed, shall hold office during the unexpired term of his predecessor. Any person sought to be removed may be a candidate to succeed himself, and, unless he requests otherwise in writing, the clerk shall place his name on the official ballot without nomination. In any such removal election, the candidate receiving the highest number of votes shall be declared elected. At such election if some other person than the incumbent receives the highest number of votes, the incumbent shall, thereupon be deemed removed from his office upon qualification of his successor. In case the party who receives the highest number of votes should fail to qualify within ten days after receiving notification of election, the office shall be deemed vacant. If the incumbent receives the highest number of votes he shall continue in office.

ARTICLE XVI.

ARTICLE II.

LEGISLATIVE.

Chapter I—Council.

SECTION 1. Except as otherwise provided, the legislative power of the City of Alameda shall be jointly vested in a body to be designated the council, and in a mayor.

SEC. 2. The council shall consist of nine members, seven of whom shall be nominated by the electors of the respective wards and two by the electors at large. They shall all be elected by the voters at large. Each shall hold office for four years, and until his successor is elected and qualified.

Provided, that the first council elected under the provisions of this charter shall, at their first meeting, so classify themselves by lot that three of the ward councilmen shall go out of office at the end of two years and four at the end of four years, also that one of the councilmen at large shall go out of office at the end of two years and one at the end of four years. At the time of his election each ward nominee must be an elector of the ward from which he has been nominated, and must be of the age of at least twenty-five years. He must have been an elector of the city for at least three years last preceding his election. The members of the council shall receive no pay for their services.

SEC. 3. A majority of the members shall constitute a quorum, but a less number may adjourn from time to time, and compel the attendance of absent members in such manner and under such penalties as the council may prescribe.

SEC. 4. The council shall:

One: Judge of the qualifications of its members and of all election returns.

Two: Establish rules for its proceedings,

Three: Keep a correct journal of its proceedings and allow the same to be published. The ayes and noes shall, on demand of any member, be taken and entered therein.

Four: Choose one of its number president.

Five: Meet on the third Monday in April next succeeding the general municipal election, and hold regular meetings twice in each month and at such other times as they shall fix by ordinance. The council shall not adjourn to any place other than its regular place of meeting. The meetings of the council shall be public. Special meetings may be called by the mayor or by the president of the council or by three councilmen, by serving the members personally with written notices or leaving the same at places designated by the respective members.

SEC. 5. Every legislative act of the city shall be by ordinance. The enacting clause of every ordinance passed by the council shall be in these words: "Be it ordained by the council of the City of Alameda." The enacting clause of every ordinance passed by the people shall be as follows: "Be it ordained by the people of the City of Alameda." No ordinance shall be passed except by bill, and no bill shall be so amended as to change its original purpose. No ordinance shall be passed by the council on the day of its introduction or within five days thereafter, or at any time other than at a regular meeting or an adjourned regular meeting. Every ordinance shall be signed by the officer presiding at the time of its adoption, attested by the clerk and published at least once in a newspaper published in the City of Alameda, or advertised as hereinafter provided.

It shall not be necessary in any action to plead or prove the organization or existence of such corporation, or the passage, existence or validity of any ordinance thereof; and courts shall take judicial cognizance thereof without proof.

SEC. 6. Except as hereinafter provided no bill shall become an ordinance, or resolution be adopted unless finally passed by a majority vote of all the members of the council, and the vote taken by ayes and noes, and the names of the members voting for and against the same entered in the journal. No resolution or order for the payment of money shall be passed at any other than a regular meeting or an adjourned regular meeting.

SEC. 7. No ordinance shall be revised, re-enacted or amended by reference to its title; but the ordinance to be revised or re-enacted or the section thereof to be amended, shall be re-enacted at length as revised and amended. Any ordinance revised, re-enacted or amended contrary to the provisions of this section shall be void.

SEC. 8. When a bill is put upon its final passage in the council and fails to pass, and a motion is made to reconsider, the vote upon such motion shall not be acted upon before the next regular meeting.

SEC. 9. If any bill passed by the council containing several items appropriating money or fixing a tax levy, be presented to the mayor, he may object to one or more items separately, while approving other portions of the bill. In such case he shall append to the bill at the time of signing it, a statement of the item or items to which he objects, and the reasons therefor, and the item or items so objected to shall not take effect unless passed notwithstanding the mayor's objection. Each item so objected to shall be separately reconsidered by the council in the same manner as bills which have been disapproved by the mayor.

SEC. 10. In the erection, improvement and repair of all public buildings and works, in all street and sewer work, and in all work in and about streets, bays, water fronts, or in or about embankments or other works for protection against overflow or erosion, and in furnishing any supplies or materials for the same, when the expenditure required for the same exceeds the sum of five hundred dollars, the same shall be done by contract, and when let shall be let to the lowest responsible bidder, after notice by publication in the official newspaper of the city for at least twice a week for two weeks. Such notice shall distinctly and specifically state the work contemplated to be done, provided that the council may reject all bids presented, and re-advertise in their discretion.

SEC. 11. The council shall annually call for bids for doing city printing and advertising, and the contracts therefor shall be awarded separately, and to the lowest responsible bidder.

Provided, that the council may reject all bids if in their opinion the bid of the lowest responsible bidder is exorbitant, and may again call for bids, subject to the reservation hereinafter mentioned. If the council shall determine that the bids secondly received are exorbitant, they may nevertheless let the contract to the lowest bidder for such portion of the printing as the board may determine, reserving the option to obtain other printing from such bidder at his schedule rates; and as to any printing not absolutely mentioned in the contract the board may from time to time secure the same to be done by any party who may agree to do the same at a lower rate than that scheduled in the bid for doing the city printing, and in lieu of any newspaper advertising, may issue and publish a bulletin containing such matter as they are required by law to publish, sending the same by mail to the registered voters of the city, to their addresses as the same shall appear on the latest printed copy of the great register of Alameda County, and shall also post printed copies of such advertisement in three public places in the City of Alameda, at least five days before action is taken in response to said advertisement. Such mailing and posting shall be conclusively deemed of the same effect as if the advertisement had been fully published in the official newspaper of the city. The board shall annually designate as the official city paper, a newspaper published in this city. All provisions of this charter are subject to the provisions of this section.

SEC. 12. Every ordinance shall take effect ten days after its passage, unless otherwise provided.

SEC. 13. Every bill and every resolution as heretofore provided, which shall have passed the council and shall have been duly authenticated, shall be presented to the mayor for his approval. The mayor shall return such bill or resolution to the council within ten days after receiving it. If he approve the bill he shall sign it. If he disapprove it he shall specify his objections thereto in writing. If he does not return it with such disapproval within the time above specified, it shall take effect as if he had approved it. The objections of the mayor shall be entered at large in the journal of the council, and the council shall, after five and within thirty days after such bill or resolution shall have been so returned, reconsider and vote upon the same. If the same shall, upon reconsideration, be passed by the affirmative vote of not less than two thirds of the council, the presiding officer shall certify that fact on the bill or resolution, and when so certified the bill shall become an ordinance with like effect as if it had been approved by the mayor. If the bill or resolution shall fail to receive the votes of two thirds of the council, it shall be deemed to be finally lost. The vote on such reconsideration shall be taken by ayes and noes, and the names of the members voting for and against the same shall be entered in the journal.

SEC. 14. All ordinances and resolutions shall be deposited with the city clerk, who shall record the same in a suitable book.

All ordinances of a general, public or permanent nature, and those imposing a fine, penalty, or forfeiture, shall be published at least once in the city official newspaper within three days after the same shall have become a law. The publication of all ordinances granting any franchise or privilege shall be at the expense of the applicant therefor.

SEC. 15. No ordinance passed by the council shall be repealed by the council except by ordinance adopted in the manner hereinbefore set out, and such ordinance shall be presented to the mayor for his approval as hereinbefore provided.

SEC. 16. No member of the council shall be eligible to appointment on any board or commission provided for in this charter except so designated in the charter.

Chapter III—Initiative and Referendum.

SEC. 23. The basis of the percentage in this chapter provided for any petition shall be the total number of voters appearing on the great register of the County of Alameda, as residing in the City of Alameda at the last preceding general election prior to the filing of said petition; and all voters registered at said general election or thereafter shall be qualified to sign the petitions herein provided for.

SEC. 24. Upon presentation to the council of a petition signed by qualified electors of the city in number equal to ten per cent. of said registered voters asking for submission to the electors of a measure fully set forth in said petition, being a measure that the council might itself adopt, the council itself must either enact such measure without alteration, or submit the same to the electorate at the next regular city election occurring subsequent to sixty days after the filing of said petition. But if such petition request the calling of a special election and be signed by qualified electors equal in number to twenty per cent. of said registered voters, then such measure, if not so enacted by the council, must be submitted to the electorate at a special election to be called within sixty days from the filing of such petition.

SEC. 25. If such proposed measure is a measure that the council might adopt except for the fact that it involves the repeal or amendment of a measure adopted by the electorate, as herein provided, and if in such case said petition be signed by qualified electors in number equal to twenty-five per cent of said registered voters, then such proposed measure must be submitted to the electors of the city at the next regular city election occurring subsequent to sixty days after the filing of said petition.

SEC. 26. The method of signing and presenting petitions provided for herein shall be as follows. The signatures to a petition need not be appended to one paper, but each signer shall add to his signature his place of residence, giving the street and number or residence location. Each paper shall have attached thereto the affidavit of a registered voter of the city, stating that all the signatures to the paper were made in his presence, and that to the best of his knowledge and belief each signature to the paper appended is the genuine signature of the person whose name purports to be thereunto subscribed. Petitions shall be filed with the city clerk and by him presented to the council.

SEC. 27. Within ten days from the date of the filing of such petition in his office, the city clerk shall examine the great register and therefrom and from certificates of voters shall ascertain whether or not said petition is signed by the requisite number of qualified electors; and if necessary the council shall allow him extra help for the purpose, and he shall attach to said petition his certificate, showing the result of said examination. Each signature the genuineness of which is not called in question by the sworn affidavit of the alleged owner thereof, shall be presumed to be genuine.

SEC. 28. If by the clerk's certificate it is shown that the petition has not been signed by the requisite number of qualified electors as herein provided, it may be amended within ten days from the date of said certificate by the further addition of names. The clerk shall within ten days after such amendment make like examination of said amended petition, and if his certificate shall show the same to be insufficiently signed as heretofore provided it shall be returned to the person who filed the same, without prejudice, however, to the filing of a new petition to the same effect. If the petition shall be found to be sufficiently signed as herein provided, the clerk shall present the same to the council without delay.

SEC. 29. After the first special election held hereunder, no special election shall be held under the provisions of this chapter until after the expiration of six months from the date of the holding of a preceding special election.

SEC. 30. Whenever any measure is required or authorized by this charter to be submitted to the electors of the city at any election, the city clerk shall cause the measure to be printed, and he shall send by mail a printed copy thereof to each voter whose name appears on the great register of Alameda County as last printed and published, at least ten days prior to election, but the council may order such measure to be published in the official newspaper of the city in like manner as ordinances adopted by the council are required to be published, and may order that such publication shall take the place of the printing and mailing of the measure, as above provided. Ordinances and measures in connection with local improvements, the expenses whereof are to be defrayed by local assessment, shall not come within the operation of this chapter.

SEC. 31. Any measure that the council or the electorate of the city, as herein provided, has authority to adopt, the council may, of its own motion, submit to a vote of its constituent electors at a general or special election.

SEC. 32. Except as herein provided no penal ordinance or measure granting any franchise or privilege, and no ordinance or measure making or authorizing any contract (except contracts for improvements the expenses whereof are to be defrayed by local assessment and contracts where the subject matter involved is of less value than one thousand dollars), passed by the council shall go into effect in less than thirty days after its final passage. But ordinances and contracts declared by the council to be necessary as emergency measures for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health or safety, passed by a three-fourths vote of the whole council, and not obligating the city for a longer period of time than one year, may go into effect at the will of the council, or as otherwise provided by law.

SEC. 33. If within said thirty days a petition signed by qualified voters of the city, in number equal to ten per cent. of said registered voters, is filed with the city clerk, asking that any penal ordinance or measure granting any franchise or privilege, or making or authorizing any contract (except contracts for improvements the expenses whereof are to be defrayed by local assessment, and contracts, where the subject matter involved is of less value than one thousand dollars), adopted by the council, be submitted to the electors, then such ordinance or measure must either be repealed or be submitted to the electors for approval or rejection at the next regular city election occurring subsequent to sixty days after the filing of said petition, or at a special election called prior to such regular city election; and if such ordinance or measure has not gone into effect before the filing of such petition, and said petition has been signed by qualified electors of the city in number equal to fifteen per cent. of said registered voters, then such ordinance or measure shall not go into effect until and unless adopted at such election, and no ordinance or measure once so submitted shall within one year be again submitted except by vote of the council at the next general municipal election, or on a petition signed by twenty-five per cent. of said registered voters. Said petition shall be in all respects in accordance with the provisions hereinbefore specified in this chapter, except as to the percentage of signers, and shall be examined and certified by the clerk in all respects as heretofore provided.

SEC. 34. If a majority of votes cast by the electors of the city on any ordinance or measure referred to in this chapter shall be in favor thereof, it shall, if not already in effect, go into effect as a valid and binding ordinance or measure of the city ten days after the official count has been determined; otherwise such ordinance or measure shall be repealed or rejected. Such repeal shall take effect ten days after the official count has been determined. No ordinance or measure approved by the electorate under the provisions of this chapter shall be subject to veto, or be amended or repealed except by vote of the electorate.

SEC. 35. If the provisions of two or more measures approved and adopted at the same election, under the provisions of this chapter conflict, then the measure receiving the highest affirmative vote shall control.

SEC. 36. Whenever an applicant for a franchise, or other person, shall pay in advance to the city the expenses of a special election, the council must call such special election as heretofore provided, at which the proposed ordinance shall be submitted to vote of the electors.

SEC. 5. The foregoing provisions of this article shall not take effect until the council shall deem it necessary or expedient to establish a police court, as above provided for, and shall by ordinance so declare and establish the same. Until the council shall so ordain, the provisions of the general laws of the state applicable to city justices of the peace shall be and continue in full force and effect.

Chapter II—City Attorney.

SEC. 6. There shall be a city attorney who shall be appointed by the council, and who shall have been an elector of the city for at least four years next before his appointment, and shall be an attorney and counselor-at-law duly admitted to practice by the Supreme Court of the State, and shall have actually been engaged in the practice of his profession for a period of at least four years next before his appointment, and whose term of office shall be two years and until his successor is appointed and qualified. FINANCE AND TAXATION.

Chapter I—Levying of Taxes.

SECTION 1. On or before the second Monday of May in each year the heads of departments, offices, boards and commissions of the city shall send to the council an estimate in writing of the amount of expenditure, specifying in detail the objects thereof, required in their respective departments, offices, boards and commissions for the fiscal year next ensuing, including a statement of the salaries of their subordinates. Duplicates of these estimates shall be sent at the same time to the auditor.

SEC. 2. On or before the first Monday of June in each year the auditor shall transmit to the council an estimate of the probable expenditures of the city government for the next ensuing fiscal year, stating the amount required to meet the interest and sinking funds for all outstanding funded debts, and the wants of all the departments of the municipal government in detail, showing specifically the amount necessary to be apportioned to each fund in the treasury; also an estimate of the amount of income from fines, licenses and other sources of revenue, exclusive of taxes upon property, and the probable amount required to be levied and raised by taxation.

SEC. 3. The council shall have power, and it shall be their duty to provide by ordinance, a system for the assessment, levy and collection of all city taxes, not inconsistent with the provisions of this charter, which system shall conform, as nearly as the circumstances of the case may admit, to the provisions of the laws of this State in reference to the assessment, levy and collection of state and county taxes, except as to the time for such assessment, levy and collection;

Provided, that taxes on real property shall be due and delinquent at the same time that state and county taxes are now due and delinquent.

SEC. 4. Every tax so levied shall have the force and effect of a judgment against the person and property taxed, and shall be and constitute a lien upon the real property situated in said city so assessed or owned by the party against whom such assessment is made. Every such assessment and the lien thereof shall have the force and effect of an execution duly levied upon all property owned by the party assessed, or by the unknown owner of such property when assessed to an unknown owner. The judgment shall attach as of twelve noon, on the first Monday in March of each year, and shall not be satisfied or discharged until the tax assessed against the property is paid, or the property sold for the payment thereof.

SEC. 5. The city shall have such other rights, claims and liens for the amount of such municipal taxes as may now or hereafter be given to or exercised by the people of the State of California for and on account of the assessment of State and county taxes levied in Alameda County. The mode and manner of collecting such municipal taxes, and enforcing such tax lien, and the proceedings thereafter, shall substantially be the same as the mode and manner at the time prescribed by law for the collection of State and county taxes in said county.

Provided, that the council may, by ordinance, regulate the time or times and the method of the collection of said taxes within each fiscal year, and prescribe by what officer the respective duties appertaining to such collection and enforcement shall be performed; and such proceedings, sales, certificates and conveyances had, made, and executed by them in pursuance thereof, shall be of like force, effect and validity as is or may hereafter be given by law to like proceedings and acts in the matter of collections of State and county taxes in said county.

SEC. 6. All sales for delinquent taxes shall be made to the City of Alameda, unless otherwise regulated by ordinance.

SEC. 7. The council may, by an order entered upon its journal, extend for not exceeding thirty days the time fixed in this article for the performance of any act.

SEC. 8. All fines and forfeitures arising under the revenue and taxation laws as applied to the city, may, in civil cases, be recovered in the name of the city, and, together with all other moneys collected or received by any officer of the city, under said laws, shall be for the use of the city. When real estate is offered for sale for city taxes due thereon, the same shall be struck off and sold to the city in like case and in like manner, and with like effect as it may be struck off or sold to the State when offered for sale for State and county taxes, and the council shall have the same powers and duties in relation to such property as are given by law to the State Board of Equalization in case of a sale to the State, but no certificate or receipt need be delivered to the State Controller.

SEC. 9. No officer shall be required to send or transmit any statement or report to any State officer or board.

SEC. 10. All papers and instruments required to be filed or recorded with or by the county recorder by the revenue or taxation laws of this State shall, under said laws as applied to the city, be, in like manner and with like effect, filed with and recorded by the county recorder of Alameda County.

SEC. 11. Whenever the council shall determine that the public interest requires the construction, or acquisition, or completion of any permanent municipal building, school building, high school building, sewer, property, water right, bridge, canal, tunnel or other public improvement, or utility, the cost of which in addition to the other expenditures of the city will exceed the income and revenue provided for in any one year, they may, by ordinance, submit a proposition to incur a debt for such purpose and proceed therein as provided in the constitution of this State and the general law or laws thereof, now or hereafter in force.

SEC. 12. Except as otherwise provided in this charter no money shall be drawn from the treasury unless in consequence of appropriations made by the council and upon warrants duly drawn thereon by the auditor.

SEC. 13. No warrant shall be drawn except upon an unexhausted specific appropriation.

SEC. 14. No contracts made, the expense of whose execution is not provided by law or ordinance to be paid by assessments upon the property benefited, shall be binding or of any force unless the auditor shall endorse thereon his certificate that there remains unexpended and unapplied as herein provided, a balance of the appropriation or fund applicable thereto, sufficient to pay the estimated expense of executing such contract as certified by the board or officer making the same. This provision shall not apply to work done or supplies furnished, involving the expenditure of less than two hundred and fifty dollars, unless the same is required by law to be done by contract by public letting. The auditor shall make such endorsement upon every such contract so presented to him, if there remain unapplied and unexpended such amount so specified by the officer making the contract, and thereafter shall hold and retain such sum to pay the expense incurred until the contract shall be fully performed. The auditor shall furnish monthly, and oftener if requested, to the head of each department a statement of the unexpended balances of the appropriation for such department.

SEC. 15. The amount of the tax levy shall be sufficient to provide for the payment during the fiscal year, of all demands upon the treasury authorized to be paid out of the same, but such levy exclusive of the tax to pay the interest and maintain the sinking funds of bonded indebtedness of the city, and exclusive of the tax to pay for street and sewer work and to pay for the maintenance and improvement of the parks, squares and public grounds of the city shall not exceed the rate of one dollar on each one hundred dollars valuation of the property assessed. The council in making the levy shall apportion the taxes to the several funds.

SEC. 16. The limitation in the section last preceding shall not apply in case of any great necessity or emergency. In such case the limitation may be temporarily suspended, so as to enable the council to provide for such necessity or emergency. No increase over the dollar limit shall be made in the rate of taxation authorized to be levied in any fiscal year, unless such increase be authorized by ordinance adopted by vote of the people or passed by a three-fourths vote of the council and approved by the mayor. The character of such necessity or emergency shall be recited in the ordinance authorizing such action, and be entered in the journal of the board. Nothing in this section shall authorize the incurring of liabilities against the treasury not allowed by law or which cannot be paid out of the income and revenue provided, collected and paid into the proper fund as its proportion of the same for such fiscal year, or permit liabilities or indebtedness incurred in any one fiscal year to be a charge upon or paid out of the income or revenue of any other fiscal year.

SEC 17. The council shall, subject to the provisions of this charter, fix the amount of municipal revenues and provide by ordinance for the collection thereof. They shall, from time to time, provide for the payment of the interest and principal of the bonds for which the city is liable.

SEC 18. The council shall authorize the disbursement of all public moneys except as otherwise specifically provided in this charter.

SEC 19. At the close of each fiscal year, if all demands against each fund have been paid or satisfied, and all disputed or contested demands fully adjudicated, the council shall direct the treasurer to transfer all surplus moneys to the general fund, except such surplus moneys as are in the several interest and sinking funds, in the school fund, in the library fund and in such other funds the disposition of whose surplus moneys is in this charter otherwise provided for.

SEC 20. The assessment of property within the city made by the county assessor of Alameda County and the State Board of Equalization may be the basis of taxation of the city, unless the council on or before the fourth Monday of July in any year, shall, by ordinance, elect to have an independent assessment made by the city assessor for such year; in which event such ordinance shall prescribe the time within which such assessment shall be made, and the method of making the same, and shall provide for such clerical assistance as may be required to properly prepare such assessment.

SEC 21. Should any property in the city, however, not be assessed by the county assessor, the city assessor shall assess and enter the same in the "Subsequent Assessments" provided for in the next section.

SEC 22. It shall be the duty of the assessor at any time subsequent to the first Monday in August of each year, to assess any property which shall not be on the regular list, and he shall enter such assessment in a separate portion of the tax list or assessment roll, under the head "Subsequent Assessments," and shall deliver a true copy thereof, duly certified by him, to the city clerk, to be by him compared with the entries on the assessment roll.

SEC 23. The council shall meet at the usual place of holding meetings on the first Monday of September of each year, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, and sit as a board of equalization, and shall continue in session from day to day until all the returns of the assessor have been received. They shall have power to hear complaints, and to correct, modify or strike out any assessment made by the assessor, and may, of their own motion, raise any assessment, upon notice to the party whose assessment is to be raised. They may also, partially, or wholly, relieve from taxation any improvements, structures or fixtures used exclusively for manufacturing, erected or placed in the city subsequent to the first day of January, 1906;

Provided, that no particular property shall be exempt from taxation for more than two years.

SEC 24. The corrected list for each tax shall be the assessment roll for said tax for said year. It shall be certified by the city clerk, who shall act as clerk of the board of equalization, as being the assessment roll for said tax, and shall be the assessment roll upon which said tax is to be levied in said year.

Chapter II—The Several Funds.

SEC 25. The income and revenue paid into the treasury shall be at once apportioned to and kept in separate funds, one of which shall be designated the general fund, and which shall consist of money received into the treasury not specifically apportioned to any other fund.

SEC 26. Except as otherwise provided in this charter, any moneys remaining at the end of any fiscal year in any interest and sinking fund or in a fund provided by a special bond issue for a specific purpose, the school fund, the library fund and the electric fund, shall be carried forward and apportioned to the respective funds for the ensuing year.

SEC 27. Any demand against the treasury or against any fund thereof remaining unpaid at the end of the fiscal year for lack of money applicable to its payment, may be paid out of any money which may subsequently come into the proper fund from delinquent taxes or other uncollected income or revenue for such year. Such demands shall be paid out of such delinquent revenue when collected.

Chapter III—The Custody of Public Moneys

SEC 28. All moneys arising from taxes, licenses, fees, fines, penalties and forfeitures, and all moneys which may be collected or received by any officer of the city in his official capacity, or from any department of the city, for the performance of any official duty, and all moneys accruing to the city from any source, and all moneys directed by law or by this charter to be paid or deposited in the treasury, shall be paid into the treasury. All officers or persons collecting or receiving such moneys must pay the same into the treasury daily.

No deputy, clerk or employe of such officer shall receive or accept any fee, compensation or payment other than his salary as now or hereafter fixed by law, for any work or service performed by him of any official nature, or under color of office, whether performed during or after official business hours.

SEC 30. Every fee, commission, percentage, allowance or other compensation authorized by law to be charged, received or collected by any officer for any official service, must be paid daily by the officer receiving the same, to the treasurer, except as otherwise provided in this charter. The treasurer shall place the same to the credit of the general fund.

SEC 31. The auditor or other proper officer must deliver from time to time to the treasurer, and to every officer authorized by law to charge any fee, commission, percentage, allowance or compensation, for the performance of any official service of duty, as many official receipts as may be required, charging therewith the treasurer or other officer receiving them. Such receipts must be bound into books containing not less than one hundred such receipts, and numbered consecutively, beginning with number one in each class required for each officer for each fiscal year, and provided with a stub corresponding in number with receipt. When the books containing receipts are exhausted by the officer receiving them, he shall return the stubs thereof to the auditor or other proper officer, in whose custody they shall remain thereafter.

SEC 32. When a receipt as herein provided is issued by the treasurer or other officer, he must state therein the date of payment, the name of the person making the payment, and the amount of such payment, the nature of the service for which the charge is made, and the name and official designation of the officer performing the service, and shall make corresponding entries on the stub of each receipt.

SEC 33. On the first day of each month the treasurer, tax collector and city marshal, and every officer authorized by law to charge any fee, commission, percentage, allowance, or compensation, must make to the auditor a report under oath of all moneys received by him during the preceding month, showing the date and number of the receipt on which the money was received, the amount of each payment, by whom paid, the nature of the service, and the name and official designation of the officer performing the service. At the same time, or oftener, if required by the auditor, each officer above named shall exhibit to the auditor all official receipts received by him during the preceding month, and all official receipts remaining in his hands, unused or not issued, at the close of business on the last day of the preceding month.

SEC 34. The demand of the auditor for his monthly salary shall be audited and allowed by the mayor. All other demands on account of salaries fixed by law, ordinance or this charter, and made payable out of the treasury, may be allowed by the auditor without previous approval. All demands payable out of any fund in the control of any board, commission or committee, before they can be allowed by the auditor or paid, must be regularly approved by such board, commission or committee. All demands on the treasury for salaries, wages, compensation of deputies, clerks, assistants or employes in any office or department must, before they can be audited or paid, be first approved in writing by the officer, board or department of authority under whom or in which such demand originated. Not later than thirty days and not earlier than sixty days before any general municipal election, electors of the city may, by written petition, present names of candidates for election. The signatures to the said petition need not be appended to one paper, but each signer shall add to his signature his place of residence, giving street and number when such designation by street and number can be given. One of the signers of each paper shall swear that the statements therein made are true, and that each signature to said paper is a genuine signature of the person whose name purports to be thereto subscribed.

Each candidate shall be proposed by not fewer than fifty electors of the city. No more than one candidate may be named in any one petition, and no person may sign more than one petition for a candidate for any one office.

SEC. 8. Such petition shall be presented to the city clerk, and if accompanied by the written acceptance of the nominee, shall be filed by the city clerk. He shall immediately examine the great register and therefrom and from certificates of registration shall ascertain whether or not such petition is signed by the requisite number of qualified electors; and if necessary the council shall allow him extra help for the purpose, and he shall within five days, attach his certificate to said petition, showing the result of his examination.

If by the clerk's certificate it shall appear that the petition has not been signed by the requisite number of electors as herein provided, it may be amended within five days from the date of said certificate by the further addition of names. The clerk shall, within five days after such amendment, make like examination of said amended petition and shall certify to the result of his examination.

SEC. 9. If the petition shall be found to be sufficiently signed as herein provided the clerk shall enter the name of the candidate so nominated in a list, and shall, not later than ten days prior to the election, certify said list as being a list of candidates nominated as required by this section, and shall cause said certificate, together with said list of names and the offices for which the candidates were respectively nominated, to be published at least five successive days prior to the election, in two daily newspapers published in the city.

SEC. 10. The city clerk shall cause ballots to be printed, numbered and bound, which ballots shall contain said list of names and of the respective offices as published; and the following caption: "Municipal Election, City of Alameda, (inserting date thereof). To vote, stamp or write a cross opposite the name of the candidate voted for or the measure voted on."

The names of the candidates shall be arranged on such ballots in the following order: "For Mayor, vote for one", "For Auditor and Assessor, vote for one"; "For Treasurer and Tax Collector, vote for one", "For Police Judge, vote for one," following with the name of any other office to be filled at that election except that of councilman, the names of the candidates for councilmen to be the last on the ballot; provided that at the first election held under the provisions of this charter the tickets shall read, as regards councilmen to be nominated at large, "Vote for two."

The names of the candidates for each office shall be arranged in alphabetical order. There shall be nothing on any ballot indicative of the source of nomination or of support of any candidate.

SEC. 11. The mode of nomination and election of councilmen nominated from wards shall be as is heretofore provided in this article with the exception that the signatures to the petitions for each such councilman shall be limited to those of electors from the ward in which the councilman resides, and each petition shall be signed by not less than twenty electors. The names of councilmen nominated from wards shall be preceded by these words: "For Councilman from ——— Ward" (naming the ward) "vote for one."

SEC. 12. Each ballot shall contain blank spaces underneath the printed names of offices, wherein a voter may write the name of any candidate for whom he may wish to vote.

SEC. 13. The ballots shall be printed on paper provided by the Secretary of State, which paper shall be such as is provided for use at State elections, and the form provided for State elections shall be adhered to as closely as practicable, and still conform to the provisions of this chapter.

SEC. 14. Each elector may vote for as many of said candidates as there are offices to be filled, by writing or stamping a cross in the square opposite the name of the candidate. The candidates in number equal to the number to be chosen, who have the highest number of votes, shall be declared elected.

SEC. 15. Any candidate nominated to fill a vacancy and to serve the remainder of an unexpired term, may be nominated as above provided, but such candidate shall be designated on the ballot as a candidate to fill a vacancy, and the term of the vacancy shall be stated.

SEC. 16. If any candidate who shall have received the highest number of votes shall prove to be disqualified, then the qualified candidate who shall receive the number of votes next highest shall be entitled to the office.

By Mr. Leeds:

Resolved, That a committee, to be known as the Los Angeles Delegation, be added to the Standing Committees of the Assembly; that to this committee shall be referred matters of interest in particular to the County of Los Angeles, but not to the exclusion of jurisdiction of other committees.

Resolution read, and referred to Committee on Rules and Regulations.

By Mr. Stetson:

Resolved, That the desk of the late John J. Burke, as a member of this Assembly, remain draped for a period of thirty days from and after his death as a mark of respect and tribute to his memory. The Sergeant-at-Arms is charged with the execution of this resolution.

Resolution read, and adopted by unanimous vote.

By Mr. Hewitt:

WHEREAS, One Edward J. Livernash, present correspondent for the "San Francisco Bulletin," has grossly, wantonly, and maliciously abused the privilege and courtesy extended to him by the two branches of this Legislature in the matter of the freedom of the chambers of the respective houses during sessions, and has grossly insulted each and every member of both houses by his scurrilous production, published in the "Bulletin" of the 22d of January, 1907, a copy of which is hereto attached, and has grossly, cruelly, and maliciously insulted the memory of the late Assemblyman, John J. Burke, and has falsely impugned the motives and purposes of the members of this Legislature in attending his funeral at Oakland on the 22d day of January, 1907, and has cruelly wounded the feelings of all the relatives and friends of our colleague just buried, by his false and scurrilous statements therein; therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly, That Edward J. Livernash be, and he hereby is, denied the usual press privileges of the Assembly Chamber or any part thereof, during the balance of this thirty-seventh session, and that the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Assembly be, and he hereby is, authorized and directed to prevent the entrance of said Livernash to the Chamber under the control of this Assembly, and to eject him whenever found therein;

AND WHEREAS, The said "Bulletin" is equally guilty of slandering the members of this body, and especially the name of our deceased colleague, in the publication of the articles written by the said Edward J. Livernash, therefore, be it further

Resolved, That from henceforth during the present session of this Legislature the said "Bulletin" be and it is hereby denied the privilege of having a press representative on the floor of the Assembly, or in any other room over which this Assembly has control.

At the request of Mr. Hewitt the following article, appearing in the "San Francisco Bulletin" under date January 22, 1907, was read by the Clerk:

TIME OF GRIEF IS USED FOR SCHEMING.

BOSSSES GET A CHANCE TO PLOT—TO SETTLE JAP ISSUE—NO STOPPING OF HERRIN MACHINE.

By Edward J. Livernash.

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 22—A calm is upon the capital today; for the members of both houses of the Legislature have gone to the funeral of John J. Burke, late Assemblyman from Alameda. In theory and by the formal record, they have gone out of an overwhelming sorrow over the passing of an honored colleague. In blunt truth, with disgusting hypocrisy in the presence of death they are there rather than here because in the judgment of a number of managers the attendance of THE FULL MEMBERSHIP beside an open grave would gain them (through the extended adjournment) needed time wherein to arrange a "programme" touching certain petty "politics." This miserable profanation of a solemn situation that ought to have given pause to worldliness, illustrates the charge of baseness made in an earlier dispatch, and is worth examining in detail.

The death of Burke was eagerly seized upon as a convenient means of escaping that "special order" and of gaining time for arranging a "programme" for the coal case. And so it came about that the Assembly "stood in" for the overwhelming sorrow, and voted to attend the funeral today en masse.

Ordinarily, the death of a member of a legislative body is followed by the appointment of a COMMITTEE OF THAT MEMBER'S COLLEAGUES to attend his funeral. That is the procedure which would have governed yesterday but for the anxieties of both houses over the pettiest sort of "politics."

Pretty wretched hypocrisy. California should gain noble legislation from the statesmen today bowed down with sorrow for the dead.

The resolution was then read.

The roll was called, and the resolution adopted by the following vote:

REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEE—(OUT OF ORDER).

The following report from standing committee was received and read:

ON RULES AND REGULATIONS.

ASSEMBLY CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, January 25, 1907.

MR. SPEAKER: Your Committee on Rules and Regulations, to whom was referred the following resolution by Mr. Lynch:

Resolved, That the Committee on State Prisons and Reformatories is hereby granted permission to visit the two prisons and the Whittier State School and the Preston School of Industry for the purpose of investigating their needs and the condition of their inmates, and the members of the committee are hereby granted leave of absence for said purpose.

Report the same back, and say that the proposed resolution does not comply with the requirements of Rule 78 of the Assembly in this, that it does not give the name of the institutions to be visited nor does it "briefly recite the occasion and necessity for visiting the" institutions. We are of opinion that leave of absence could not at present be granted to the whole committee without interfering with the business of the Assembly.

LEEDS, Chairman.

On motion of Mr. Johnson of Sacramento, final action on report was postponed until Wednesday, January 30, 1907.

RESOLUTIONS.

The following resolutions were offered:

By Mr. Devlin:

Resolution read and, on motion, adopted.

By Mr. Transue:

WHEREAS, The plan of sending out Assembly printed matter as provided for in a former resolution has proved expensive and impractical, and if carried out would entail an expenditure of thousands of dollars and result in burdening the constituents of the several members with a mass of printed matter in which they are not interested, and in most instances unsolicited; and

WHEREAS, The plan suggested in caucus by the Chief Clerk, to send the Daily History, containing the numbers, titles, and reference of bills, to the addresses furnished by the members, together with a letter prepared by him, directing the recipients to request such printed matter sent them as they may be interested in, is the more feasible plan; therefore, be it,

Resolved, That the plan of the Chief Clerk be carried out, and the State Controller is hereby directed to draw his warrant on the Contingent Fund of the Assembly in favor of the Chief Clerk for the sum of $400, said sum being for postage and expressage, and the Treasurer is directed to pay the same.

MOTION—(OUT OF ORDER).

Mr. Johnson of Sacramento moved that the remarks made by the Chaplain, the Rev. P. H. Willis, be printed in the Journal of to-day.
So ordered.

STATEMENT OF CHAPLAIN P. H. WILLIS, REGARDING CERTAIN ALLEGATIONS CONTAINED IN AN ARTICLE APPEARING IN THE SAN FRANCISCO EXAMINER OF JANUARY 23, 1907, UNDER THE FOLLOWING HEADLINES: "LEGISLATORS IN FROLIC ON TRAIN TO FUNERAL"

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Assembly:

I thank you for the courtesy which you have just unanimously extended to me in allowing me the privilege of denying upon the floor of this Assembly, the truth of, and stating the facts concerning, certain allegations contained in the newspaper article referred to above. Please allow me to read such portions as relate especially to myself:

"It seems that Chaplain P. H. Willis was dragged from his bed at dead of night by a crowd of roysterers, and that instead of rising in his might to denounce his persecutors, like a modern Jeremiah, he rather complacently joined in the fun." And again: "The roysterers were no respecters of persons, and Chaplain Willis was among those dragged forth in a nightgown. When they saw they had the Chaplain and had pulled him along sufficiently, Transue and Stanton relented, but Kelly was for giving the parson a drink and making him sing a song like the others. The majority prevailed, however, and the Rev. Mr. Willis was not forced to do his scantily-clad turn for the joying of the law-givers."

Mr. Speaker, these are the allegations, I will give you the facts:

Upon the evening referred to, I retired in berth No. 1, in Pullman "Modesto," about ten P. M. and was not out of my berth, either voluntarily or involuntarily till seven o'clock the next morning, and as to Messrs. Transue, Stanton, and Kelly, will say that I positively did not see either of them at any time during the night; neither was the privacy of my berth at any time invaded. There is not one syllable of truth in the allegation.

Mr. Speaker and gentlemen, to me this is not so grave a matter, for I know it to be false, but to my friends and loved ones it is serious. To you, gentlemen, it is grave, in that it calls in question your conduct as representative gentlemen. To the State it is grave, in that it stigmatizes the names of some of her chosen representatives. To my church it is grave, in that it impeaches the dignity of one of her most humble ministers.

With malice toward none and charity for all, yet because of the reasons above mentioned, I protest against the publication of such pernicious falsehood.

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE.

The following report from special committee, heretofore appointed, was received and ordered printed in the Journal without reading:

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON STATE PRISON REFORM.

At the thirty-sixth session of the Legislature of California, which was held in the year 1905, the Assembly appointed a special committee consisting of General Frank C. Prescott, Hon. Miguel Estudillo, Hon. C. H. McKenney, Hon. P. J. Arnerich, and Hon. E. J. Lynch, to report fully to the Assembly at its next session, to be held in the year 1907, in accordance with the following resolution:

WHEREAS, The special committee appointed at the last session of the Assembly to consider the question of State prison reform performed its duties in a most satisfactory manner and presented a report accompanied by a number of proposed bills covering a complete system of reform in the prisons of California, the Preston School of Industry, and the State School at Whittier; therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly, That a committee, consisting of the Speaker and four Assemblymen to be selected by him, be appointed for the purpose of completing the work so auspiciously begun by the holdover committee referred to, with instructions to investigate any changes or improvements in the construction or arrangements of buildings and in the system of managing the prisons, reform schools, and jails, and all places of detention for prisoners in this State, including in such investigation their system of keeping accounts, methods of punishment, dietary, segregation of inmates as regards both sex and age, and all other matters pertaining to the management of said prisons and reformatories, with a view to maintaining them fully up to the best standards of such institutions in the United States, and with instructions to report in full their findings to the next session of the Legislature. And said committee is hereby authorized to visit and investigate said prisons and reformatories, their systems and management, and accounts, construction, etc., with a right to examine any and all persons connected with said institutions, whether officers, employes, or prisoners. And said committee is hereby authorized to employ a clerk to assist them in their work. The Superintendent of State Printing is hereby directed to print such matter as said committee may require at any time.

Said committee shall be entitled to receive, payable out of the Contingent Fund of the Assembly, such sums, or sum, as may be necessary to defray their necessary traveling expenses, incidental to such examination and investigations, and such sum as may be required to pay the clerk employed by them under and by virtue of this resolution.

The committee reports as follows:

ASSEMBLY CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, January 24, 1907.

MR. SPEAKER: Your Committee on State Prison Reform, appointed by the Speaker at the close of the last session of the Legislature in accordance with the resolution passed by the Assembly, organized with the Hon. Frank C. Prescott as chairman. Later on the Hon. Frank C. Prescott resigned as chairman of the committee, and the other members thereupon elected the Hon. Miguel Estudillo as chairman of the said committee, for the purpose of completing the work begun by the hold-over committee of the previous session, with instructions to investigate any changes or improvements in the construction or arrangement of buildings in the system of managing the prisons, reform schools, and jails, and all places of detention in the State.

The committee, on different occasions, visited the penal and reformatory institutions of the State of California, the first visit of the committee having been made to San Quentin, in the month of March, 1906.

The different members of the committee visited the institutions of this State at different times separately, as well as in a body, making observations and studying the methods in the said institutions.

A later visit was made by the committee to San Quentin on the 18th day of December, 1906; and from all the observations made the committee submits a few facts which it believes may prove of some benefit to the public.

We suggest that in order to make a thorough study of the prison system the committees hereafter, if any are appointed, should detail a man to spend at least six months in visiting the institutions, staying several weeks at each institution, for the purpose.

We had heard a great deal of complaint during the last session of the Legislature about the supply of jute bags, and the complaint is audible even now. It has been stated that a good many of the farmers in different parts of the State could not get a supply of jute bags when needed, the same statement being made now; that the bags were being furnished to a favorite few, in violation of the law which provides that no more than 5,000 sacks can be furnished or sold to any one person during the season. In our investigations we have tried to be fair, we have not had any political axe to grind, neither has it been the intention of the committee to make political thunder for any party or faction. We have investigated this complaint and find that the sale of sacks at the prison is governed like everything else in the commercial world, by the law of supply and demand; that the demand in the last two or three years has been so great that it is impossible for the prison to keep up with it, and consequently a great many applications for jute bags which came in too late were not filled. We are not prepared to say that in some cases the law has not been violated by reason of jobbers getting control of the sacks; but in those cases, we believe it has been done by several farmers putting in an application through a local jobber, and allowing the said jobber to handle the sacks. Further, perhaps, the law can be amended, so that this evil may be remedied.

MANAGEMENT.—As far as the committee was able to see, everything in the prison was working in good order. The officers and the warden seemed to be working in accord, and the committee received the cheerful information that no opium was being introduced into the prison under the present management.

The bill of fare provided the prisoners seems to be substantial and wholesome, and we dare say that there are a great many people not confined within prison walls that get no better food than do the prisoners in our State prisons.

A comparison of the bills of fare of our penal institutions and those of other states convinces us that California feeds its unfortunate and bad men better than any other State in the Union, and far better than any foreign nation. We dare say that no foreign nation has such pleasant surroundings as our penal institutions. We are of the opinion that our prisons, with the faults that we seem to believe they have, are like palaces compared with those of foreign nations. We believe that the prisoners should have wholesome food; we believe that they should be treated humanely; that is, just as humanely as the existing conditions will justify; but we doubt very much whether a certain class, the yeggman, for example, can be reformed when they have a bill of fare, as the following, for instance:

MONDAY.

Breakfast—Oatmeal mush, boiled beans, syrup, bread and coffee.

Dinner—Baked beans, salt pork, steamed potatoes, bread and coffee.

Supper—Boiled beans, bread and tea.

Breakfast—Beefsteak, brown gravy, steamed potatoes, boiled beans, bread and coffee.

Dinner—Beef stew, beans, bread and coffee.

FRIDAY.

Breakfast—Oatmeal mush, boiled beans, syrup, bread and coffee.

Dinner—Fresh fish or salt cod-fish, bread and coffee.

Supper—Stewed dried fruit, biscuits, bread and tea.

SATURDAY.

Breakfast—Beefsteak, brown gravy, boiled beans, stewed potatoes, bread and coffee.

Dinner—Beef stew with vegetables and macaroni, bread and coffee, beans.

Supper—Rice pudding or spanish beans, bread and tea.

SUNDAY.

Breakfast—Boiled beans, corn hominy, steamed potatoes, three ounces brown sugar, bread and coffee.

Dinner 2 P. M.—Boiled beef, boiled beans, steamed potatoes, stewed dried fruit, ginger cake, bread and coffee.

We have known of cases where hoboos and yeggmen have deliberately thrown themselves in the way of the eagle-eyed officer for the sake of spending a few days at the city or county bastile. We have heard of instances where prisoners, after obtaining their liberty, have "with malice aforethought, etc," committed another crime in order to get back to our State prisons, they have liked them so well, so it is said. It will be understood that our remarks apply to those incorrigibles—not to those unfortunates who in a moment of weakness have yielded to temptation, and have fallen—to those veterans of crime that are beyond redemption; those who are bound together by an oath to commit crime to get a living by every and all means except honest labor; bound together by an oath stronger than that which binds the members of many of our secret societies.

The work of removing the hill for the building of the additions to the prison contemplated by the last Legislature, and for which an appropriation was made, is progressing satisfactorily, and the opinion of the engineer in charge is that it will be cleared away in about one year from the present time. However, the construction of new buildings will begin long before that. It is claimed at the prison that there are not enough persons employed in this work for the reason that they are employed at the jute mill and in other occupations to help in the management of the prison.

However, there are now employed upon this work a consulting engineer at $300 per month, an assistant engineer at $250 per month, and a general manager at $200, an assistant foreman at $75 per month, and a superintendent at $75 per month, making a total of $900 per month. It seems to the committee that this is a useless waste of money at the present time, when there is such a heavy drain, such a strong demand made upon the State treasury. It would be well to decrease this heavy expense somewhat and in some way.

We find that there are a great many young men confined within the walls of San Quentin prison whose education has been neglected in the past. The Warden is keenly alive to the situation, consequently he has established a school taught by the chaplain of the prison, and the young fellows are required to go to school two or three hours a day when they can be spared from the labors of the prison.

We found that the four-story brick building within the prison yard known as the furniture factory building is partly unoccupied and without use. We cannot understand, under the present congested condition of the said prison, why this should be so, as the said building in our opinion is one of the most substantial edifices in the State of California. It resisted the earthquake that crushed the buildings of a good part of San Francisco like so many egg shells. We respectfully recommend that the said building be put to some use.

The committee wishes to report that at San Quentin there are not enough houses belonging to the State to house the officers and their families. Some of the officers, with families, and some of the guards are obliged to seek houses to live in in the town of San Quentin. This is necessary, as the guards must live near the prison if they wish to live with their families and at the same time perform their duties faithfully. Now it happens that all the land within the prison area is controlled by a few landlords who seem to be averse to putting up comfortable houses for tenants to live in, and we understand that they do not wish to sell in order that others might put up buildings on the land sufficient for the decent accommodation of their tenants. The conditions are such that the employes around the prison have held indignation meetings, appointed committees to investigate and report to the State Board of Prison Directors and to petition the said board for relief. It seems that the only way to remedy the conditions existing would be through an appropriation by the State for the erection of a number of houses for the employes. It is estimated that it would cost the State about $20,000 for the erection of those houses. This investment would not be an entire loss to the State, but the State could reimburse itself from the rental of those houses to the employes, and the employes would be benefited, for their house rent would be only about half of what they have to pay at the present time. This would be doing justice to the employes, as we understand that their salaries are fixed on a basis which contemplates that the employes would buy their provisions from the State and rent their homes from the State at lower rates and prices than they could from private parties. The value of the property rented to the employes ranges from $300 to $1,200, for which a rental of $10 per month is exacted, and four families are crowded into one house, making an aggregate rental of $40 therefor. We are also informed that the exorbitant rent is not all the employes complain of, but that the sanitary provisions of the said houses are not the best in the world. It might be claimed that the guards and employes of the prisons could hire better accommodations, but it is the height of folly to expect this of men who get the salaries that the State employes at San Quentin are getting.

FOLSOM PRISON—Your committee visited Folsom prison on different occasions and find that conditions there are in very good shape as far as the management is concerned. The work of erecting the building for the incarceration of the insane prisoners is progressing in a satisfactory manner. The wall around the prison is also progressing in a fair and satisfactory manner. We doubt the wisdom of the expenditure entailed in the building of this wall as it will not be of any great benefit to the prison. We are told that the prisoners will be obliged to go outside of the wall to work after the said wall is completed.

Our idea is that the wall to be of any special benefit would have to be built to enclose a larger piece of ground than the present prison wall. We believe that the Legislature should, in the near future, make an appropriation to build a building for the Warden and his staff of assistants, as it is not advisable in our opinion, for the sake of safety, if nothing else, after the wall is completed to have the home and the office of the Warden within the prison wall. It is estimated that a house for the Warden would cost about $10,000.

We would also call attention to the fact that there will be no work for the prisoners at Folsom in the near future, and that the State will have to do something to keep the prisoners employed at this institution. We understand that it has not been considered good policy to establish any manufactories in our penal institutions, for the reason that the products of the same would compete with free labor. Granting this to be true, we would suggest that there are some lines of industry in which the prisoners can be engaged, and which would not compete with the free labor of our State. The necessity for the teaching of trades is apparent from the fact that such a large number of prisoners who can read and write have never learned any craft by which they can earn an honest living. Our penal institutions are a very poor investment, indeed, if, after supporting and keeping its prisoners for years it turns them out upon the world without a trade or without any means of making a living. We believe that this is wrong. They should be taught some trade. They should be made self-supporting, as it means a saving to the State of a good many thousands of dollars.

We would suggest the establishment of a toy factory at Folsom. We believe that it would be money well spent, and the investment would be amply repaid by the good the prisoners would derive from the same. We do not recall any industry in the United States that would suffer were a toy factory established at Folsom. Neither would a toy factory injure any labor in the State, as all the toys are imported into the State.

It should never be forgotten that reformation, even more than punishment and confinement, should be the object of our State prisons. But we recognize that some form of punishment is absolutely necessary. The Wardens and officers have not Sunday-school boys to deal with, but men who believe that the hand of every other man is against them, and theirs against society in general. If the punishment of prisoners is cruel, if the power of punishment is abused, the remedy is with the people—the cause and the blame for the abuse of power must rest upon the management. It is easy enough to remedy the evil. We know that it requires strong men to handle our penal institutions, men with nerves of steel, but human kindness is not wanting in strong men; and therefore, if any man at the head of our institutions proves to be a tyrant, a Nero, in administering the punishment necessary, instead of a wise, fair and impartial judge, his official head should be cut off.

PUNISHMENT.—The strait-jacket is still in vogue at the prisons, but we understand that it is used with more mildness than in the past. Now instead of putting a man in the strait-jacket all the way from twenty-four to one hundred and forty hours, he is confined in the strait-jacket not exceeding six hours at a time. The Warden stated to the committee that the strait jacket is used six hours on a prisoner; then it is taken off and the prisoner allowed to rest for six hours before it is put on him again. In some instances it is put on for two hours only.

PAROLE SYSTEM—A great cry has gone forth in the last few years that our prisons are being rapidly filled; that there is insufficient accommodations for those newly committed; that the segregate system should be adopted; that the congregate system gives opportunity for the commission of unspeakable crimes in the cells where several are huddled together. We believe that there is a method by which this congested condition of the prisons could be relieved, and that instead of building more and larger prisons, we should have some system of releasing the prisoners, and relieving, as stated above, the congestion. We refer to the parole system. We do not believe that sufficient consideration to the paroling of prisoners is being given or has been given in the past. (We say this without any desire of criticising any person or persons in particular.) The prisoners should be paroled, provided, of course, that they behave well in confinement. Except the vicious and totally depraved, prisoners should under the law and proper rules and regulations, be granted parole, if there exists a reasonable prospect of their becoming self-sustaining in some honest and honorable occupation.

We have the authority of the Warden that there are about two hundred men at Folsom who should be paroled at the present time. This is an argument in favor of the parole system that we advocate. Taking 200 men from 1100 now confined in that prison, it would leave 900. This means a saving of a good many thousand dollars to the State. A few facts will bear out our statement in this regard.

The number of persons paroled from San Quentin Prison from March, 1889, up to December 3, 1906, a period of 17¾ years is 223, while the State of Illinois paroles more than three times this number in a single year, and other states more than double this number annually.

The number of applications for parole up to December 18, 1906, was 526 approximately.

These figures are but an approximation, but are very probably correct or nearly so. The parole book and records were destroyed in the fire in San Francisco last April, in the office of the State Board of Prison Directors, and therefore accurate data on the subject is not obtainable.

Applications for parole on file December 18, 1906, twenty-six.

This represents but a technical readiness for parole on the part of ten of these; that is to say, while the technical papers were complete, that there was so little placed in evidence by the applicant outside of these technical papers that there was practically nothing for the Board to base their opinion upon at the time of considering these applications, namely, December 8, 1906, at which time there were 74 applications on file, all of which, at that time, were taken under consideration and acted upon by the Board.

CALIFORNIA STATE PRISON AT SAN QUENTIN.

Official Census, December 18, 1906.

Population 1,540, divided as follows:

Chinese	50
Females	26
Indians	10
Japanese	8
Negroes	66
Caucasians	1,380
On hand	1,540
At asylums	21
On parole	54
Total	1,615
Condemned	8
Life	187
Recidivists	323
United States prisoners	55

The number of prisoners actually in the prison on December 18, 1906, as shown by the above table, was 1,540. Eliminating recidivists, in the State of California, those who had several terms for felonies in penal institutions of other states or countries, United States prisoners, life prisoners, and all those who had not served one calendar year, there remained 653 prisoners in San Quentin prison on that date, who were eligible for parole under the existing parole law. Of these ninety-three had served terms varying from five to eighteen consecutive years, actual time.

Of the 187 life prisoners who were imprisoned in the San Quentin Prison on the 18th day of December, 1906, sixty-seven were eligible for parole under the provision of the parole law requiring that a life prisoner must serve at least seven calendar years, as follows:

Had served over 30 years, actual time	2
Had served between 25 and 30 years, actual time	4
Had served between 20 and 25 years, actual time	8
Had served between 15 and 20 years, actual time	12
Had served between 10 and 15 years, actual time	22
Had served between 7 and 10 years, actual time	19
Total	67

Of these 10 were Chinese.

Total eligible for parole, 720.

Total eligible for parole, 47%.

Life prisoners eligible for parole, 35%.

For some reason or other these prisoners are not paroled. We would suggest the organization of a separate parole board with the same power, for instance, as the Illinois board possesses of pardoning and paroling. We believe that this would be conducive to the reformation of men to a greater extent than keeping them within the walls of a prison. If men were paroled and given to understand that their future salvation and restoration to liberty was in themselves, they would be more apt to make a strong effort to reform themselves and become useful citizens of the commonwealth. It seems to me that the men that manage prisons should have no more power to let a man out of prison than they have to put him in there. They should have the power to recommend but not to parole. The gradation of prisoners should also be established, and in some instances the stripes removed as reward for good behavior. The committee has introduced bills which embody the ideas herein endeavored to be conveyed.

While we recognize that the prison authorities must have control of the correspondence of the prisoners, we think that in certain instances the letter privilege should be granted to the prisoners; this privilege to be based on good conduct, and as a reward.

WHITTIER—Your committee, in the month of December, 1906, visited the State reform school located at Whittier. This school is located in what seems to the committee an ideal spot for the location of such an institution. The State owns a tract of 160 acres of land, provided with 5 inches of water for irrigation purposes. A cement reservoir has been built, but additional water rights will have to be secured or purchased or wells will have to be sunk and a new pumping plant installed to meet the requirements of the near future. The buildings are good and sightly. The State has a lot of money invested in this institution and a good deal more in the buildings and in the machinery to run the institution.

We understand that an effort will be made to secure the passage of a bill providing an appropriation for the purchase of a tract of 40 acres of land contiguous to the State lands at Whittier.

While the purchase of this forty-acre tract would make the Whittier institution an ideal farm, we believe that the price asked for the land is high; that there is no immediate necessity for the purchase of the land. Further, if it should prove necessary to purchase the said tract of land, the institution, it seems, could wait until the treasury has more money with which to do it. The State is groaning under the pressure of demands made upon it through our late catastrophe and the increasing daily expenses for the management of the State government.

That the price asked for the aforesaid forty acres is high is evidenced by the language used by the members of the Board of Trustees, in their report submitted to the Governor in July, 1906. Say these honorable gentlemen: "The price asked seems very high, but it is well worth it for the State to own this forty acres, which lie contiguous to the State farm, etc."

During fourteen years, beginning July 1, 1892, and ending June 30, 1906, the State has appropriated for the support of Whittier $1,456,026, or about $100,000 per year. The average daily attendance has been about 334. This makes the average per capita cost to the State about $300 per year per child in addition to what the institution produced and consumed on the place.

We believe that this State institution pays; we believe that it will accomplish what it is and was intended to accomplish—the reformation of the bad boys of the country. The delinquent haled into court is the victim of circumstances largely. The authorities, like every other business man, should and I have no doubt do study the raw material from which they make the finished product, that of good citizenship. We believe the management at Whittier is doing this to the best of their ability and with the means at their command. We believe, however, that there is something lacking in the school system in vogue at Whittier—we refer to the manual training. That feature of the education of the Whittier pupils seems to have been overlooked. We recommend that steps be taken to have this defect in the education of the Whittier pupils remedied.

We recommend the building of a hospital at Whittier for the use of the school. The present hospital arrangements are inadequate. This was demonstrated by an epidemic of typhoid fever in the school lately. The patients were kept in a building necessarily occupied by the others who were not sick. Members of this committee saw three typhoid-fever patients in the building that is needed for other than hospital purposes. It is estimated that $7,500 or $10,000 will provide for a building which will answer the purposes of a hospital, and thereby prevent jeopardizing the health of the entire population of this splendid State school during epidemics.

We respectfully recommend that this be done whenever the finances of the State justify the expenditure. The provisions of the law passed by the last Legislature, and approved March 7, 1905, requiring the Board of Trustees of Whittier to cause all male inmates of the school over sixteen years of age to be transferred to the Preston School of Industry, have not been carried out. The reason for this failure is that the said board has not had the necessary funds to do it with.

The need for a proper parole officer for Whittier is best expressed in the following extract from the report of the Superintendent of the said institution: "A great part of the work accomplished by the school is lost in not having a proper parole officer who would visit the homes of paroled boys and girls and secure homes for those who, by their good conduct and satisfactory advancement, deserve to be paroled." We fully concur and agree with this part of the Superintendent's report. The officers of the school do the best they can with this feature of the school, but they have not the time or the funds at their command to attend to it in the proper manner that a parole officer could, with nothing else to command his attention.

We found the children under good discipline, and apparently in the happiest of moods, as was evidenced by their joyous laughter on the ball fields. The management of the school is good. However, we would recommend the establishment of a manual training school.

The charge had been made that the children had been or were cruelly punished, and one charge in particular was brought to the attention of the committee, namely, that of Mrs. Angelina Baker, who has or had two boys at Whittier. She claimed in a communication that one of her children had been beaten and punished until blood flowed from its limbs. The committee found that the child had been punished, but not in the manner charged. He had been punished for violating the rules of the school, once by running away, and another time for smoking cigarettes, both being in violation of the rules of the school. We believe the authorities at the school were fully justified in punishing the Baker boy.

THE PRESTON SCHOOL OF INDUSTRY.—This institution is situated near the town of Ione, in Amador County, and is under the management of a board of three trustees, each of whom is well qualified to perform the duties devolving upon the office, because of constant and intelligent consideration given to all of the many matters arising in the conduct of the school. They are doing their best to make this institution what its name implies, a school of industry—a place where the boy born wrong or gone wrong may acquire habits of industry and be taught the use of his hands, the use of tools, and the use of implements and the use of machinery, in order that when the time to leave arrives, he may enter the walks of life trod by his more fortunate brothers and become an honorable and useful member of society.

Here, the recall feature of the procedure of the juvenile court is proving quite unsatisfactory. When a committing magistrate recalls a cadet from the school he creates a dissatisfied condition of mind in those remaining in the school who have no hope of such leniency. In order that proper discipline may be maintained, all cadets should look forward to the same people and receive their discharge through the same channels.

The recall feature is well calculated to cause discord and dissatisfaction among cadets not recalled, while he who has a possible recall to look forward to cannot bring himself to a state of mind which makes it possible for either the influences surrounding him or the efforts of the teachers or officers for his betterment to have any satisfactory effect.

The Preston School of Industry should be put on a higher plane of efficiency by employing more officers and teachers and by paying better salaries than are at present paid. There are in its employ a number of skilled men mechanics and others whose help can not be dispensed with, and at this time when every class of skilled labor is in great demand, and wages are mounting higher and higher, the appropriation for support and salaries for the fifty-ninth and sixtieth fiscal years should be increased from $75,000 and $65,000 asked by the Board of Trustees to $80,000 and $75,000, respectively.

SEC. 8. When a bill is put upon its final passage in the council and fails to pass, and a motion is made to reconsider, the vote upon such motion shall not be acted upon before the next regular meeting.

SEC. 9. If any bill passed by the council containing several items appropriating money or fixing a tax levy, be presented to the mayor, he may object to one or more items separately, while approving other portions of the bill. In such case he shall append to the bill at the time of signing it, a statement of the item or items to which he objects, and the reasons therefor, and the item or items so objected to shall not take effect unless passed notwithstanding the mayor's objection. Each item so objected to shall be separately reconsidered by the council in the same manner as bills which have been disapproved by the mayor.

SEC. 10. In the erection, improvement and repair of all public buildings and works, in all street and sewer work, and in all work in and about streets, bays, water fronts, or in or about embankments or other works for protection against overflow or erosion, and in furnishing any supplies or materials for the same, when the expenditure required for the same exceeds the sum of five hundred dollars, the same shall be done by contract, and when let shall be let to the lowest responsible bidder, after notice by publication in the official newspaper of the city for at least twice a week for two weeks. Such notice shall distinctly and specifically state the work contemplated to be done; provided that the council may reject all bids presented, and re-advertise in their discretion.

SEC. 11. The council shall annually call for bids for doing city printing and advertising, and the contracts therefor shall be awarded separately, and to the lowest responsible bidder.

Provided, that the council may reject all bids if in their opinion the bid of the lowest responsible bidder is exorbitant, and may again call for bids, subject to the reservation hereinafter mentioned. If the council shall determine that the bids, secondly received are exorbitant, they may nevertheless let the contract to the lowest bidder for such portion of the printing as the board may determine, reserving the option to obtain other printing from such bidder at his schedule rates, and as to any printing not absolutely mentioned in the contract, the board may from time to time secure the same to be done by any party who may agree to do the same at a lower rate than that scheduled in the bid for doing the city printing; and in lieu of any newspaper advertising, may issue and publish a bulletin containing such matter as they are required by law to publish, sending the same by mail to the registered voters of the city, to their addresses as the same shall appear on the latest printed copy of the great register of Alameda County, and shall also post printed copies of such advertisement in three public places in the City of Alameda, at least five days before action is taken in response to said advertisement. Such mailing and posting shall be conclusively deemed of the same effect as if the advertisement had been fully published in the official newspaper of the city. The board shall annually designate as the official city paper, a newspaper published in this city. All provisions of this charter are subject to the provisions of this section.

SEC. 12. Every ordinance shall take effect ten days after its passage, unless otherwise provided.

The mayor shall return such bill or resolution to the council within ten days after receiving it. If he approve the bill he shall sign it. If he disapprove it he shall specify his objections thereto in writing. If he does not return it with such disapproval within the time above specified, it shall take effect as if he had approved it. The objections of the mayor shall be entered at large in the journal of the council, and the council shall, after five and within thirty days after such bill or resolution shall have been so returned, reconsider and vote upon the same. If the same shall, upon reconsideration, be passed by the affirmative vote of not less than two thirds of the council, the presiding officer shall certify that fact on the bill or resolution, and when so certified the bill shall become an ordinance with like effect as if it had been approved by the mayor. If the bill or resolution shall fail to receive the votes of two thirds of the council, it shall be deemed to be finally lost. The vote on such reconsideration shall be taken by ayes and noes, and the names of the members voting for and against the same shall be entered in the journal.

SEC. 14. All ordinances and resolutions shall be deposited with the city clerk, who shall record the same in a suitable book.

All ordinances of a general, public or permanent nature, and those imposing a fine, penalty, or forfeiture, shall be published at least once in the city official newspaper within three days after the same shall have become a law. The publication of all ordinances granting any franchise or privilege shall be at the expense of the applicant therefor.

Chapter III—Initiative and Referendum.

SEC. 23. The basis of the percentage in this chapter provided for any petition shall be the total number of voters appearing on the great register of the County of Alameda, as residing in the City of Alameda at the last preceding general election prior to the filing of said petition; and all voters registered at said general election or thereafter shall be qualified to sign the petitions herein provided for.

SEC. 24. Upon presentation to the council of a petition signed by qualified electors of the city in number equal to ten per cent. of said registered voters asking for submission to the electors of a measure fully set forth in said petition, being a measure that the council might itself adopt, the council itself must either enact such measure without alteration, or submit the same to the electorate at the next regular city election occurring subsequent to sixty days after the filing of said petition. But if such petition request the calling of a special election and be signed by qualified electors equal in number to twenty per cent. of said registered voters, then such measure, if not so enacted by the council, must be submitted to the electorate at a special election to be called within sixty days from the filing of such petition.

SEC. 25. If such proposed measure is a measure that the council might adopt except for the fact that it involves the repeal or amendment of a measure adopted by the electorate, as herein provided, and if in such case said petition be signed by qualified electors in number equal to twenty-five per cent. of said registered voters, then such proposed measure must be submitted to the electors of the city at the next regular city election occurring subsequent to sixty days after the filing of said petition.

SEC. 26. The method of signing and presenting petitions provided for herein shall be as follows: The signatures to a petition need not be appended to one paper, but each signer shall add to his signature his place of residence, giving the street and number or residence location. Each paper shall have attached thereto the affidavit of a registered voter of the city, stating that all the signatures to the paper were made in his presence, and that to the best of his knowledge and belief each signature to the paper appended is the genuine signature of the person whose name purports to be thereunto subscribed. Petitions shall be filed with the city clerk and by him presented to the council.

SEC. 27. Within ten days from the date of the filing of such petition in his office, the city clerk shall examine the great register and therefrom and from certificates of voters shall ascertain whether or not said petition is signed by the requisite number of qualified electors, and if necessary the council shall allow him extra help for the purpose, and he shall attach to said petition his certificate, showing the result of said examination. Each signature the genuineness of which is not called in question by the sworn affidavit of the alleged owner thereof, shall be presumed to be genuine.

SEC. 28. If by the clerk's certificate it is shown that the petition has not been signed by the requisite number of qualified electors as herein provided, it may be amended within ten days from the date of said certificate by the further addition of names. The clerk shall within ten days after such amendment make like examination of said amended petition, and if his certificate shall show the same to be insufficiently signed as heretofore provided it shall be returned to the person who filed the same, without prejudice, however, to the filing of a new petition to the same effect. If the petition shall be found to be sufficiently signed as herein provided, the clerk shall present the same to the council without delay.

SEC. 29. After the first special election held hereunder, no special election shall be held under the provisions of this chapter until after the expiration of six months from the date of the holding of a preceding special election.

SEC. 30. Whenever any measure is required or authorized by this charter to be submitted to the electors of the city at any election, the city clerk shall cause the measure to be printed, and he shall send by mail a printed copy thereof to each voter whose name appears on the great register of Alameda County as last printed and published, at least ten days prior to election; but the council may order such measure to be published in the official newspaper of the city in like manner as ordinances adopted by the council are required to be published, and may order that such publication shall take the place of the printing and mailing of the measure, as above provided. Ordinances and measures in connection with local improvements, the expenses whereof are to be defrayed by local assessment, shall not come within the operation of this chapter.

SEC. 31. Any measure that the council or the electorate of the city, as herein provided, has authority to adopt, the council may, of its own motion, submit to a vote of its constituent electors at a general or special election.

SEC. 32. Except as herein provided no penal ordinance or measure granting any franchise or privilege, and no ordinance or measure making or authorizing any contract (except contracts for improvements the expenses whereof are to be defrayed by local assessment and contracts where the subject matter involved is of less value than one thousand dollars), passed by the council shall go into effect in less than thirty days after its final passage. But ordinances and contracts declared by the council to be necessary as emergency measures for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health or safety, passed by a three-fourths vote of the whole council, and not obligating the city for a longer period of time than one year, may go into effect at the will of the council, or as otherwise provided by law.

SEC. 33. If within said thirty days a petition signed by qualified voters of the city, in number equal to ten per cent. of said registered voters, is filed with the city clerk, asking that any penal ordinance or measure granting any franchise or privilege, or making or authorizing any contract (except contracts for improvements the expenses whereof are to be defrayed by local assessment, and contracts, where the subject matter involved is of less value than one thousand dollars), adopted by the council, be submitted to the electorate, then such ordinance or measure must either be repealed or be submitted to the electors for approval or rejection at the next regular city election occurring subsequent to sixty days after the filing of said petition, or at a special election called prior to such regular city election; and if such ordinance or measure has not gone into effect before the filing of such petition, and said petition has been signed by qualified electors of the city in number equal to fifteen per cent. of said registered voters, then such ordinance or measure shall not go into effect until and unless adopted at such election, and no ordinance or measure once so submitted shall within one year be again submitted except by vote of the council at the next general municipal election, or on a petition signed by twenty-five per cent of said registered voters. Said petition shall be in all respects in accordance with the provisions hereinbefore specified in this chapter, except as to the percentage of signers, and shall be examined and certified by the clerk in all respects as heretofore provided.

SEC. 34. If a majority of votes cast by the electors of the city on any ordinance or measure referred to in this chapter shall be in favor thereof, it shall, if not already in effect, go into effect as a valid and binding ordinance or measure of the city ten days after the official count has been determined, otherwise such ordinance or measure shall be repealed or rejected. Such repeal shall take effect ten days after the official count has been determined. No ordinance or measure approved by the electorate under the provisions of this chapter shall be subject to veto, or be amended or repealed except by vote of the electorate.

SEC. 35. If the provisions of two or more measures approved and adopted at the same election, under the provisions of this chapter conflict, then the measure receiving the highest affirmative vote shall control.

SEC. 36. Whenever an applicant for a franchise, or other person, shall pay in advance to the city the expenses of a special election, the council must call such special election as heretofore provided, at which the proposed ordinance shall be submitted to vote of the electors.

SEC. 12. No demand shall be allowed in favor of any corporation or person in any manner indebted to the city, except for taxes not delinquent, without first deducting the amount of any indebtedness of which he has notice; nor in favor of any person having the collection, custody or disbursement of any public funds, unless his account has been presented, passed, approved and allowed as herein required; nor in favor of any officer who has neglected to make his official returns or reports in the manner and at the time required by law, ordinance or the regulations of the council; nor in favor of any officer who has neglected or refused to comply with any of the provisions of law regulating his duties, and he may refuse to audit the salary demand of any officer or employé for the time he shall have absented himself without legal cause from the duties of his office during office hours. FINANCE AND TAXATION.

Chapter I—Levying of Taxes

SECTION 1. On or before the second Monday of May in each year the heads of departments, offices, boards and commissions of the city shall send to the council an estimate in writing of the amount of expenditure, specifying in detail the objects thereof, required in their respective departments, offices, boards and commissions for the fiscal year next ensuing, including a statement of the salaries of their subordinates. Duplicates of these estimates shall be sent at the same time to the auditor.

SEC. 2. On or before the first Monday of June in each year the auditor shall transmit to the council an estimate of the probable expenditures of the city government for the next ensuing fiscal year, stating the amount required to meet the interest and sinking funds for all outstanding funded debts, and the wants of all the departments of the municipal government in detail, showing specifically the amount necessary to be apportioned to each fund in the treasury; also an estimate of the amount of income from fines, licenses and other sources of revenue, exclusive of taxes upon property, and the probable amount required to be levied and raised by taxation.

SEC. 3. The council shall have power, and it shall be their duty to provide by ordinance, a system for the assessment, levy and collection of all city taxes, not inconsistent with the provisions of this charter, which system shall conform, as nearly as the circumstances of the case may admit, to the provisions of the laws of this State in reference to the assessment, levy and collection of state and county taxes, except as to the time for such assessment, levy and collection;

Provided, that taxes on real property shall be due and delinquent at the same time that state and county taxes are now due and delinquent.

SEC. 4. Every tax so levied shall have the force and effect of a judgment against the person and property taxed, and shall be and constitute a lien upon the real property situated in said city so assessed or owned by the party against whom such assessment is made. Every such assessment and the lien thereof shall have the force and effect of an execution duly levied upon all property owned by the party assessed, or by the unknown owner of such property when assessed to an unknown owner. The judgment shall attach as of twelve noon, on the first Monday in March of each year, and shall not be satisfied or discharged until the tax assessed against the property is paid, or the property sold for the payment thereof.

SEC. 5. The city shall have such other rights, claims and liens for the amount of such municipal taxes as may now or hereafter be given to or exercised by the people of the State of California for and on account of the assessment of State and county taxes levied in Alameda County. The mode and manner of collecting such municipal taxes, and enforcing such tax lien, and the proceedings thereafter, shall substantially be the same as the mode and manner at the time prescribed by law for the collection of State and county taxes in said county.

Provided, that the council may, by ordinance, regulate the time or times and the method of the collection of said taxes within each fiscal year, and prescribe by what officer the respective duties appertaining to such collection and enforcement shall be performed; and such proceedings, sales, certificates and conveyances had, made, and executed by them in pursuance thereof, shall be of like force, effect and validity as is or may hereafter be given by law to like proceedings and acts in the matter of collections of State and county taxes in said county.

SEC. 6. All sales for delinquent taxes shall be made to the City of Alameda, unless otherwise regulated by ordinance.

SEC. 7. The council may, by an order entered upon its journal, extend for not exceeding thirty days the time fixed in this article for the performance of any act.

SEC. 8. All fines and forfeitures arising under the revenue and taxation laws as applied to the city, may, in civil cases, be recovered in the name of the city, and, together with all other moneys collected or received by any officer of the city, under said laws, shall be for the use of the city. When real estate is offered for sale for city taxes due thereon, the same shall be struck off and sold to the city in like case and in like manner, and with like effect as it may be struck off or sold to the State when offered for sale for State and county taxes, and the council shall have the same powers and duties in relation to such property as are given by law to the State Board of Equalization in case of a sale to the State, but no certificate or receipt need be delivered to the State Controller.

SEC. 9. No officer shall be required to send or transmit any statement or report to any State officer or board.

SEC. 10. All papers and instruments required to be filed or recorded with or by the county recorder by the revenue or taxation laws of this State, shall, under said laws as applied to the city, be, in like manner and with like effect, filed with and recorded by the county recorder of Alameda County.

SEC. 11. Whenever the council shall determine that the public interest requires the construction, or acquisition, or completion of any permanent municipal building, school building, high school building, sewer, property, water right, bridge, canal, tunnel or other public improvement, or utility, the cost of which in addition to the other expenditures of the city will exceed the income and revenue provided for in any one year, they may, by ordinance, submit a proposition to incur a debt for such purpose and proceed therein as provided in the constitution of this State and the general law or laws thereof, now or hereafter in force.

SEC. 12. Except as otherwise provided in this charter no money shall be drawn from the treasury unless in consequence of appropriations made by the council and upon warrants duly drawn thereon by the auditor.

SEC. 13. No warrant shall be drawn except upon an unexhausted specific appropriation.

SEC. 14. No contracts made, the expense of whose execution is not provided by law or ordinance to be paid by assessments upon the property benefited, shall be binding or of any force unless the auditor shall endorse thereon his certificate that there remains unexpended and unapplied as herein provided, a balance of the appropriation or fund applicable thereto, sufficient to pay the estimated expense of executing such contract as certified by the board or officer making the same. This provision shall not apply to work done or supplies furnished, involving the expenditure of less than two hundred and fifty dollars, unless the same is required by law to be done by contract by public letting. The auditor shall make such endorsement upon every such contract so presented to him, if there remain unapplied and unexpended such amount so specified by the officer making the contract, and thereafter shall hold and retain such sum to pay the expense incurred until the contract shall be fully performed. The auditor shall furnish monthly, and oftener if requested, to the head of each department a statement of the unexpended balances of the appropriation for such department.

SEC. 15. The amount of the tax levy shall be sufficient to provide for the payment during the fiscal year, of all demands upon the treasury authorized to be paid out of the same; but such levy exclusive of the tax to pay the interest and maintain the sinking funds of bonded indebtedness of the city, and exclusive of the tax to pay for street and sewer work and to pay for the maintenance and improvement of the parks, squares and public grounds of the city shall not exceed the rate of one dollar on each one hundred dollars valuation of the property assessed. The council in making the levy shall apportion the taxes to the several funds.

SEC. 16. The limitation in the section last preceding shall not apply in case of any great necessity or emergency. In such case the limitation may be temporarily suspended, so as to enable the council to provide for such necessity or emergency. No increase over the dollar limit shall be made in the rate of taxation authorized to be levied in any fiscal year, unless such increase be authorized by ordinance adopted by vote of the people or passed by a three-fourths vote of the council and approved by the mayor. The character of such necessity or emergency shall be recited in the ordinance authorizing such action, and be entered in the journal of the board. Nothing in this section shall authorize the incurring of liabilities against the treasury not allowed by law or which cannot be paid out of the income and revenue provided, collected and paid into the proper fund as its proportion of the same for such fiscal year, or permit liabilities or indebtedness incurred in any one fiscal year to be a charge upon or paid out of the income or revenue of any other fiscal year.

SEC. 17. The council shall, subject to the provisions of this charter, fix the amount of municipal revenues and provide by ordinance for the collection thereof. They shall, from time to time, provide for the payment of the interest and principal of the bonds for which the city is liable.

SEC. 18. The council shall authorize the disbursement of all public moneys except as otherwise specifically provided in this charter.

SEC. 19. At the close of each fiscal year, if all demands against each fund have been paid or satisfied, and all disputed or contested demands fully adjudicated, the council shall direct the treasurer to transfer all surplus moneys to the general fund, except such surplus moneys as are in the several interest and sinking funds, in the school fund, in the library fund and in such other funds the disposition of whose surplus moneys is in this charter otherwise provided for.

SEC. 20. The assessment of property within the city made by the county assessor of Alameda County and the State Board of Equalization may be the basis of taxation of the city, unless the council on or before the fourth Monday of July in any year, shall, by ordinance, elect to have an independent assessment made by the city assessor for such year; in which event such ordinance shall prescribe the time within which such assessment shall be made, and the method of making the same, and shall provide for such clerical assistance as may be required to properly prepare such assessment.

SEC. 21. Should any property in the city, however, not be assessed by the county assessor, the city assessor shall assess and enter the same in the "Subsequent Assessments" provided for in the next section.

SEC. 22. It shall be the duty of the assessor at any time subsequent to the first Monday in August of each year, to assess any property which shall not be on the regular list, and he shall enter such assessment in a separate portion of the tax list or assessment roll, under the head "Subsequent Assessments," and shall deliver a true copy thereof, duly certified by him, to the city clerk, to be by him compared with the entries on the assessment roll.

SEC. 23. The council shall meet at the usual place of holding meetings on the first Monday of September of each year, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, and sit as a board of equalization, and shall continue in session from day to day until all the returns of the assessor have been received. They shall have power to hear complaints, and to correct, modify or strike out any assessment made by the assessor, and may, of their own motion, raise any assessment, upon notice to the party whose assessment is to be raised. They may also, partially, or wholly, relieve from taxation any improvements, structures or fixtures used exclusively for manufacturing, erected or placed in the city subsequent to the first day of January, 1906;

Provided, that no particular property shall be exempt from taxation for more than two years.

SEC. 24. The corrected list for each tax shall be the assessment roll for said tax for said year. It shall be certified by the city clerk, who shall act as clerk of the board of equalization, as being the assessment roll for said tax, and shall be the assessment roll upon which said tax is to be levied in said year.

Chapter II—The Several Funds.

SEC. 25. The income and revenue paid into the treasury shall be at once apportioned to and kept in separate funds, one of which shall be designated the general fund, and which shall consist of money received into the treasury not specifically apportioned to any other fund.

SEC. 26. Except as otherwise provided in this charter, any moneys remaining at the end of any fiscal year in any interest and sinking fund or in a fund provided by a special bond issue for a specific purpose, the school fund, the library fund and the electric fund, shall be carried forward and apportioned to the respective funds for the ensuing fiscal year.

SEC. 27. Any demand against the treasury or against any fund thereof remaining unpaid at the end of the fiscal year for lack of money applicable to its payment, may be paid out of any money which may subsequently come into the proper fund from delinquent taxes or other uncollected income or revenue for such year. Such demands shall be paid out of such delinquent revenue when collected.

Chapter III—The Custody of Public Moneys.

SEC. 30. Every fee, commission, percentage, allowance or other compensation authorized by law to be charged, received or collected by any officer for any official service, must be paid daily by the officer receiving the same, to the treasurer, except as otherwise provided in this charter. The treasurer shall place the same to the credit of the general fund.

Such receipts must be bound into books containing not less than one hundred such receipts, and numbered consecutively, beginning with number one in each class required for each officer for each fiscal year, and provided with a stub corresponding in number with receipt. When the books containing receipts are exhausted by the officer receiving them, he shall return the stubs thereof to the auditor or other proper officer, in whose custody they shall remain thereafter.

SEC. 32. When a receipt as herein provided is issued by the treasurer or other officer, he must state therein the date of payment, the name of the person making the payment, and the amount of such payment, the nature of the service for which the charge is made, and the name and official designation of the officer performing the service, and shall make corresponding entries on the stub of each receipt.

SEC. 33. On the first day of each month the treasurer, tax collector and city marshal, and every officer authorized by law to charge any fee, commission, percentage, allowance, or compensation, must make to the auditor a report under oath of all moneys received by him during the preceding month, showing the date and number of the receipt on which the money was received, the amount of each payment, by whom paid, the nature of the service, and the name and official designation of the officer performing the service. At the same time, or oftener, if required by the auditor, each officer above named shall exhibit to the auditor all official receipts received by him during the preceding month, and all official receipts remaining in his hands, unused or not issued, at the close of business on the last day of the preceding month.

SEC. 34. The demand of the auditor for his monthly salary shall be audited and allowed by the mayor. All other demands on account of salaries fixed by law, ordinance or this charter, and made payable out of the treasury, may be allowed by the auditor without previous approval. All demands payable out of any fund in the control of any board, commission or committee, before they can be allowed by the auditor or paid, must be regularly approved by such board, commission or committee. All demands on the treasury for salaries, wages, compensation of deputies, clerks, assistants or employees in any office or department must, before they can be audited or paid, be first approved in writing by the officer, board or department of authority under whom or in which such demand originated. MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
SACRAMENTO, January 30, 1907.

To the Assembly of the State of California.

I have this day received the following telegraphic dispatch from the Honorable Senators and Representatives from California in the Congress of the United States:

"WASHINGTON, D. C, January 30.

"Hon. J. N. GILLETT,
Governor, Sacramento, California

"Delegation has just had important conference with President and Secretary of State. At their request we have wired Superintendent of Schools and President of Board of Education of San Francisco to come here immediately for conference. Entire delegation joins in request that you send for leaders in both houses in Legislature and ask that all legislative action concerning Japanese matters be deferred for a short time. We consider this most important.

"GEORGE C. PERKINS.
"FRANK P. FLINT
"W. F. ENGLEBRIGHT.
"D. E. MCKINLAY.
"JOSEPH R. KNOWLAND.
"JULIUS KAHN.
"E. A. HAYES.
"J. C. NEEDHAM.

In view of the apparent importance of this proposed conference and the great interest California has in the result of the same, I would respectfully recommend to your honorable body that the request of the California delegation in Congress be granted, and ask that all legislative action concerning Japanese matters be deferred for the present.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

He stated that there appeared in the "Sacramento Bee," of January 26, 1907, an article signed by Mr. Smyth, a member of this body, which reflected on the good character of himself and all other members of the Assembly and the Assembly itself. He then read the objectionable article and called upon Mr. Smyth, who was present, to affirm or deny that the words accredited him by the "Bee" were his own.

After several leading questions were put Mr. Smyth by Mr. Transue, which failed to evince direct answers, the following motion was made:

Motion carried, and such was the order.

SPEECHES ON LIVERNASH'S EXPULSION.

Mr. Hewitt was recognized by the Speaker.

Mr. Hewitt said:

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Assembly.

By the introduction and adoption of this resolution, if it should be adopted, it is not my desire to muzzle the press of this State, and I do not expect that it will have that effect. I recognize fully the power and influence of newspapers, and I appreciate their value in shaping and molding public opinion on any questions which they may discuss. But while this is true, I feel that there are certain rules of common decency which they should observe, and when they do not observe such rules I feel that it is my right and privilege especially when indecent and contemptible articles are published by them which concern myself or any body of men with whom I am associated, to defend myself from such attacks. I will add here that personally I do not care what they say or publish of me. I do not propose to take any different course on any measure which may be called to the attention of this body by reason of any criticism of myself which they may see fit to make, nor do I propose to act any differently from what I otherwise would do by reason of any favorable reports or flattery which they may see fit to publish concerning my actions. The only guide which I shall recognize, the only path which I shall follow in my deliberations and actions while a member of this body, will be that guide and path pointed out to me by the promptings of my own conscience as to what I consider right and proper.

But, Mr. Speaker, the article quoted in the resolution under consideration reaches further than a personal attack upon myself and upon the members of this Assembly. It is an attack upon the honor and integrity of every member of this body, and also an attack upon the memory and honor of our departed friend and associate.

Gentlemen of the Assembly, on Monday morning when I and the other members of this body voted to attend the funeral of our deceased associate, John J. Burke, I did not suppose that our motives would be construed in any other manner than that of showing our respect and esteem for the man who, until a few hours ago, was an honored member of this body, and a respected citizen of this State.

For one, I feel that the character of this man as a public and a private citizen justified us in attending his funeral. When I read the contemptible article in the issue of the "Bulletin" of the 22d, written by the correspondent of that paper, to whom we had accorded the privilege of a seat in this hall, I found that his fertile and degenerate mind had ascribed to the members of this body other reasons for attending the funeral of our lamented friend and colleague than those of desiring to honor and respect his name. We went down to Oakland, according to the statements of this wretched biped of humanity, to consult with bosses and to have a programme arranged for our future actions. What a slanderous statement! What a libel on the members of this body! What a contemptible insinuation respecting the memory of our deceased friend! Bosses! More than one half of the members of this Assembly never met the men whom this despicable cur has seen fit to denominate as bosses. As I read the article in question I wondered what the aged father and mother would think when they saw it. Yesterday, when standing by the grave of this noble boy, they certainly must have been comforted by the interest which this body expressed in being present to look with them for the last time upon the form of him whom they dearly loved. To-day, if they have read the contemptible article referred to in the resolution, they may have a doubt of our sincerity. We owe it to ourselves; we owe it to the memory of our deceased companion; we owe it to the sorrowing father and mother of our friend that we place ourselves on record as refuting the insulting and contemptible statements made against us by the author of that article, and I know of no way that can be more effective than by the adoption of this resolution. Nor is this alone sufficient. It has been my observation and experience that newspaper correspondents write only that which their papers desire them to do. I believe the article as published was just what the paper wanted. It knew it was publishing a falsehood and a lie, but that made no difference if it would produce a sensation. I am one of those individuals who do not believe that justice can be done by punishing a criminal who is simply performing the bidding of his principal and letting the principal go unpunished. I have more respect, if I may use that term, for the man who will do his own dirty work than I have for the individual who is too cowardly to do it himself, and who seeks to get it done through the office of another.

The "Bulletin" has violated all rules of decency by the publication of this article, and it should be denied any further representation by this body. I hope the resolution will be unanimously adopted.

Mr. Coghlan was recognized by the Speaker.

Mr. Coghlan said:

MR. SPEAKER: When the day dawned on the twenty-second of this month, day before yesterday, it is true that there was a calm upon the Capitol. It is true that these halls were not filled with the members from the various parts of this State; it is true we were gone from Sacramento; that we had departed, but I know of no other points in that article which are entirely true, saving those. There was a calm upon the City of Sacramento, a calm at the Capitol. Why? Was it as has been stated here, for political reasons? Was it as has been stated in this article because you and I, Mr. Speaker, and our fellow Assembly men who are here congregated in the Assembly, went over to petty politics? Was it or was it not? Can it be doubted by any member of the press? Can it be doubted by any member of this house? Can it be doubted by any member of the House above us, or by the great people of the State of California? Can any one doubt what our motives were in going hence, day before yesterday, in following him, to look once more upon his face, to offer, however humble it might be, our little prayer? Can it be doubted what our motives were? It seemed to me when I read this article, a most egregious offense had been committed by this man. This man Edward, or Edgar—I know not what his name is—J. Livernash. This man has occupied positions of honor in the great State of California. This man whom we would respect if we could. It seems to me the direst crime that he impugned your motives and mine, and the motives of those who followed with us, and those who were attached to this House, who were going over to look just once more upon Jack Burke. His desk is there, draped in mourning. It seems to me to be out of place; it seems to me not only that, but to be a villainous accusation, an accusation arising from what depths of iniquity, as I said here in this caucus, I know not; an accusation whispered in that man's ear by what devil from hell I cannot tell. An imputation put upon us which we can not overlook and which we don't blame these gentlemen for, who sit there among those desks in front of you, Mr. Speaker. I, myself am a great believer in liberty of speech. I believe in stating what you think at all times and at all places. I believe in honest utterances upon all occasions. I believe in just criticisms, and I am willing that they be unjust with me and with mine at times if they do not reflect dishonor upon me—if they do not reflect dishonor upon my dead. It is a distinct issue that we talk upon. It is something set aside from ordinary controversy. It is no attack that we make—we gentlemen of this Assembly—upon the press of California—a press which in the main has been fair and has been conservative and has been right; but it is an attack that we make upon him and upon the principal behind him—the man that sits and puts his hand upon his shoulder and says, "For this and that gold, you write this and that article, and you direct it against these people that are elected to fill their seats here in this Assembly, and there in the Senate above us. For this stipend and under this and that contract. We will pay you for it." This is why we arise to speak upon this question, and that is the reason why we reason this among other reasons. John J. Burke! I little thought when but two days ago we came here together—we, the Assembly and the Senate—when we delivered ourselves of our little eulogy, and we showed the people how we loved him when we followed him there—I little expected that there would be any man in the State of California, any man in the great Union of these States, that would make that statement which was made by Edward J. Livernash in his "Bulletin" of the 22nd day of January, 1907. Far be it from me, Mr. Speaker, and my fellow-members of this House, to inflict upon the press, from which I have had nothing but fairness—far be it from me to attempt to influence my fellow-members against those who sit there in front, and who deserve their seats. I have watched this man as he sat there day after day, with his black countenance, which bore upon it marks that were not human, that were not normal; that had nothing in it that bespoke the man. I have sat here and seen him, as I told that caucus, look out into the land of dreams, and dreaming what villainies he could perpetrate against us, and what dirty sarcasms and dreadful insinuations he could put in the press against us, and what terrible ignominy he could bring against you, my fellow members, myself, and you, Mr. Speaker. The paper from which he emanates, and I would that I could put that question by, the man that sends him here, this needs ought to be dealt with, and will be dealt with properly by San Francisco through me, for we have our grievances against him and against them. San Francisco, as you know, but a few months ago sustained a crisis that no city has ever sustained before. San Francisco, as you know, is now attempting, Mr. Speaker, to build herself up, to go back to that position which she occupied—to that position, rather, which she occupied previous to the eighteenth day of April, nineteen hundred and six, and she has been deterred in her progress and she has been prevented in her growth, and there have been thrown in front of her obstacles innumerable, and among those who stand first that have opposed her progress and her upbuilding stands the "Bulletin" of the City of San Francisco. I came here during the extraordinary session. There were men here that had been with me in the session of nineteen hundred and five who said to me time and again: "Coghlan, we don't think you are all thieves in San Francisco. We don't believe you are all grafters down there. We don't believe the felonious articles emanating from that paper. We don't think what they say is true." We are not all thieves, God knows. Gentlemen, if they have got anything upon me that can be exploited, if anything can be done to bring it into the light, and if I have done by my city, district or State what is not just, or what is not honest, let it be brought forth. I will plead guilty to it. But it is not done. It cannot be done. My little career, and the little career of this man, paralleling one another, he from one side of the Bay and I from the other, sons of the Golden State of California, both men for the first time were introduced into politics in nineteen hundred and five. Men who came here, not of their own accord, but whose friends sent them here. Why should their names be dragged down? Why should an article like this appear in a paper within my city? I have never in all my career been ashamed of my city or its citizenship, nor ever doubted its integrity. I love its citizens, because upon those gray hills which look out upon the Pacific everlasting, and see coming into this nation all that wealth of commerce, I was born there. Because of these things I have believed in her. But here is a thing—a cruel thing has been done—that not only struck me, that has not only inflicted a wound that I perhaps never could recover from, but reproaches me, and reproaches you and him for going there and saying good bye to him.

We had flowers here; but yesterday they were white; today they are purple. God grant that each day that little vase be filled as the session goes on. It is a reproach against him—it is not that I resent so much the unnecessary punishment inflicted upon my city. It is not that I resent the retardation of its progress so much, but the motive of the article—such as appears in that article—for going there and saying good-bye. My God, gentlemen! I loved him! Do you not believe it? And I know what your votes will be on this resolution.

Mr. Forbes was recognized by the Speaker.

Mr. Forbes prefaced his remarks with the statement that he was cautioned by the minority that he should not speak for its members, and continuing, said, in part and in substance:

Though I have been reminded by some of the members of my party that I can not speak for them, I will now, I trust, speak as a man, and address you in the language of manhood. I was a man before I was a Democrat. The circumstances and affiliations surrounding me might have determined whether I should be a Democrat or a Republican, but no matter to which side the scale may have been turned, I shall ever reserve the right to be a man, and will ever endeavor to discharge the functions of manhood.

When, on the opening of the present session of this House, I for the first time participated in its deliberations and expressions, daily experience and association with its members led me unalterably to the conclusion that it was a body of high purpose, imbued with honesty and integrity of intention.

A continued experience up to the present has not caused me for a moment to doubt the correctness of this conclusion, notwithstanding contrary and scandalous comments and accusations of a great portion of the press.

During the continuation of these conditions and pleasant relations, while the births of friendships were being ushered in, in some cases, and their more mature stages had been reached in others, none of us could have failed to observe among our number a young man of striking personality, with more than ordinary ability, added to a stern sense of responsibility, and an unswerving honesty of purpose. This was John J. Burke, whose memory we now cherish.

A sable pall has been cast over this House. The hand of the grim reaper has seized our comrade, and the cold damp kiss of death has sealed his lips forever. While hope was bright within his breast, honors waiting upon him and the just pride of honorable parents of declining years, we have consigned him to the tomb, and to the long sleep of death.

It was meet and fitting that this House, as a body, accompany his remains to the place of interment and there deposit them with the solemnities prescribed by those on whom this responsibility rested.

In compliance with ancient custom, and in accordance with our duty to our departed comrade, and in testimony of our sincere sorrow for his death, we reverently laid him to rest. While at the grave of our late departed friend, I thought of that young and useful life arrested in the midst of brightest hope by the remorseless hand of death; I thought of the sorrow-stricken parents who, in their declining years and departing strength, saw thus torn from them the worthy son of their love; I know the rectitude of my intentions and my appreciation of the solemnities of the occasion, and I doubt not that the rectitude of your intention and solemn appreciation of the mournful circumstances were not less in degree than mine.

Under these solemn circumstances and conditions, the subject of this resolution, actuated by an unconceivable malevolence of purpose, attributed to our conduct the basest purpose and the most abominable hypocrisy, and our sincere sorrow, silent and expressed, was mocked by groans of hellish derision, uttered by this foul bird of the night—this wielder of the journalistic bludgeon.

From time to time and habitually, the members of this House have been threatened by this journalistic bludgeon, wielded by certain members of the press, that should they support certain proposed measures, or fail to support others, they would feel the weight of this bludgeon, and be held up to ignominy and scorn, boldly stating that we were utterly devoid of conscience and principle, and intimating that nothing but fear of the consequences they threatened to visit could in any manner restrain us, and thus threatened the liberty and legislative independence of this House. This bludgeon in the hands of an unscrupulous press I look upon as being as dangerous as the physical bludgeon in the hands of the midnight robber and assassin, holding the timid in fear and robbing the worthy of reputations they had earned by an honest and upright life.

This bullying has and will have but little influence on my legislative conduct. No matter how I may be vilified, I intend to preserve my individual independence, and while acknowledging the power and moral influence of a just and truthful press, should my present conduct incite further unjust attacks, as it probably shall, I simply say, "Lay on, Macduff, and damned be he who first cries hold, enough." Aye, like Ajax defying the lightning, I would rather court destruction than lead for a moment a life of such intolerable servility.

Mr. Walsh was recognized by the Speaker and proceeded as follows:

MR. SPEAKER AND GENTLEMEN OF THE ASSEMBLY: It is with peculiar hesitancy that I arise to speak upon this question, hesitancy because of personal illness, and furthermore because I realize the feelings of this body on this question. But at the beginning, gentlemen, you must appreciate the fact that we are not here as individuals, but are assembled as a State organization, a State body, and therefore it is meet that you should disabuse your minds of any passion or prejudice that you may temporarily feel. Much has been said, and said passionately, and said with feeling, although doubtless with good motives, concerning the author of this libel, and a libel it undoubtedly was, when it questioned the motives of the members of this body in attending the funeral of our late departed member. At this moment let me say, coming as I do from the County of Alameda, and having been almost daily associated with him, that there is no member that held, and does now hold, the memory of John J. Burke in higher esteem than I. There is no member that more acutely feels the agony that must have been felt by his parents and his friends when they read the falsehoods that were ascribed to the members of this body in attending the funeral of John J. Burke. Waiving that for the moment, however, we are not here, as I said, as individuals, but as one of the great legislative bodies of this State, and it ill becomes us at this time to wreak personal vengeance upon the author of this falsehood; it ill becomes us to say that a certain newspaper shall be estopped from the privileges of this chamber. In the past public men have been falsely accused by the newspapers, and it is owing to that fact that the newspapers influence public sentiment as little as they do. No man having honesty of intention in his vote or in his motives can be injured by attacks upon his public action. I for one, and I hope I will not be the only one, will vote against the singing out of any one newspaper or individual and saying that they shall not be allowed the privileges of this Chamber. If we here, as public servants, so conduct ourselves that our conduct is satisfactory to ourselves, we have nothing to fear, because, gentlemen, today and in the past, it is not the candidate attacked by the newspapers who has been defeated, but rather the man whom the party organization recommends as just and honest that is elected, notwithstanding the attacks that are made upon him. And I say let us not exercise our passions, let us not wreak vengeance upon a single individual, at this moment I have been pained to hear the personal appearance of Mr. Livernash attacked in this session. His appearance, or what he has been in the past, makes little difference with us today, but my mind, gentlemen, goes back to a few years ago, when the car-men in San Francisco were struggling almost for their daily bread; when they were looking about for a leader who should voice their demands. It was then, gentlemen, that Edward J. Livernash came into public view. It was at that time that the men, harassed by their employers, demanding with a voice of feebleness their rights, that they found in Edward J. Livernash a leader, and it was owing to his efforts mainly that this great body of workmen in San Francisco received something like their just merits. Let us give the devil his due, gentlemen. No man is entirely black by nature nor deserves utter condemnation. The newspaper fraternity labors under the most severe disadvantages. Their employers demand of them articles that the public will read. This man under discussion in writing as he did, was simply endeavoring to fulfill the demands of his employer. Therefore if there is one man more than another who should be blamed in the matter it is the employer, and not the poor, ill-paid, proscribed newspaper correspondent. Gentlemen, I beg that you will not allow your passions to arise and say that this man shall not be present in this Assembly; say rather to yourselves, "We are big and broad-minded enough to withstand a slur of this nature, without foundation and without truth," and to the author say, "Remain and sin no more."

Mr. Johnson of Sacramento was recognized by the Speaker.

MR. SPEAKER: The eloquent gentleman who has just taken his seat says we should deal with this not as individuals. I agree with him. We are not dealing with this as individuals. For nearly three weeks we have been in session, and the columns of the news; papers of San Francisco have been full of denunciation of the individual members of this Assembly, and so far not one member has arisen to a question of privilege to denounce the accusations as false, as they were in every case. He says that this is a State organization. It is. He says this is an organization. It is. He says that this is a State body. It is. This is the Assembly of the State of California, and this attack was made not upon us as individuals, but as an organization—as the Assembly of the State of California. And we are repelling it now not as individuals; we are speaking here not as individuals. We are speaking as an organization. We are speaking the sentiments of the Assembly of the State of California, and we repudiate the slanderer, we denounce the libeler, we punish the criminal, we punish his employer, we protect our honor. We protect the honor of the State of California in protecting the honor of the Assembly of the State of California. (Applause and cheers.)

We have naught to fear as individuals. I may be pardoned here for a personal reference. For more than twenty years I have been the target for newspaper assaults; and I stand here today with never a defeat rendered against me in that period in the County of Sacramento, where I reside. (Applause.) We have no fear as individuals, and we fear naught. Every man is a judge of his own conscience and his own heart and his own actions, and every man can speak for himself as did our friend Coghlan. We are here, though, to defend the honor of this Assembly, and we propose to defend that honor because it has been assailed in the most wicked manner possible. The personality of Mr. Livernash is not an issue in this case. His past life, be it never so exemplary, is not an issue in this case; his future prospects, be they never so bright or so poor, are not an issue in this case. It is his present conduct only that is an issue in this case. And when the gentleman says to give the devil his due, we are giving him his due just as well as we can. (Great applause.) If we could do more, we would. (Laughter.)

He says that these hard-worked men who sit here and who take notes of us are not responsible for what they say or what they do. I am willing to admit it. (Great laughter.) And that is the reason why this resolution strikes at the right spot when it strikes the man that hires another to do the dirty work that the coward himself dare not do. (Applause.) He says that they demand articles that will please the public, and that the newspaper reporters, therefore, write with that fact before them. All right. If they accept the employment under such terms, let them accept the punishment also that comes to them for doing wrong. (Applause.)

The only question to be decided in this case, it seems to me, is threefold. First, have we the power to pass this resolution and to execute it? To that there can be but one answer. An unbroken line of precedents reaching from the Witenagemote of the Anglo-Saxon times down to the British House of Parliament and the Articles of Federation which governed the provinces before they made the United States, and an unbroken line of precedents in the House of Representatives and in the Senate, the unbroken line of precedents in this State, establish beyond peradventure that we have the power not merely to judge of our own members, but to judge who shall sit in the Assembly Chamber with us; and if we do not want the air of the Assembly Chamber polluted by the presence of libelers and blackmailers, we have the right to say so; it is our duty to say so, and put them out. (Applause.)

The next proposition is, is it expedient and is it right? These can be examined and discussed together. I lay it down as a proposition of morals, as well as a proposition of law, that it is always expedient to do what is right. (Applause.) Therefore, it is a case for us to decide. Is it right for us to take notice of this libel? Not because it assailed you, or you, or you, or me; not because it assails you or you; not because it assails any man, but because it assails all of us, because it assails the State of California, because it assails this component part of the Government of the State of California, because it assails the Assembly of the State of California, the body nearest the people; because it assails us all and imputes to us the wickedest and meanest motives that could actuate a body of men gathered together to do any work. Haven't we a right to repel that? Ought we to take into account anything except that which is right? Can we punish them in any other way? I say to you that there are but two ways of dealing with the matter when you are libeled by newspapers. One is to let it go as an individual, and the other is to kill the man. And no American jury yet ever convicted a man for killing a libelous newspaperman. (Great applause.)

Again, we as a State body, a State organization, a State Assembly, we as a part of the State of California, have a right to protect the honor of the State, and that is all we are doing now; that is all we are trying to do. But it is intimated in the gentleman's speech, and we heard it also outside—it is intimated that this will make Livernash a martyr. A martyr to what? Just picture to yourself, if he should be called into the presence of the martyrs of the world, who he would see and what would be his reception. As he entered the glorious hall dedicated in the laurels of fame to those men who are ranked as martyrs in the records of earth, he would meet a tall, gaunt, glorious-looking faced figure that would sit down by him and would say: "I am Savonarola, burned at the stake in Italy because I was a martyr to my principle." He would meet another who would say: "I am Claudius, and I was thrown to the lions in the pit in Rome because I was a martyr to my religion." He would meet another, and that man would say: "I am John Wilkes, who went to prison time and time again for freedom of speech in England." He would meet another, glorious in the Continental uniform, who would say: "I am Nathan Hale, and I was a martyr to my country." And then they would say to him: "You come here as a martyr; you come here with your pilgrim's robe and your martyr expression! What have you done that has made you a martyr, that you should enter into our midst and be a martyr?" And he would say to them: "I maligned the dead, I vilified the living. And I did it for money." Thus far only would he get when the martyrs would arouse themselves as one man and in unison say to him: "Out upon thee, thou viper. Get thee to Hades, there to be forever tormented. You are no martyr. You are a villain." (Prolonged applause.)

No man respects the free press more than I. No man will go further in defense of liberty of speech and freedom of the press than I. I carried the gun to protect freedom of speech and liberty of the press I defended—well, it was my fault—I defended one of these men in San Francisco against the charge of libel, and I defended others. I stand for liberty of speech and the freedom of the press to the highest and fullest extent. But liberty is one thing and license is another. Liberty of the press does not mean the right of these men to get behind the editorial “we” and denounce everybody that does not agree with them as wicked, as liars, as cattle, as thieves, as subservient to party bosses, as carrying a yoke, and as being led by the crack of the whip of the slave-master. No, no, no. And it is the most cowardly thing of all. There is no newspaper man—I care not whether he is here or not—there is no newspaper man walking the streets of this city, or of San Francisco, or of any other city of God’s green earth, that dares to say to the face of any one of us what he says about us in his newspapers—not one. (Great applause and cheers.) It is one of the most cowardly things that can be done. Upon my head has fallen that snow that knows no melting until the coming of the summons of Azrael, King of Death, which takes all of us, but I know that, old as I am, not one of them dare say to me, face to face, what they have said in their newspapers. (Applause.) I have that faith in God that he would give me the strength of the early Christian martyrs to die the death as it were, but to take them with me if they assailed me personally. (Applause.) So I say to you, it is the most cowardly thing that can be done, the most cowardly thing that can be done, to attack people as they do. I am not speaking of these gentlemen here; I am not speaking of any one of them. Not at all.

And you speak of newspaper proprietors ordering this to be done! Why, there sits a gentleman, the correspondent of the San Francisco “Call,” who treats people like a gentleman. And they interpolated in his report, in his letter to the San Francisco “Call,” a most brutal, infamous lie in reference to myself, as he will tell you if you ask him. So you see it is a newspaper proprietor that does this thing. It is not the newspaper reporter. And the newspaper proprietor, therefore, should be punished as we are seeking to punish him here.

We ought not at times to be amazed at this. For Him who spake as never man spake before upon this earth, or since, said “that a good man out of the good treasure of his heart speaketh good things, but an evil man out of the evil treasure of his heart speaketh evil things.” And these men are evil men with evil minds. No honorable man would have thought of what this man wrote. No honorable man would have published it. No gentleman would have written it. No gentleman would have published it. You do not want to associate with anybody unless he is a gentleman, do you? (Voices: “No, no.”) That is why we ought to pass the resolution; that is why we ought to pass it, if we can, unanimously. If we can not, let us get as many votes as we can for it, and let those that voted for it say to themselves, as did our forefathers when they pledged their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honor in defense of the Declaration of Independence—let’s say that we are doing this not as individuals, we are doing this to protect our honor, the honor of the Assembly, the honor of the State of California, and to put the seal of condemnation of this Assembly upon the blackmailer and the libeler, whether he be the hired assassin or the wicked wretch that hired the assassin. (Prolonged applause.)

PRESENTATION OF PETITIONS.

The following petition from the California State Health Association was received, and ordered printed in the Journal:

To the Honorable California State Legislature, Sacramento, California.

We, the members of the California State Health Association, would respectfully represent to your honorable body as follows:

That, within the Republic of Mexico, and near the line separating that Republic from the United States, at all times, there exists that dread disease, smallpox, and other contagious and infectious diseases. And by reason of the absence of quarantine stations and proper sanitary measures protecting us, and by reason of the unrestricted intermigration between the two countries, that portion of the United States that lies next to Mexico, has a zone of variable width within which smallpox and other contagious and infectious diseases are at all times prevalent, and are transmitted across the boundary line and carried by those infected to interior points, which become centers of infection for the spread of these diseases.

That upon our sea coast, at ports of entry, quarantine and other sanitary measures are established to protect our borders against the entry of disease from foreign countries. But there is no protection to our southwest border against the ever present scourge of smallpox and other contagious and infectious diseases in Mexico.

That it is the belief of this Association that full protection against smallpox, and other contagious and infectious diseases prevalent in Mexico can be secured only by the action of our National Congress cooperating with the Mexican Government, with a common purpose of stamping out such diseases along the international line, and to prevent their introduction from one country to the other.

The undersigned further believe, and so represent, that an international agreement establishing a zone along the boundary line of the two mentioned governments, or nations, in which compulsory vaccination and other sanitary precautions as the powers might establish, would secure the end desired.

Finally, that your honorable body is the proper medium through which to effect the result desired, and to which end we pray, that you will bring the matter before Congress by memorial, or in such other manner as your honorable body may deem most likely to effect the end desired.

Sec. 148. All contracts for the performance or furnishing of labor, material or supplies, required for the execution of any service of which the Board of Public Works has charge, superintendence or control, or for the construction or completion of any work or improvement of the construction or completion of which said board has charge, superintendence or control, except public work or improvements, the cost or expenses of which are to be paid by assessment upon property in proportion to frontage or benefits and except as hereinafter provided, shall be let and entered into in behalf of the city by the board in the following manner:

Every such contract shall first be authorized by resolution passed by a vote of two thirds of the members of the whole council. The board shall, except in cases of urgent necessity, as hereinafter provided, upon the passage of the resolution authorizing such contract, cause a notice to be posted conspicuously in its office and published one or more times in a newspaper of general circulation printed and published in the City of Los Angeles, inviting sealed bids for the performance or furnishing of the labor, service, materials or supplies required. Said notice shall require the bids to be filed with the board at or before a certain hour of a day to be specified in the notice, and shall contain a general description of the work, service, materials or supplies to be performed or furnished, and the amount of the bond to be given for the faithful performance of the contract, and shall refer to plans and specifications on file in the office of the board for full details and description of said work, service, materials or supplies.

Said notice shall require each bid to be accompanied by a check certified by a responsible bank, payable to the order of the president of the board for an amount not less than five per cent. of the aggregate sum of the bid, or by a satisfactory bond for the said amount and so payable, as a guarantee that the bidder will enter into the proposed contract if the same is awarded to him, and the form and manner of making bids may, in all other respects, be prescribed in said notice, and no bid

On the day and at the hour specified in the notice inviting bids the board shall meet and in open session examine and publicly declare the bids received. The board shall award the contract to the lowest regular, responsible bidder, or shall reject all bids. The board shall reject the bid of any party who has been delinquent or unfaithful in the performance of any former contract with the city, and shall reject all bids other than that of the lowest regular, responsible bidder. Upon rejecting any bids the board shall return to the proper parties the checks accompanying the rejected bids. The check accompanying the accepted bid shall be held by the secretary of the board until the contract for performing the work or service or furnishing the materials or supplies proposed to be done or furnished has been entered into. If the successful bidder fails to enter into the contract, or to execute the bond required for the faithful performance thereof, within ten days after the same is awarded to him, then the certified check accompanying his bid shall be presented for payment and collected, and the amount thereof paid into the general funds of the city. Every contract entered into by the board shall first be approved as to form by the City Attorney, and shall contain detailed specifications and plans of the work or service to be done, the manner in which it is to be performed, and the quantity and kind of materials or supplies to be used or furnished, or shall refer to such specifications and plans on file in the office of the board. When any repairs, alterations, work or improvement shall be deemed of urgent necessity by the board, a contract for the performance or furnishing of the labor, materials or supplies required therefor may be made by the board in behalf of the city, in writing or otherwise, without advertising for or inviting bids; provided, that if the contract for the furnishing of the labor, materials or supplies so required, involves an expenditure of more than $500, the resolution of the council authorizing the same, shall, before it takes effect, be approved by the Mayor; provided, however, that authorization or approval by the council or the Mayor shall not be required in the case of any contract proposed to be made by the board, after advertisement for and inviting bids, as above provided, for the performance or furnishing of labor, materials or supplies required for the construction or completion of any work or improvement, of the construction or completion of which the said board has charge, superintendence or control, and the cost of which is to be paid from the proceeds of bonds issued and sold by the city; and provided, further, that authorization or approval by the council or Mayor, or advertisement for or inviting bids shall not be required in the case of any contract proposed to be made by the board for the performance or furnishing of labor, materials or supplies required as aforesaid, when such contract does not involve an expenditure of more than five hundred dollars.

Sec. 150. The Board of Public Works shall present to the City Council at its meeting in the second week of December in each year, a report for the year ending on the thirtieth day of November next preceding, which shall show the amount of money received from the sale of bonds, the purposes for which such money has been expended, the amount so expended, and the balance on hand in each bond fund, and also, such information and suggestions as it may deem of general interest; and the Board of Public Works shall also, on or before the tenth day of each month make out and present to the City Council a similar statement of all expenditures during the preceding month of the moneys derived from the sale of bonds.

That a new section be added to the charter, to be known as Section 151, to read as follows

Sec 151 When the construction or completion of any public work or improvement, the cost of which is to be paid out of the proceeds of the sale of bonds, is to be carried on outside the City of Los Angeles, and the Board of Public Works shall deem it necessary or convenient that any part of the money to be expended for the cost of such work or improvements shall be disbursed at any point or points outside said city, said board may appoint a disbursing agent, whose duty it shall be to disburse such money, in the manner hereinafter specified. The said disbursing agent shall enter into and deliver to the said board a bond payable to the city, in a sum to be fixed by said board, conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties, executed by himself, and by a responsible surety company, or if required by the board, by two or more sufficient sureties approved by the board, and said board may, from time to time, require from said disbursing agent, a new bond, or such additional bond as it may deem proper. Said board shall, after the execution and delivery of such bond, by resolution, authorize the payment and delivery to said disbursing agent of such sum of money as it may deem proper, and said sum shall thereupon be paid to said disbursing agent by the City Treasurer upon a demand approved by the board as in other cases out of the fund from which the cost of said work or improvement is to be paid, and the receipt of said disbursing agent therefor shall release the City Treasurer from all liability for the money so paid; provided, however, that said board shall not authorize the payment to said disbursing agent of any money which, together with the moneys already paid to him and remaining unexpended as herein provided, shall exceed fifty per cent of the amount of the bond of said disbursing agent.

That said disbursing agent shall thereafter pay out said money as may be required in the prosecution of said work for services or for material and supplies, but no money shall be paid by him except upon order of said Board of Public Works and upon vouchers or demands certified to be correct by the officer or agent of the city under whose direction the services are rendered or the materials or supplies used.

Said disbursing agent shall, on or before the tenth day of each calendar month, and at such other times as may be required by said Board of Public Works, render to said board an account showing the amount of money in his hands on the first day of the preceding calendar month, all amounts received, and all moneys disbursed by him during said preceding month, and the amount of money remaining in his hands on the last day of said preceding month.

Said disbursing agent shall perform such other duties and comply with such rules and regulations as the Board of Public Works may prescribe. Said agent shall be exempt from the provisions of the civil service, and shall receive such salary as the council by ordinance may fix.

That section two hundred and nine of the charter, be amended to read as follows:

Sec. 209. Said demands, except demands payable out of the School Fund, the Library Fund, Water Revenue Fund or funds derived from the sale of bonds issued by the City of Los Angeles, shall be presented to the council on forms and blanks to be provided by the City Clerk, and shall be referred to its Committee on Finance. The said committee shall, by endorsement thereon, approve or reject the same in whole or in part. The council shall then consider the said demands and the action of said committee thereon, and shall, if the same be just and legal, approve the same; or may, if it so determine, approve in part or reject the whole. The action of the council shall be endorsed thereon, with the date of such action, and certified by the signature of the President and City Clerk; provided, that it shall require the votes of two-thirds of the members of the whole council, under a call of the ayes and noes, and the vote spread upon the minutes, to approve any such demand in whole or in part.

That a new section be added to the charter, to be known as section two hundred thirteen and three-quarters, and to read as follows:

Sec. 213¾. All demands payable out of funds derived from the sale of bonds issued by the City of Los Angeles to pay the cost of constructing or completing any public work, improvement or building must be presented to the Board of Public Works, and, before they can be approved by the City Auditor or paid, must be previously approved by the Board of Public Works, by a vote of two members thereof, taken by the ayes and noes, spread upon the minutes of the board, and the action of said board must be endorsed on said demand by the president and secretary thereof, or in the absence of the president, by two members and the secretary thereof. After the approval of said demands by the Board of Public Works, they shall be delivered to the City Auditor, who shall have the same power and perform the same duties in reference to demands payable out of funds derived from the sale of bonds, as are prescribed for other demands; provided, that in case the City Auditor shall reject any of such demands, or if, in his opinion, said demands should be paid only in part, he shall return the same to the Board of Public Works, instead of to the council.

That section two hundred fourteen of the charter be amended to read as follows:

Sec. 214. Any demand returned to the City Clerk, with the objections of either the Mayor or City Auditor, shall again be considered by the council, and if it shall again be approved by the council by the same vote taken and recorded and endorsed in the same manner as required by Section 209 hereof, the said objection shall be thereby overruled. Any demand returned to the Board of Education, the Board of Directors of the Los Angeles Public Library, the Board of Public Works, or the Board of Water Commissioners, with the objections of the Auditor, shall again be considered by such board, and if such demand be again approved, as required in the first instance, such objections of the said Auditor shall be thereby overruled. Any demand, the objections to which of the Mayor have been overruled, shall be delivered to the City Auditor, who shall have the same power and perform the same duties in reference thereto as if the same had been approved by the Mayor. Any demand the objection to which of the City Auditor has been overruled by the council, the Board of Education, the Board of Directors of the Los Angeles Public Library, the Board of Public Works, or the Board of Water Commissioners, as the case may be, shall be delivered to the City Auditor, who shall number and make a record of such demand, as in the case of demands approved by him.

That section two hundred twenty-two of the charter be amended to read as follows:

Sec. 222. No suit shall be brought on any claim for money or damages against the City of Los Angeles, its Board of Education, Board of Directors of the Los Angeles Public Library, Board of Public Works, or the Board of Water Commis-

Nor shall any suit be brought against said city, or said Board of Education, Board of Directors of the Los Angeles Public Library, Board of Public Works, or Board of Water Commissioners, upon any claim or demand that has been in whole approved and audited as provided herein: provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed so as to deprive the holder of any demand of his right to resort to a writ of mandamus or other proceedings against the City Council, or any board or officer of said city, to compel it or him to act upon such claim or demand or to pay the same when so audited.

1829 Whenever in the judgment of the board of trustees or board of education of any school district there will not be sufficient money in the funds of the district to make needed repairs to school buildings, or to build additions thereto, or to improve the school grounds, or to buy furniture, books, supplies, or apparatus, or to pay the salaries of teachers or janitors, or to pay the tuition at any high school of any pupil residing in said district, or to pay for the transportation, to and from school, of such pupils as may seem to such board to be in need of such transportation, they may, at any regular meeting held between the 1st day of May and the 20th day of July of any calendar year, adopt a resolution reciting that the necessities of the district require an additional sum (naming it) for the purpose or purposes stated therein. Notice of the passage of such resolution shall be posted conspicuously in three public places within such district, and also at the door of each school house within the district, for not less than three weeks after its adoption. At the expiration of the period of posting, the clerk of the board of trustees, or board of education, shall transmit a copy of the resolution, a copy of the posted notices, and an affidavit reciting the time from which to which the notices were posted and the places where such notices were posted, to the county, or city and county, superintendent of schools. Unless a protest against the levying of such tax is made, signed by at least 40 per cent of the heads of families residing in the district as determined by the last preceding school census, and filed with the county, or city and county, superintendent of schools, within the period when said notices are posted, the county, or city and county, superintendent of schools shall transmit said copy of the resolution, copy of the posted notices, and the affidavit of posting, together with his certificate, certifying that a sufficient protest has not been filed in his office within the legal time, to the board of supervisors. At the time of fixing the annual tax levy the board of supervisors shall levy a tax upon the assessable property of the district making the request, levying the same in the manner required by Section 1837 of this Code, provided that if the rate required to produce the given sum would exceed twenty-five cents on the one hundred dollars of assessed valuation, then the rate shall be fixed at twenty-five cents on the one hundred dollars of assessed valuation. Such tax, when collected, shall be placed to the credit of the special fund of the district in which it is levied. Instead of the exercise of the power conferred by this section, proceedings may be taken as provided in the succeeding sections of this article. In the event that an attempt to exercise the power conferred by this section is defeated by petition as provided herein, the board of trustees or board of education may thereafter take such measures as are provided for in succeeding sections of this article.
